PLAN 1923 INCOME TAX CUT

LELANDS' FATE MAY TAKE ANY OF THREE PATHS

Futility? Divorce? or Reunion?

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

This afternoon, when the legal climax of the Albert R. Leland divorce case brings Judge Charles M. Foell to the point of decision, he will have three judicial possibilities, two entirely for him to decide, the third depending on the consent of Leland and Dr. Carl D. Case, the pastor he named, sensationally, as co-respondent.

The three possibilites are:

1 Denial of the divorce on grounds of insufficient evidence based on the statements by the alleged "dream world" inhabitant.

2 Decree of divorce on the testimony of the confessed "repentant but loving" wife that she is guilty of misconduct with her minister.

3 A legal reconciliation between the Lelands following a dismissal of the husband's divorce bill.

Reconciliation Unlikely.

Unless there is a reconciliation, which seemed improbable last night, arguments of counsel will be heard, with no further taking of testimony. Plea for denial of divorce will be based on the following factors:

The evidence given by Mrs. Leland.

The mental condition, with alienists' two to one ratio of mental derangement against a border line case.

The rule of law that a divorce cannot be given on a confession alone, unless the court is convinced beyond question of its truth and sincerity.

Charges Must Be Proved.

The further point will be presented that a default divorce case, one wherein the accused makes no defense, cannot be granted unless there is no room left for reasonable doubt as to causes alleged.

The suggested reconciliation puts a pretty problem up to Leland. Under the reported terms, he gets a public opinion indictment of the minister, more scathing perhaps than a court judgment. But the reconciliation with the wife who still loves him precludes any idea of a possible marriage with the "other woman," who, according to Attorney Frederick A. Brown, friend of the court, still is in the background.

Rival Counsel Are Undecided.

Between this trio of alternatives speculation rippled yesterday. Even counsel for Leland and for Dr. Case, it was learned, fluctuated in their opinions as to what they wished to do.

The so-called reconciliation, initiated Tuesday night, fell through yesterday morning, it was rumored, because Dr. Case refused to agree to the terms by which Leland, through Attorney Milford Olds, would dismiss the bill.

Those terms, it is reported, insist that Dr. Case leave his pulpit at the First Baptist church in Oak Park, get out of the ministry and move away from the suburb. The change from minister to layman, according to the rumored demands of Leland, must be clear and distinct, with a definite resignation. There can be no tapering off, aided by a journey to California, a leave of absence, a development of ill health and a gradual fadeout.

Wants Case Out of Pulpit.

While refusing to admit, specifically, the terms of this tentative plan counsel for Leland denied any charges that the former deacon of the Baptist church, was demanding his pound of flesh. They recalled, however, Leland's testimony on the stand, when he said, vehemently.

"At the time the committee investigated, I said I wanted to drive that man out of his pulpit and out of the ministry. I told them I had no objection to his going into business, but in another city. I still am of that opinion."

Wrangling all morning, behind closed doors in Judge Foell's chambers, the attorneys succeeded in reaching an amicable agreement. So, shortly before noon, the doors opened and the men took their places in court. And in a few moments Harold Leland was called to the stand.

Decision Rests with Case.

Throughout the morning Mrs. Leland had sat, legally helpless to interject herself into the controversy. All question of a reconciliation between her and her husband depend, strangely enough, on Dr. Case, the man who, according to her own confession, separated them and broke up a "happily married couple."

If Dr. Case agreed to the private stigma imposed by Leland, in lieu of a possible legal stamp of guilt to be

LETTERS SHOW AGED CANDLER ARDENT SUITOR

Read in Half Million Damage Suit.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 30.—Asa G. Candler, millionaire founder of the Coca-Cola fortunes, was as ardent a lover as he was a successful man. This was revealed today when his letters to Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel of New Orleans were read in court. It was the first day of the hearing of her suit against the 72 year old magnate for $500,000 for breach of promise.

In these letters, which were addressed to "Sweetum" with many endearing adjectives, Candler revealed that he has given away nine-tenths of his immense fortune to the church, to philanthropic enterprises, and to his children, but that he had enough left to maintain himself and the New Orleans belle whom he planned to make his wife in plenty.

Through these letters runs the gamut of human emotions, love, fear, jealousy, opposition, suspicion, and a great consuming longing for the woman he had chosen as his own.

Constant Terms of Endearment.

Thirteen letters in all were introduced today. The majority of them were addressed to Mrs. De Bouchel as "My Dear Sweetum." Others were addressed to "My Own Dear Sweetie" and "My Very Precious Sweetum."

Replying to a short telegraphed message from Mrs. De Bouchel, when the course of true love was not running as smoothly as could be desired, due to the position of Candler's friends and relatives, Candler wrote to her:

"My Dear Sweetum: And I am to be the master of your heart! My, my, how great a tribute to me. I never imagined that I would ever master the heart of a queen. I must begin to expand so that I can steadily hold the sceptre of my kingdom and prepare to rule with kindest justice.

Mixes in Some Philosophy.

"Satisfied now, we will be more and more so as we each endeavor to make the other not only very happy, but useful to others than ourselves. It is what we put into life that renders our happiness rather than what we take out. Let's put all we can in and be contented. That is the big word of your last letter, contented companionship. How very good!

"Along with my anxious desire to make your life very happy, there rises up fear that you will not find me to be all you expected me to be and grow just a little weary of a yoke that you can't very easily lay off. I know if I measure up to the appraisal you have made of me, you will be satisfied and most surely bring to me smiles, happiness, peace, love, and content.

"The present most harassing condition of affairs is not of your doing. I am charitable enough to believe that those who did bring it about thought they were my friends. You have been most unpiously misrepresented by unreliable people who, claiming friendship and association with you, have created prejudice against you that has caused me to be most unhappy.

Growth of His Affection.

"I need no guardian or spiritual advice to guide me in matters either of my head or heart. Before I knew you well, I did feel attracted to you. Then I thought I would correspond with you for culture and pastime, which being done, I found myself admiring you.

"When I began to inquire what manner of woman you were, from every available source I learned of your excellency, of your good breeding, of your personal charm, and then I unrestrainedly loved you.

"I sought your hand in marriage when your divorce was granted. I had the right to do so. You accepted my proposal, and soon you will, I pray, be my rightful, legal, queenly, satisfied, happy wife.

"I am proud to know that your heart, your life, is mine. Myself, my all, is yours; may our Father in heaven bless the union. Will probably not write again until Saturday.

"I am most affectionately your

"ASA CANDLER."

His Friends Make Trouble.

Another letter under date of Atlanta, Ga., June 1, 1922, reads:

"My dear Sweetum: You write beautiful letters on any day, but the one just received, written last Sunday, is so very optimistic that I am reading it over again, hoping to turn my blue feelings red.

"I hope you are right in your appraisal of your former husband—but my dear, dear—my troubles are to come from my friends; some are determined to prevent my marriage to you if it be possible. I blush to write that to you, yet it is right that I do so; you are going to be my wife. You are

FOLLIES DANCER, GILDA GRAY, TO WED AGAIN TODAY

Gilda Gray of the Ziegfeld Follies, who wriggled to fame on Broadway as the originator of the "shimmy," is to embark on her second matrimonial voyage at 10:30 this morning. She will be married to Gil Boag, owner of a string of midnight dance halls in New York.

The ceremony will be performed by Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh in the dancer's apartment at 200 East Pearson street, which was filled with flowers last night in anticipation of the event. Miss Lenore Uulric will be the maid of honor.

The dancer merely shrugged the world's most mobile pair of shoulders when asked about her romance, shook her blonde bob, shook herself out of a squirrel cape, and shook a warning finger at the reporter. Boag denied he is to be married until the Follies close the season.

Miss Gray was known in Cudahy, a suburb of Milwaukee, as plain Mary Michalski, daughter of Maximilian Michalski, saloonkeeper and alderman, until she married John D. Goretzki, one of his bartenders.

Then she shook her husband, shook the dust of the old home town from her heels, and shook herself to a place on the stage, first in Milwaukee cabarets, then in Chicago, and finally in New York.

When she was divorced only a year ago her husband was given custody of their 8 year old son.

WOMAN DIES AS FOOT IS CAUGHT IN MOVING LIFT

Helen Butterbaugh of 2545 Wilcox street, a Western Union Telegraph company messenger, met death last night when her foot became caught in an elevator in the Marquette building and she fell three floors down the shaft.

Fire squad No. 2 took her to Passavant hospital, where she died. She was 35 years old.

Miss Butterbaugh had placed her foot in the elevator as it started to ascend and as the door was being closed. She was dragged upward several feet, then her foot was released and she fell.

WILSON VICTIM OF NEW AILMENT; IS NOT SERIOUS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Woodrow Wilson has been indisposed for two days, it became known tonight, but Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who was summoned in the absence from the city of Dr. Cary T. Grayson, declared tonight he did "not consider the former President's illness serious."

"The illness for which I was called in," Dr. Ruffin added, "had nothing to do with the former grave illness of Mr. Wilson."

BIG WAR DAMAGE GRAFT IN FRANCE

Officials Admit Fraud in Payments.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The majority parties of the French senate, in caucus, tonight passed a resolution declaring they will not vote for Premier Poincare's tax bill which will permit him to regulate finances by decree. This is believed to make the fall of the Poincare cabinet inevitable when the bill reaches the senate.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Graft arising out of reparations paid for the reconstruction of the devastated regions of France makes the Teapot Dome oil scandal of America look like a deuce, according to developments in the chamber of deputies today.

Between 18,000,000,000 and 25,000,000,000 francs is the amount overpaid to persons and firms in the war devastated regions, according to figures admitted as correct by the minister of the liberated regions. The socialists are attempting to bare a scandal which may involve Premier Poincare himself. (Francs now worth 4⅝ cents were quoted at 7 and 8 cents when most of these damages were paid.)

The sudden dramatic disclosure of the gigantic frauds, unwittingly brought about by the government's attempt to obtain legislation providing for additional taxation of 20 per cent to cover the budget deficit, confirms the German allegations of the last few years that the French administration has been wasting and giving away billions in graft.

Poincare Promises Big Inquiry.

Germany since the armistice has consistently demanded that France give her permission to rebuild and repair the war devastation, insisting that she could do so at much lower cost through the elimination of graft and a strict curb on dishonesty.

By adroit political tactics M. Poincare wriggled out of a most embarrassing position in the chamber tonight when he stated that the government would reëxamine and revise items in the war damage lists exceeding 500,000,000 francs. This category affects more than 100,000 claims, whereas the overwhelming bulk of the colossal graft is entailed in 446 enormous claims, all over 1,000,000 francs apiece, which the socialists originally demanded be investigated.

Opposition leaders declared that the reopening of the 100,000 cases will require at least ten years' investigation by slow working official inquiry committees, during which time the real offenders—the 446 alleged big offenders—while swamped among the thousands of small fry will manage to escape. However, the chamber finally adopted the proposal.

Has Paid 100,000,000,000 Francs.

The magnitude of the swindle is apparent when it is recalled that a total of 3,000,000 claims examined since the armistice have been awarded 100,000,000,000 francs.

The minister of the liberated regions admitted the discovery last year of frauds totaling 18,000,000,000 francs, and he expects to recover from three to five billion francs more.

M. Poincare was under severe attack throughout the day. Both Socialists and Royalists made savage attacks on the government for its alleged efforts to protect the big profiteers who have made fortunes out of reparations payments for the devastated regions.

G.O.P. Leaders in House Body Vote Rebate

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.] — Republican members of the house committee, abandoning all compromise efforts with the Democrats on the tax reduction bill, today voted to incorporate in the administration measure a provision that the reduction in personal income taxes be made retroactive to apply on incomes for the year 1923.

Should such a provision prevail, a reduction probably of 25 per cent on personal income taxes to be paid this year would be authorized.

This plan would not mean that income tax returns this year could be submitted on the basis of the 25 per cent reduction. Returns for this year would have to be made as usual on the rates in existing law. Should the reduction bill, as finally enacted, contain the retroactive provisions, taxpayers would be entitled to a rebate.

Movement Led by Green.

Representative Green [Rep., Ia.], chairman of the committee, made the motion designed to give the people advantage of tax reduction a year earlier than Secretary Mellor's bill contemplated and the Republican members of the committee immediately approved it.

Details of the proposal for a reduction in taxes on 1923 income were not worked out. Even the amount of the reduction was not definitely decided. The plan contemplates that the reduction should be given to the taxpayer in the form of a rebate in case he has paid the full amount of his tax by March 15, when returns must be made and at which time the pending tax bill will not have become law. In case the taxpayer pays only a partial installment on March 15, the reduction can be applied against subsequent installments.

Practically Sure of Adoption.

The fact that the Republican members of the committee gave unanimous approval to the plan insures its adoption as part of the tax bill by the full committee. In view of the popular demand for tax reduction, there would be little likelihood of its elimination on the floor, either of the house or the senate.

The proposed retroactive reduction would not apply to corporation income taxes. It would apply to the full amount of the personal income tax including normal taxes and surtaxes, and would have no bearing upon whether or not the income was earned income, such as salaries or wages, or a return from investments.

"We realize that this plan is not a scientific one," said Mr. Green. "But owing to the fact that it is impossible to make the rates of the present bill apply to the taxes to be paid this year, it is the only way in which we can give reductions in income taxes paid during 1924."

Mellon's Attitude Not Stated.

Under the treasury tax bill the first reductions were to come on taxes paid in 1925 on incomes of the calendar year 1924.

Whether or not Secretary of the Treasury Mellon approves giving a retroactive reduction was not stated.

The estimated treasury surplus for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, is $320,000,000. The plan to give a reduction on taxes paid during 1924 is designed to make use of part of this surplus. It is estimated that the 25 per cent reduction in personal income taxes paid in 1924 will mean a loss in revenue of $225,000,000 for the calendar year.

Advocates of a maximum surtax rate of 25 per cent as recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon have not given up hope that the Republicans will approve this central feature of the Mellon plan.

While the situation is still uncertain, it would not be surprising if a majority of the fifteen Republican members would vote for the 25 per cent surtax rate and that at least fourteen, constituting a majority of the full committee, would agree to stand by this decision in the full committee.

SENATE VOTES TO ANNUL OIL LEASES TODAY

Bitter Debate Points to Revocation.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—With agitation for the dismissal of Secretary of the Navy Denby and Attorney General Daugherty increasing in congress, the senate, after another day of fervid and acrid debate, prepared to adopt tomorrow the joint resolution providing for the annulment of the leases of the navy oil reserves to Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, and the prosecution of any persons found criminally involved.

That public confidence in the national administration has been shaken by the scandal is realized now by the hardest boiled politicians. If the popular misgivings are not unmistakably allayed by the steps taken by President Coolidge to annul the leases and institute prosecutions it is not unlikely that both Secretary Denby and Attorney General Daugherty will be forced to resign to save the administration from discredit.

Secretary Work Under Fire.

Also under fire is Fall's successor, Secretary of the Interior Work, who stirred a storm of protest over his removal under the Harding régime of Arthur Powell Davis, a noted engineer who was director of the reclamation service, and his replacement by former Gov. David W. Davis of Idaho, a political appointment.

In some quarters it is suggested that Secretary Work will be retired from the cabinet at no distant date and that President Coolidge will promote Herbert Hoover to the interior portfolio in an effort to restore public confidence in that department.

Following the visit to the White House today of Silas H. Strawn, Chicago lawyer named by Mr. Coolidge to investigate the leases, the capital was awaiting his first move, and the arrival tomorrow night from Texas of former Attorney General Gregory, Mr. Strawn's colleague.

Fight on Gregory Forecast.

What may be construed as an effort by the Democrats to prevent Mr. Gregory's serving was seen during today's debate when Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] presented a proposal which would bar as special prosecutor any individual who had ever been connected with an oil company as attorney or in any other capacity. There was also talk of making the President's appointments subject to senate confirmation.

The senate investigating committee, in executive session, heard three doctors say that former Secretary of the Interior Fall, to whom Doheny and Sinclair "loaned" $125,000, is in a state of physical collapse and unable to go to the capitol to testify concerning the charges of corruption in which he is involved.

May Quiz Fall in Bed.

The doctors thought Fall could testify if the committee would go to his apartment. In view of conflicting statements made by the doctors, the committee decided to send physicians of its own selection to ascertain Fall's condition.

While the senate committee was examining Fall's doctors, Doheny put in an appearance, accompanied by his lawyer, Gavin McNab. They had returned from their search in New York for the note Doheny said Fall gave him for the $100,000 loan.

The committee adjourned until Friday before learning of the presence of Doheny and McNab. It was reported later that Doheny had brought a note for $100,000, the signature to which however, had been torn off. Mr. McNab would not discuss the report and Mr. Doheny went into seclusion. Senators Lenroot and Smoot of the committee said they had not heard the report concerning the signature.

Attack on Denby Is Next.

As soon as the resolution providing for the annulment of the Doheny and Sinclair leases is passed by the senate, the Democrats will bring forward the resolutions of Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, and of Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.], respectively requesting the President to call for the resignations of Secretary Denby and Attorney General Daugherty.

There may be a move to impeach both Mr. Denby and Mr. Daugherty if they won't resign. The Democrats claim that the radical Republicans would give the necessary majority for impeachment resolutions in the house.

In the senate proceedings today Democrats and Republican insurgents formed a coalition and voted down every attempt to modify the preamble of the restitution resolution, in which it is set forth that the leases were executed under circumstances indicating fraud and corruption, and that there was no legal authority for making them.

No Defense for Harding.

Three separate roll calls were taken over phraseology. The amendments were presented by Senator Sterling [Rep., S. D.], who contended that the statement in the preamble to the effect that the leases were executed in defiance of the settled policy of the government reflected on the late President Harding.

One of the amendments would have cut out the word "defiance" and substituted "contravention." This was beaten, 38 to 48. Democratic and insurgent senators contended that the purpose of the amendments was to weaken the resolution. The Democrats voted solidly against the amendments and received the support of seven Republicans and the two farmer-labor senators.

End of Cabinet Pair Seen.

The strength which the coalition mustered on these three roll calls clearly indicated, it was pointed out, that the resolutions calling for the resignations of Denby and Daugherty in all probability will be adopted.

At the White House Mr. Strawn conferred with President Coolidge and received his instructions. These were in the spirit of the President's midnight statement last Saturday, asserting "if there is any guilt it will be punished; if there is any civil liability it will be enforced, if there is any fraud it will be revealed, and if there are any contracts which are illegal they will be canceled."

Mr. Strawn then proceeded to meet the members of the senate investigating committee and to familiarize himself with the case.

PUBLIC CONFIDENCE SHAKEN

"I approach the consideration of the joint resolution," said Senator Norris, "with a feeling of regret, of sorrow, and of humiliation. I have no party to eulogize. I have no party to condemn. I am interested only in the honor and integrity of our common country.

"To my mind, the developments shown by the investigation are such as to strike almost with horror the mind of any patriotic citizen interested above politics and party in the honesty of his government and in the proper and fair administration of its laws, particularly as they apply to the protection and safeguarding of our naval reserves."

Senator Norris said the policy as to the naval oil reserves was one peculiarly within the jurisdiction of congress and it was doubly the duty of those high in official life to carry out this policy.

Harding's Order Is Attacked.

"The very first order that was made," he continued, referring to the oil leases, "upon which all subsequent orders, contracts, and leases were ultimately made, was, in my judgment, absolutely and completely an illegal act, made without any authority of law, but, in fact, made absolutely in defiance of law.

"Congress had placed the jurisdiction of those reserves—at least so far as they applied to oil for the navy—within the power and jurisdiction of the secretary of the navy. When the President of the United States issued an order transferring control from the secretary of the navy to the secretary of the interior he did it without any authority; and, in my judgment, no lawyer who has ever given any study to that question has ever been able, by any ingenuity, on any legal ground, to make a defense for that order.

Will Destroy the Republic.

"That kind of conduct on the part of executive officials will, just as truly as the sun rises and sets, if carried on, bring the ultimate ruin of any democracy or of any republic. That means that we are abolishing the legislative branch of the government and setting up a monarchy.

"The government has the right in my judgment, to institute suits to secure by way of judgment against, for instance, the Doheny company, the value of every gallon of oil which that company secured by reason of contracts. That is the reason I said that in my judgment the Doheny case ought to be included because I felt that the offer of compromise made by the Doheny company was, in effect, a compromise the most favorable that could possibly be devised in the interest of that company.

CAN MAKE DOHENY PAY

"Not only can they be compelled to give up all the dependent and alleged rights which they have secured under that contract, but they can be compelled to answer in damages which would be the value of the property that was given to them up to date in the carrying on of these public improvements under that contract."

Senator Norris scored the action of executive officials in not putting the matter up to congress, "because they knew congress would not appropriate the money to do it."

"That," he added, "is a confession that would, if it were in a criminal case, indicate malice. That shows the evil intent. That makes the case 10,000 times worse. It is defended on the ground that the law making body does not know its business."

Declaring that the question of transfer of authority was discussed in the cabinet, Senator Norris said:

"There were in this cabinet eminent attorneys. The secretary of the interior, himself, was one, but at the head of that cabinet stood a man who had one graced the Supreme court of the United States, one of the most eminent lawyers in all the world.

"And I have wondered in my mind if these matters were discussed in the cabinet meetings, if the great secretary of state had ever told his associates there: 'Why, here you are violating the law so plain that he who runs may know what it is.'"

Answering a question whether the attorney general gave any opinion on the subject, Senator Norris said he had not.

"But I am glad," he added, "the senator called my attention to that. There is another member of the cabinet who has been admitted to the bar."

"Which bar?" asked Senator Caraway.

Compliments to Navy's Chief.

Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah] said Secretary Denby had testified that the leases were not considered at any cabinet meeting he attended. He asked Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.] if there had been other evidence as to this.

"I don't recall Secretary Denby so testifying," Mr. Walsh replied, "but if he had, it would carry no weight with me. Denby knew nothing about anything."

Senator Norris then took up the question of fraud or collusion. He recited the conflicting stories told by Edward B. McLean and former Secretary Fall as to a loan of $100,000 by Mr. McLean to Mr. Fall. He called the statement that Mr. McLean gave checks for $100,000 to Mr. Fall and took a note in return, and that the checks were returned to him uncashed a "cock and bull story."

"School children would be able to put up a better story than that," he said. "We, as men, know that things are not done that way, and even with the sworn testmiony of Mr. McLean, I think we, as reasonable men, have a fair right to disbelieve him in what he said under oath.

"If between Fall and McLean there was any such thing as giving checks and signing notes, transferring them today and back tomorrow, it was a put up job from the beginning for the purpose of laying the foundation so that Fall might say he borrowed the money and McLean might say Fall borrowed the money, not expecting the committee would send the senator from Montana all the way to Florida to put McLean under oath.

"Short and Ugly" for Fall.

"The idea of this transaction happening, men giving checks and their being returned, is to my mind one of the best evidences that connected with this thing was deep, disgraceful fraud and corruption. I do not see how any one can get away from it. There cannot be an explanation."

He declared that in his sworn statement, McLean changed his first statement, "so as to shield Fall from a further investigation that would show he was a liar all the way through."

ANALYSIS OF THE TRIO

Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.] said that congress was partly to blame because the legislation which it enacted did not more definitely limit the authority of the secretary of the navy. Upon questioning by Senator Walsh, however, he conceded that Mr. Denby had done "a very unwise thing."

A bitter denunciation of the Republican administration was delivered by Senator Neely [Dem., W. Va.]. He flayed Fall by saying:

"This is the most disgraceful, humiliating, and degrading chapter in American history since the dark day when Benedict Arnold betrayed his country for British gold—a chapter written by Albert B. Fall, a Republican secretary of the interior."

Senator Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] said he wished senators were just as much interested in their country as they appeared to be in their party.

"As I see it," he concluded, "of the three principals in this transaction, one was dishonest, one was unwise, and the other was a bonehead."

"Shield for the Guilty."

Senator Sterling made a long speech, urging the toning down of the language of the preamble. This drew from Senator Caraway some sarcastic remarks about Republican efforts to deal leniently with the guilty.

"Every amendment that has been offered has been to weaken the resolution," he declared. "If we adopt them we soften it as much as possible. We let down easy those who have sold the country for money, and we condone treason. The Republicans are welcome to their position."

Senators Underwood, Caraway, and Adams [Dem., Colo.] all expressed regret that the resolution did not provide for direct cancelation of the leases instead of simply directing the President to institute legal proceedings to cancel them.

"There should be no quibbling about technicalities," said Mr. Underwood. "This matter goes to the very heart of the government. No government can survive when the people lose faith in it. The issue is clear as the sun. I wish the senate would vote to declare this transaction void and fraudulent on its face."

Stanley Talks of Fall.

Senator Stanley [Dem., Ky.], denounced Fall, declaring that he would "pray to die if I were in his place."

"The dread of the partisan or apologist portion of the press that the country might overlook the axiom that 'guilt is personal,' will not be forgotten by an intelligent public," he said.

"This investigation has shown that three departments of this government are filled with officials who are deaf or blind or crooked.

"If the secretary of the interior had forged a check and bought a ranch, or if, in a fit of berseker rage had killed an enemy on the public highway, the worst to be said would have been a doubt as to the wisdom of his appointment.

"But the mere guilt of Fall is not the entire case. Teapot Dome is a crucible in which the world is testing the capacity and ability of an administration; it is a crucible in which a great political organization is being tested and found to be dross. That is why the elephant is trembling from trunk to tail."

ROOSEVELT IS MENTIONED

Mr. Stanley declared that Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt should have obtained the opinions of proper attorneys in the federal departments to advise him of the law in connection with the drafting of the executive order.

"If the press had merely announced that the son of Theodore Roosevelt believed this thing will not do, that would have been an end to it," he added.

Senator Adams contended that it was within the power of congress to annual the leases and said he was "growing impatient with the suggestion that we merely ask someone else to institute a suit."

The Colorado senator declared that Republican members of the committee had tried to use as evidence statements that had not been confirmed. But he was not inclined to be too critical of them, he said.

"I think a man's moral standards should be judged by the circles he moves in," he explained, "and by this theory, I would not put Fall as far down as some on this side seem to desire."

Democrats Are Amused.

The Democrats laughed when he said he saw very little difference between accepting campaign funds from beneficiaries of tariff legislation and accepting a loan from an individual who had been benefited at the expense of the government. He illustrated his point with the story of a Blackfoot Indian chief who had reached that position by becoming "the best horsethief in the tribe."

"Under those moral standards of that circle, the chief was the best man of all, because he could steal most efficiently."

Adams and Lenroot engaged in a sharp exchange when Adams charged that Lenroot and Senator Smoot had not been helpful in the early stages of the investigation in bringing out evidence.

"Any attempt to show that any Republican members of the committee tried to prevent the disclosure of facts is wholly without foundation," Lenroot declared.

Although three days have already been consumed in debate without any conclusive action, more speech making is still in prospect, and Senator Curtis moved an adjournment.

Further Debate to Come.

Some of the Democrats started to protest and to demand final action before adjournment. Senator Robinson, their leader, however, called them off, pointing out that so many more speeches were scheduled that it would be impossible to conclude tonight.

Rep. Graham [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, strongly defended Attorney General Daugherty in a house speech today. He described the attacks on Daugherty as "unjust," and insisted Mr. Daugherty was not running away from any issue. His going to Florida, Mr. Graham explained, was necessitated by Mrs. Daugherty's illness.

Rep. Blanton [Dem., Tex.] assailed Daugherty for going to Florida at this time, and Rep. Woodrum [Dem., Va.] charged that Daugherty had "passed the buck in the prosecution of those implicated in the oil leasing scandal."

Legal Head of Navy Put O.K. on Doheny's Offer, He Says

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Rear Admiral Latimer, judge advocate general of the navy, told the house naval committee today that in December, 1921, he informed Secretary Denby it would be legal to enter into a contract with the Doheny interests for the construction of tankage at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a part of their lease to the California naval oil reserve.

The admiral said he based his opinion on authority granted the department by congress in June, 1920, to exchange oil and provide storage facilities. This authority, it was brought out by committee members, was granted at the request of Josephus Daniels, then secretary of the navy.

Mr. Denby on Dec. 5, 1921, the witness said, wrote on the margin of the opinion, opposite the section discussing exchange and storage of oil:

"Do this. E. D."

Gregory Also Examined.

The committee also examined Rear Admiral Gregory, chief of the navy department's bureau of yards and docks, who told of the contracts by which the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company was to build the storage tanks.

The construction at Pearl Harbor and that contemplated at Atlantic ports, Admiral Gregory estimated, will cost approximately $50,000,000—all to be paid in royalties from the California and Wyoming reserves.

The work at Pearl Harbor is the only struction the Doheny interests have agreed to undertake, Gregory said. The Sinclair interests, under the Teapot Dome lease, he said, have built at a cost of $900,000 at Portsmouth, N. H., tanks for the storage of 300,000 barrels of fuel oil, 225,000 gallons of Diesel oil, 180,000 gallons of gasoline, and about 900,000 gallons of lubricating oil.

No New Authority Given.

Since passage of legislation in June, 1920, Admiral Gregory said, no new authority has been given the navy department by congress for construction of oil tanks.

"As the basis for the California and Wyoming reserve leases," asked Representative Britten [Rep., Ill.], "was the amendment to the appropriation bill suggested by Secretary Daniels?"

"They never would have ben entered into," replied the admiral, "if that amendment had not been adopted."

In reply to further questioning about the Sinclair and Doheny construction, Admiral Gregory said he knew that every precaution had been taken to insure to the government honest expenditure of funds.

Check on Expenditures.

A system of accounting is in effect, he added, which affords an accurate check on expenditures.

After hearing a part of Admiral Latimer's testimony, the committee adjourned its hearing until tomorrow.

Secretary Denby, contrary to the expectation of some committee members, did not appear.

G. O. P. LEADERS FIND SMITH IS KING LEN'S HEIR

He'll Step Into Race if Latter Steps Out.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, has accepted the rôle of heir apparent to "King Len."

From the moment he took the stump for the governor at a Chicago meeting about ten days ago former political associates of Col. Smith have been searching for the quid pro quo which led him to step to the front in a campaign in which they felt he had no direct interest.

And at least two headquarters now have what they believe is a full explanation for his decision. In addition to surmises and gossip they have information from the Small camp that there is a specific agreement that in the event Small determines to drop out of the race the Lundin-Thompson-Small organization will back Smith against Essington.

Small Sees Defeat Ahead.

That there is a likelihood that Small will follow the Thompson precedent and quit the fight has been rumored for weeks. Thompson quit because he saw that, while he might win in the primary, he would be defeated in the election. Small faces a similar situation, it is believed by many of his closest friends. They would rather see a "compromise" candidate put into the field than to see him take his chances of a licking.

But the latest information is that his decision depends upon a specific contingency and that this has been mentioned in the negotiations with Col. Smith. If the so-called "civil suit" for the recovery of state interest from Small turns decisively against him, it is said, he will drop out of the race. And in that event, the information runs, Smith is to be the Small candidate.

Smith Switches Plans.

The information stands the test of the checking up that has been given it. Col. Smith's ambition, it is known generally, has been to run for governor. He was shut out of the race by the fact that as an important appointee of Small's he could not be considered as anti-Small timber and the fact that Small decided to run again.

When the primary battle settled down to Essington vs. Small, Smith continued to hold himself aloof for weeks. Even his closest friends could not learn what his plans were. Then suddenly last week he was scheduled to appear at three Small meetings in Chicago.

It is understood on good authority that Smith was scheduled without being consulted, and he was made the headliner at all three places. Thousands of handbills carrying his name at the top of the list of speakers were scattered broadcast, and still his friends could not learn from him in advance whether he would actually speak.

According to the same excellent authority his decision was not made until the evening of Monday, Jan. 21, the date of his first appearance with Thompson and the other spellbinders for Small. That evening he came to Chicago from Dwight. He is said to have held an important conference along about dinner time. A few hours later he spoke along carefully guarded lines.

Little to Say for Small.

This week Smith again is appearing on the platform at Small meetings and telling of the work of the commerce commission under his chairmanship. He has little to say for Small beyond a statement that the governor appointed the commission. Under those circumstances some in the audience have asked for what office Col. Smith is a candidate.

Another interesting fact pointed out in connection with Small's oratorical battery is in connection with a folder issued by Oscar E. Carlstrom, candidate for attorney general on a platform promise to dismiss the interest suit against Small.

It includes three printed pages, telling of the high spots of Carlstrom's life, from his birth, his early life on the farm, his education, his law work.

Soft Pedal on His Tax Work.

But nowhere in the pamphlet does Oscar disclose the fact that he is one of Gov. Small's appointees on the much discussed tax commission.

To say the least, the tax commission is unpopular among the farmers. Why advertise one's connection with it?

POLITICAL NOTES

Chairman John T. Adams of the Republican national committee, Senator Medill McCormick, and Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania are among the speakers advertised for the fourth annual convention of the Lincoln league at the Bethel auditorium, beginning on Feb. 12.

Joseph B. Fleming, counsel for the election board, ruled yesterday that the calling of an election of ward committeemen rests with County Clerk Sweitzer, and Sweitzer indicated he has no intention of calling one.

Coolidge and Johnson petitions were both put in circulation in Chicago yesterday.

Coolidge national headquarters will be moved tomorrow night from the Congress hotel to the Wrigley building, where more space is available.

Frank H. Hitchcock, national manager for Johnson, and David Ladd Rockwell, national chairman for McAdoo, returned to Chicago headquarters yesterday. Both have been in the east.

TRIBUNE FUND FORCES FREEING OF LIEUT. GRIFFIS

Germany Impressed by Wave of U. S. Sentiment.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(Special.)—Ambassador Weidfeldt has been making an energetic effort to get Secretary of State Hughes to agree to the release of Friedrich Wilhelm Bischof, the enemy alien imprisoned at Atlanta, during the past few days. Secretary Hughes has not agreed to the proposition.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The dimes and dollars that dropped in THE TRIBUNE release fund in Chicago turned the key in a lock of the German prison at Mossbach today. Lieut. Corliss Hooven Griffis walked out a free man, under an executive order from President Ebert. He is sleeping tonight in a hotel at Stuttgart. He will sail in a day or two for the United States.

When American sentiment first began to rise in favor of the release of the American veteran who tried to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American slacker who fled to Germany during the world war, the Berlin government sought to profit by the situation. It tried to trade with Washington for the freedom of Friedrich Wilhelm Bischof, an enemy alien imprisoned in Atlanta.

Real Need Was Money.

Meanwhile Lieut. Griffis was languishing in his cell. He wrote appeals to THE TRIBUNE bureau in Berlin which were cabled to, and published in THE TRIBUNE in Chicago. He said in his letters that he knew he had the sympathy of the American people, but the thing he needed first and foremost was money. He was confident that he was being made the football of the German government, and money was the only thing that would give him real freedom.

The Berlin foreign office at first was surprised by the widespread response to THE TRIBUNE'S invitation. The contributions were small but numerous. In the last week this surprise changed to consternation. THE TRIBUNE contributions were outrunning the desperate efforts of German Ambassador Wiedfeldt to come to an agreement with the Washington authorities for the release of Bischof.

Berlin Tries to Save Face.

THE TRIBUNE correspondents who have just returned from Germany, where they have been working on the Griffis case, report that the presence of more than $4,000 of CHICAGO TRIBUNE readers' American money in Berlin was about to deprive the German government of the advantage it hoped to gain by appearing to release Griffis of its own free will. Anxious cables were rushed to Washington in an effort to push an agreement on the Bischof case.

As the last $300 necessary to obtain a pardon for Lieut. Griffis was about to be cabled to Berlin the German government was forced to take immediate steps to save itself from humiliation. Unconditional pardon for Griffis and his immediate release were ordered secretly.

Through the efforts of THE TRIBUNE, to whom Griffis appealed for funds to pay obligations, Herr Siebert was enabled to take preliminary steps for the pardon. Ten days ago he came to Berlin where he settled the details for the freeing of the American, which were contingent on the payment of damages demanded by Lina Rupp.

Tribune Fund Scares Berlin.

After his visit to Berlin Herr Siebert went to Karlsruhe where he made arrangements to pay the Rupp girl the sum demanded, while Ambassador Wiedfeldt in Washington consulted with Secretary of State Hughes regarding the freeing of Griffis. Four days ago the foreign office attitude in the Griffis case became strangely reserved. No information was given THE TRIBUNE in the case, except that it was proceeding satisfactorily. The growth of THE TRIBUNE fund in America put a pressure on the German authorities which proved irksome.

Two nights ago the foreign office sent representatives to Karlsruhe to conclude final arrangements.

MOTHER AT THE DOOR.

Hamilton, O., Jan. 30.—[United News.]—"I knew he would get out all right, because he was only trying to do his duty," Mrs. B. N. Griffis said when informed that her son, Lieut. Griffis, had been freed from a German jail.

"Of course, I am glad he is out of that place at last. I have been so afraid something would interfere," she admitted.

Nothing in the way of a big homecoming has been planned for her son, Mrs. Griffis said, because she is quite contented for the present with the prospect of having her son with her once more.

"I hope he sails for home Saturday," she said. "It has been just like the war all over again for me."

JOHN POWERS, COUNCIL VETERAN SLIGHTLY BETTER

A slight improvement in the condition of Ald. John Powers [25th], oldest member of the city council, who had been suffering from an attack of pleurisy which was supplanted by a severe case of pneumonia, was announced last night by Dr. Karl Meyer, the attending physician.

The physician, who held a consultation with Dr. Joseph L. Miller following the change for the worse yesterday afternoon, said it would take three or four days for the patient to pass the crisis.

The city council by a rising vote authorized the sending of flowers to Ald. Powers, with the hope for his recovery.

PATRIOT GIFTS BRING FREEDOM TO LIEUT. GRIFFIS

Tribune Fund's Aims Are Fulfilled.

Lieut. Corliss H. Griffis is free. Public opinion in America, expressed in concrete form by THE TRIBUNE's fund, brought about his release yesterday afternoon from the German prison in which he was placed following his attempt to capture Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the slacker.

On Monday, two days before the release, THE TRIBUNE cabled $4,000 to John Clayton, its Berlin correspondent, to be used in engaging attorneys for the presentation of Griffis' case and in paying his debts incurred at his former trial. The sending of this money contributed by American citizens brought to Germany, as no other agency could bring it, a realization of the temper of the American people over the imprisonment of one of their soldiers. One obligation was a payment to Lina Rupp, injured during the effort to capture Bergdoll.

Because of his sudden release, no more contributions for Lieut. Griffis will be received.

Fund Reaches $4,862.

In all $6,000 was advanced by THE TRIBUNE to Clayton in Berlin to be used in Griffis' behalf to pay his debts, obtain his release, and send him to America. Including subscriptions of $205.25 received yesterday, the total fund for Griffis' relief amounted to $4,862.65, within $137.35 of the $5,000 estimated by the lieutenant as the sum necessary.

Because of his pardon before his case came up for appeal it is possible that not all of this amount will be needed. Griffis' estimates of debts incurred during his trial was $2,000. His expenses incident to his release by the present pardon will be less than the $2,000 estimated by Clayton. But he will still need the $1,000 allowed for incidental expenses, new clothing, passage back to his home, and a small fund with which to start in life again.

Await Griffis' Needs.

It may take a few days before the exact amount Lieut. Griffis needs is known in Chicago. During that time any contributions received will be returned to the donors. If there is a difference between the sum spent in Griffis' behalf and the total of $4,862.65 received for his relief, it will be announced in THE TRIBUNE.

Lieut. Griffis' receipt for all money received will be published in THE TRIBUNE.

THE TRIBUNE will account to its readers for the contributions sent in. If there should be a balance after payment of the expenses of procuring the release, any contributor may have his or her proportion of the excess returned. Otherwise the balance, if any, will be given to Griffis for living expenses till he gets settled back in America.

Europe Reads About Fund.

The daily growth of the Griffis fund has for the last week been chronicled in the Paris edition of THE TRIBUNE. Such messages as these were sent to Clayton in Berlin:

"Use all your influence to have Griffis pardoned, explaining that better pardon Griffis now before American public opinion angered."

Germany knew American public opinion was "angered" when it read of the Griffis fund. Today Griffis is free.

POLITICAL LINE DISAPPEARS IN WALLACE TRIBUTE

1,500 Pay Honor to His Aldermanic Service.

A testimonial, unusual in its sincerity and unique in its list of speakers, was given Ald. Thomas O. Wallace last night at a dinner in the Belden hotel. About 1,500 guests, representing all parts of the city, Democrats as well as Republicans, but principally from the Forty-fourth ward, were assembled by the Lincoln Square Business association.

Ald. Wallace is a Republican, but Mayor Dever, a Democrat, who insists that the duties of an alderman are nonpartisan; Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works and Democratic candidate for United States senator, and former Ald. John A. Richert, Democratic leader of the council for a decade, were three of the speakers. The others were Attorney General Brundage, Judge Steffen, and Mrs. Medill McCormick, who substituted for the senator, all Republicans.

"Ald. Wallace is a real red blooded man of honesty, who fights for his country in times of peace as well as war," said Judge Steffen.

"He is a 100 per cent citizen of courage and ability," said Mrs. McCormick after a telegram from the senator had been read, in which he, too, referred to "the sterling qualities" of the alderman.

"He served the public interest so faithfully and well that the powers which then ruled deprived him of membership on the council finance committee," was one of the tributes of Mr. Richert, who was chairman of the finance committee for ten years.

At the conclusion of the party a chest of silver was given to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace—this year being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

POLISH DIPLOMAT, TOO DAMP HERE, GOES HOME DRY

No More Drinks, He Tells Upshaw.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Dr. V. Sokolowski, transferred from the Polish legation to Warsaw, following seizure of a quantity of liquor in the apartment house in which he lived here, left yesterday, a total abstainer as the result of his experiences on conviviality in Washington's "upper crust," according to Representative William D. Upshaw of Georgia, who went to the station with him.

At the time Dr. Sokolowski was withdrawn it was announced Secretary Hughes had protested to other envoys against the abuse of the right to bring in "diplomatic liquor."

He'll Work for Cause.

"I go back to my country with a disgust for social drinking that I cannot put into words," Representative Upshaw declares Dr. Sokolowski told him, with emotion. "I go back to take my place by my beloved father not only as a total abstainer from liquor but as a lifetime worker for the cause.

"I have seen so many high officials in Washington drink liquor that their government has outlawed and secure liquor for each other." Dr. Sokolowswi is said to have continued. "What could I do if I wished to be congenial and a good entertainer if I did not fall into their custom?"

Admired by Upshaw.

Representative Upshaw says he went to the depot to bid farewell to Dr. Sokolowski "on purely personal grounds."

"I had met him in a social way through a friend and had been deeply impressed with his culture and his engaging personality."

Mr. Upahaw said he had learned that Dr. Sokolowski's father, who is 74 years old, has been a temperance worker for more than fifty years.

LELANDS' FATE MAY TAKE ANY OF THREE PATHS

Futility? Divorce? Or Reconciliation?

given by the judge, Mrs. Leland was figuring it out, she would not be a divorced woman within twenty-four hours.

Whether or not she actually would have her husband no one, not even Leland knew.

Like Seeing Through Wood.

"See that wood," he exclaimed, pointing to the table, "you can see as far through it as I can. I can't see the future. Right now, such a literal reconciliation would be absolutely impossible."

Leland has not even yet made up his mind, he declared, where he would take up his residence if the minister accepted his terms and the bill were dismissed.

One plan is for him to return to his present home with his father at 123 Elgin avenue, Forest Park; the other for him to return under the same roof with Mrs. Leland.

If the Lelands are reunited they probably would live at the home of her parents, 333 Wisconsin avenue. That plan, it is evident, would be for the sake of their three children.

The alternative is double-edged. If Dr. Case refuses to accede to the stipulations said to have been demanded by Leland in return for the withdrawal of his bill, Judge Foell within a few hours will make her a faithless divorcée or a neurotic wife.

Yet, as she sat there on the other side of the door of the judge's room, Mrs. Leland didn't even know that there was any discussion of a reconciliation. The one person in the whole proceedings who is compelled legally to be passive, once she has verified her confession, she was ignorant of this third and important possibility in her husband's divorce case.

So, after the court adjourned, she had nothing to say, for there was nothing for her to say. The other principals, who knew, also declined to discuss any phase of the situation.

Dr. Case Undisturbed.

The only specific comment was one voiced by several involved that "Dr. Case is adamant." The presumption seemed to be that he would remain adamant.

At his home last night Dr. Case remarked, "I am awaiting the verdict with equanimity." And he looked it.

Whether his former parishioner gets his divorce, the minister who built up the First Baptist church of Oak Park wants to stay with his church, "if the congregation so indicates."

"If at any time," he said, "it should seem best for the efficiency of the church that another man should take my place, of course I should want to step out. But, as far as I am concerned, I would like to stay and work there, no matter what the outcome of this case, provided I didn't see that some other man could fill my place better."

Preacher Plans Long Trip.

Discussing the possibility of a demonstration meeting on the part of his church members, Dr. Case declared that he "wasn't much for publicity" and didn't believe any such meeting would be held.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "I am going away to California in a few days, no matter what the verdict. I have been ill, and had planned the trip just when this whole affair broke."

Over at her home, Mrs. Leland, "so happy that it's all almost over," reflected, probably, that she hasn't much chance of winning, whatever Judge Foell announces this afternoon. For five days she has struggled to prove herself guilty of adultery. For five days she has been dissected as a mental subnormal dwelling in a dream world and the victim of religious and sex delusions.

AS HAROLD SAW IT

Following the morning conference, the lawyers took their places in the courtroom. At a quarter to 12 Harold Leland, 17 year old son, for whose affection both Mr. and Mrs. Leland pathetically are bidding, took the stand. He is a senior in high school.

His very ignorance of legal procedure, however, permitted him, with casual innocence, to interpret his answers more skillfully than a more experienced witness would have been able to do.

Mr. Olds at once took the boy's memory to the scene in Dr. Case's study the latter part of last November, when he had delivered to the pastor a letter from his mother. Harold could not recall the exact date nor hour, but knew it was late one afternoon, between 3:30 and 6.

Boy Questions Pastor.

Q.—I wish you would tell me, as nearly as you can, what was said by you and what was said by him during the time that you were there. . . . A.—I asked him for his side of this affair, because I felt, and I told him I felt, I had the right to know something about that. He said I was a minor, and refused to discuss the matter with me, and then went on to discuss the matter with me for the rest of the time I was up there. I asked for whatever evidence he might have on his side, and he, as I remember, refused to deny anything. However, a little later he rather, I might say, impulsively threw out his hands and said, "It is all a terrible accident," or mistake, or blunder, I am not sure of those words, but it was one of those words. Now, that's all he said directly about that. He spent a good of time telling me about his physical troubles. He spent a good deal of time telling me about his own importance in the denomination.

FEARED WIDE SCANDAL

Judge Foell took a hand when lawyers disputed over the boy's replies.

THE COURT—If you can't use the exact words, use the substance of what he said and what you said in the conversation. A.—He made the statement, or words to the effect that if anything of this came out publicly, that since he was known from east to west that this would all be known from east to west, and it would make a great disturbance the country over, and he rather enlarged upon that.

Harold's mother and father were both looking up at the boy, who clasped his hands about one knee with boyish ease and rushed on, with three or four reactions all at once trying to voice themselves to paint this picture of that interview:

"He was talking about some little things in life that should be passed over and we must appreciate, and he talked for quite a while on that, and I didn't see that it had anything to do with the situation. Then he told me he understood my father was planning divorce proceedings and gave his opinion that such a procedure was wrong, because a man of my father's position should be willing to forgive.

Student, Preacher Debate.

"At some point along there I made the statement that all I went there for was because I wanted justice. I also said, 'I consider justice the greatest thing after all.' I was absolutely surprised when he said, 'Justice is not the greatest thing. Love and forgiveness are above justice.'"

As if in a class debate, the boy commented ingenuously:

"Now I tried to make clear that in my mind love and forgiveness are absolutely not desirable above justice. But he absolutely differentiated between those conditions."

In the course of the examination by Mr. Olds the boy was taken further into his visit with Dr. Case.

Q.—Did Mr. Case discourse upon his doctrine of morality? A.—Why, yes, I believe he did. However, it was in the abstract, that some things in life should be appreciated as smaller matters and should be passed over in view of the ultimate goal. Of course, I had my own ideas, considering what I was up there for.

Q.—Did you bring up the subject to Dr. Case at that time that he had been in your home alone with your mother? A.—I do not believe that I mentioned anything about that.

Q.—Did he mention anything about that to you? A.—Yes.

Refused, Then He Talked.

Q.—What did he say? A.—He spoke, immediately after he refused to discuss these things with me, he spoke of his own position in this. He said that he was entirely defenseless and couldn't do a thing. The next minute he went on to give the impression he could do something, but he said all he had was circumstantial evidence. He told me then at no time at the study there had he been behind closed doors with any woman. Then he went on to say whenever he had been down to our house that my father had known of it. Now, he was not in the habit of making visits except in the day time, and that is when my father was at business. I immediately raised the question, how did he know that my father always knew of that, and he made the statement right away, "O, well, I didn't tell him, but your mother told him every single time."

Avers Mrs. Case Advised Him.

Q.—Did he say anything to you about your not being able to comprehend the situation at that time? A.—Yes, he said something about that, just of course, he was sympathizing with me, well, just trying to size up my position for me. However, it was Mrs Case who did most of the talking on that subject.

Q.—Was Mrs. Case present all during the time you were there? A.—Yes.

HAD FULL CONFIDENCE

Mr. Olds continued his questions:

Q.—Do you know of your own personal knowledge, Harold, whether or not Dr. Case was ever in your home when no one else was there but your mother? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Have you knowledge of any specific times? A.—No, no specific times, because, of course, I never suspected anything at the time. He had the perfect confidence of all of us.

The boy looked at Dr. Case as he said that. The questioning revealed an interchange of notes between Mrs. Leland and Dr. Case, as well as many phone calls. The boy said "for about a year there was very much intimacy as far as that was concerned." Then the phone calls were less frequent. Then this was revealed:

Q.—Did you ever hear Dr. Case make any remarks to your father with regard to your mother? A.—Yes.

Says Case Praised Woman.

Q.—Do you remember what those remarks were· that is, the text of them? A.—Why, it seemed that almost every time that they met at all he mentioned many flattering things about my mother, and always praised her a great deal to him and praised him for having such a wife, and so forth and so on. He made that very strong.

Mr. Moss then took the witness and brought out that he was a senior in the Oak Park High school, and prior to last November had been a regular attendant at the First Baptist church and Sunday school. The boy also stated that during the three years prior to November he had seen Dr. Case in the home of his mother and father, "considering his position, rather frequently."

"I would say," the boy volunteered, "that it impressed me at the time that he was very intimate with our family. That is the way he impressed me all the way through, and, of course, I had a different interpretation at that time."

Mr. Moss made the next question very direct:

Q.—Prior to Jan. 1, 1923, had anything occurred to arouse any suspicion on your part as to the relations of Dr. Case and your mother? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Prior to July 1, 1923? A.—No, sir.

SAYS GRANDPA TOLD

Q.—When, if at all, were your suspicions aroused with regard to the relations between your mother and Dr. Case? [Harold bit his lip before replying.] A.—I didn't have the slightest bit of suspicion until the night my grandfather told me about that; it was right around the early part of November.

Q.—It came to you as a distinct surprise and shock?

As the boy's trembling "It did" echoed through the courtroom, more than one woman in the crowd blinked back the tears.

Passing on to the time Harold delivered the letter to Dr. Case and had the discussion with him and Mrs. Case, Mr. Moss asked the youth:

Q.—State whether or not you went over to learn for yourself, if you could, what Dr. Case had to say for himself—was that your purpose in going there, or rather in conversing with him, after you were there? A.—I believe that was my purpose in going there.

As His Mother's Son.

Q.—Did you feel as your mother's son, with such knowledge as you then had, you had a right to know what was the truth or falsity about these matters? A.—I certainly felt that.

Q.—And do you now feel that you had the right to know? A.—I know I had the right to know.

Q.—You love your mother, don't you, Harold? A.—Yes, sir.

Mr. Leland took off his eyeglasses and wiped away the mist. Mrs. Leland smiled up at her son, as the boy's voice cut through the silence in the room.

Q.—And you have been bringing her downtown and going home with her at night, during this time? A.—Yes, sir, I have.

Q.—State whether or not from your standpoint you have turned against your mother in any way, because of this unfortunate circumstance? [Harold fairly shouted the reply]. A.—"I never have, and I never will."

Mr. Leland followed his son on the stand and told how a volume from Dr. Case's library called "Sex Worship" had got into his possession. The minister, Leland testified, had given it to him one day more than a year ago, saying, "Read this, it will do you good."

"I read about six pages," Leland said, "but it was so bad that I refused to look into it further."

"Moonshine Flop" Charges End in Man's Dismissal

CITY IGNORES OUSTER FOR N. SHORE ELECTRIC

Council Deems It Best to Resume Parleys.

Resumption of the negotiations with the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railway, terminated a week ago when the local transportation committee voted to oust it from the city, was voted yesterday by the city council.

Hesitancy of the aldermen to use police in halting the electric trains at the city limits or to seek injunction writs against their illegal operation, was applauded by the hundreds of employés of the road and their sympathizers, who crowded the council chamber galleries.

Only four protest against reconsideration of the committee's drastic order were recorded in the roll call. Ald. H. L. Fick [20th], who sponsored the order in the committee led the fight against its approval by the council.

Ways to Collect.

Half a dozen methods of securing compensation from the company for its use of the elevated lines' rights of way and forcing it to secure a franchise were suggested in the argument which followed Ald. S. W. Govier's [9th] efforts to put reconsideration of the ouster "on the table."

"If this company is a lawbreaker," declared Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], "the mayor knows how to handle it without advice from this body. If he wants to stop the lawbreaking he can. He told us the other day in plain words that, orders or no orders, he would enforce all the law—give him a chance."

"Let the corporation counsel institute suits to compel payment of compensation if necesary," advised Ald. C. S. Eaton [5th]. "Negotiate with the company and it will seek a franchise. Chicago needs the service. If we had to do it, to get that service, it would be well to pay for it. Our business depends upon rapid and efficient service to nearby communities. If you throttle one you stifle the other."

Only Harm Straphangers.

"If you succeed in stopping the trains you won't get more seats for straphangers on the elevated trains," declared Ald. T. F. Byrne [15th]. "The passengers you force out at the city limits will merely crowd the elevated cars before they get into the city."

Ald. H. W. Klinke [47th] observed that all of the opposition against the ouster developed among aldermen whose wards are not traversed by the elevated lines.

Ald. Arthur Albert [43d], who was nearly expelled from the council when he introduced a resolution several months ago demanding action against the line, supported Govier's move to defeat the reconsideration.

DR. C. A. NEYMANN EXONERATED BY COURT DECISION

Dr. Clarence A. Neymann, alienist and former head of the Psychopathic hospital, was cleared of liability yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Augusta J. Glendenning against him and three others for $100,000. Judge David Brothers sustained the motion of Attorney Hendrik Folonie and ruled he would direct the jury to find in favor of Dr. Neymann. The judge also eliminated Mrs. Agnes Garrow, a nurse, from the suit.

Mrs. Glendenning alleged she was falsely committed to an asylum. She declared Dr. Neymann and Mrs. Garrow joined with William Palmer and Thomas Davis, the two other defendants, who are cousins of her late husband, in a conspiracy to have her adjudged insane, so the relatives would obtain Glendenning's property.

Judge Brothers' ruling was that Dr. Neymann and Mrs. Garrow were not in any plot.

TRIBUNE SQUARE IS CREATED BY ACT OF COUNCIL

"Tribune Square" was the name officially placed by the city council yesterday upon the block in which THE TRIBUNE Tower is being constructed. The ordinance was presented by Ald. Crowe and was passed unanimously. The alderman said his purpose was to indicate public appreciation of THE TRIBUNE contribution to civic improvement in building the Tower at a cost between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. The Tower design won the $100,000 competition among many architects in this and European countries to produce the most beautiful office building in the world.

A MYSTERY SOLVED

The kilts worn in Scotland have always been a mystery to dwellers in other parts of the world,

Who wonder how the wearers manage to keep warm during the long winter months.

Not such a puzzle, after all, when we consider that oatmeal is the principal food of Scotland;

And oats contain more fat, and consequently more heat, than any other of the cereals.

COUNCIL, WEARY OF SUBWAY TALK, WANTS ACTION

Suggests Diggers Replace City's Experts.

Public avowal of some program fo subway construction as well as a summary of developments in the negotiations for municipalization of the surface and elevated lines' properties wa informally demanded of the city administration in yesterday's council meeting.

The demand will be renewed a Wednesday's meeting. Ald. Alber [43d] warned that he will ask an orde directing Corporation Counsel F. X Busch and the city's corps of tractio experts to report their progress.

Assertion by Ald. U. S. Schwart [4th] that the city has lost to the stat commerce commission the power t force service improvements from eithe of the traction companies plunged th aldermen into hour's debate on the necessity of subways.

Ald. Schwartz declared that th council local transportation committe was unable to compel additional car to be placed in service on South Halsted street and Ashland avenue as requested by Ald. T. F. Moran [16th].

"Near the End of Our Rope."

"The time has come to build subways," declared Ald. Lyle [17th], one of several aldermen who shouted for recognition. "Build or dig them now. Chicago is lagging behind in transportation, and has been for years. Apparently we have reached the end o our rope when we can't even get partial relief from the present intolerable conditions.

"Why not a subway tapping th north, south, and west sides as a starter—anything to indicate that w are about to secure some real service?

"There is no reason why work o some sort of a subway should not b started within a year," declared Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st]. "Let us consider an open cut, four track subway Let us do something, and that quickly."

Ninth Ward Objects.

"My ward doesn't want a subway," protested Ald. S. W. Govier [9th]. "A subway plan was voted down by th people a few years ago, and if anothe is presented we will knock it into a cocked hat just as we did its predecessor."

"The construction of subways withi the loop involves the expenditure o from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 a mile," began Ald. Schwartz, one of the administration's spokesmen.

"Bosh," shouted Ald. Coughlin "you have been provided with plan for an open cut subway possible o construction for less than $3,000,000 a mile."

"And we have less than $40,000,00 in the traction, or so-called subway fund, now," continued Ald. Schwartz. "So far only one subway has been agreed upon by engineers—one which will connect the north side elevated lines at North avenue with the south side lines at 16th street by a bore in State street.

Sees Limited Benefits.

"The construction and equipment o that subway would consume the traction fund, its benefits would be limited, and it would not relieve congestion in districts now without adequate transportation.

"You can't dig a subway without some plan for operating any more than a man would construct a building for the use of one tenant without a definite arrangement with that tenant. None of the traction heads has made any offer of operation of a municipally-built subway which included mention of financial terms.

"The traction fund was accumulated from the fares paid by all of Chicago's car riders and it can't be used for the benefit of a few. Ultimately we will have to build a subway, perhaps, but not until we have worked out every detail.

"I want to serve notice right now that I am going to demand information next week," said Ald. Albert.

Not all cream cheese is "Philadelphia"

Look for the name "Philadelphia" on the wrapper—even your grocer is sometimes mistaken

The only "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese is made by Phenix

MANY people have got into the way of calling any cream cheese "Philadelphia." But as a matter of fact, "Philadelphia" is the exclusive name of a special brand of cream cheese.

It was first made 40 years ago by an expert cheesemaker who wanted to make a richer, better cheese than any that had been made before.

To a special rich milk he added heavy cream and from it made this sweet, delicate cheese with a creamy smoothness. To this day only this richest, most delicate cream cheese made is rightly called "Philadelphia."

To make sure of the remarkable smoothness, freshness and delicacy of flavor of this choice cheese, look for the name "Philadelphia" on the wrapper of the next cream cheese you buy. Phenix Cheese Company, 218 W. Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

COUNCIL, WEARY OF SUBWAY TALK, WANTS ACTION

Suggests Diggers Replace City's Experts.

Public avowal of some program for subway construction as well as a summary of developments in the negotiations for municipalization of the surface and elevated lines' properties was informally demanded of the city administration in yesterday's council meeting.

The demand will be renewed at Wednesday's meeting. Ald. Albert [43d] warned that he will ask an order directing Corporation Counsel F. X. Busch and the city's corps of traction experts to report their progress.

Assertion by Ald. U. S. Schwartz [4th] that the city has lost to the state commerce commission the power to force service improvements from either of the traction companies plunged the aldermen into an hour's debate on the necessity of subways.

Ald. Schwartz declared that the council local transportation committee was unable to compel additional cars to be placed in service on South Halsted street and Ashland avenue as requested by Ald. T. F. Moran [16th].

"Near the End of Our Rope."

"The time has come to build subways," declared Ald. Lyle [17th], one of several aldermen who shouted for recognition. "Build or dig them now. Chicago is lagging behind in transportation, and has been for years. Apparently we have reached the end of our rope when we can't even get partial relief from the present intolerable conditions.

"Why not a subway tapping the north, south, and west sides as a starter—anything to indicate that we are about to secure some real service?"

"There is no reason why work on some sort of a subway should not be started within a year," declared Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st]. "Let us consider an open cut, four track subway. Let us do something, and that quickly."

Ninth Ward Objects.

"My ward doesn't want a subway," protested Ald. S. W. Govier [9th]. "A subway plan was voted down by the people a few years ago, and if another is presented we will knock it into a cocked hat just as we did its predecessor."

"The construction of subways within the loop involves the expenditure of from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 a mile," began Ald. Schwartz, one of the administration's spokesmen.

"Bosh," shouted Ald. Coughlin, "you have been provided with plans for an open cut subway possible of construction for less than $3,000,000 a mile."

"And we have less than $40,000,000 in the traction, or so-called subway fund, now," continued Ald. Schwartz. "So far only one subway has been agreed upon by engineers—one which will connect the north side elevated lines at North avenue with the south side lines at 16th street by a bore in State street.

Sees Limited Benefits.

"The construction and equipment of that subway would consume the traction fund, its benefits would be limited, and it would not relieve congestion in districts now without adequate transportation.

"You can't dig a subway without some plan for operating any more than a man would construct a building for the use of one tenant without a definite arrangement with that tenant. None of the traction heads has made any offer of operation of a municipally built subway which included mention of financial terms.

"The traction fund was accumulated from the fares paid by all of Chicago's car riders and it can't be used for the benefit of a few. Ultimately we will have to build a subway, perhaps, but not until we have worked out every detail.

"I want to serve notice right now that I am going to demand information next week," said Ald. Albert.

R. W. CAMPBELL HEADS TRUSTEES BOARD AT N. U.

ROBERT W. CAMPBELL.

Robert W. Campbell, member of the law firm of Knapp & Campbell and a son-in-law of Elbert H. Gary, head of the United States Steel corporation, was yesterday elected president of the board of trustees of Northwestern university. Mr. Campbell, who served as a trustee for eight years, succeeds Oliver T. Wilson, who retires because of ill health.

For the last year he has served as chairman of the Northwestern campaign committee. His first announcement as president was that the fund now totals $7,217,470.71. He also stated that securities turned over to the university recently by Mrs. A. Montgomery Ward have been found to total $4,223,000 instead of only $4,000,000 as at first announced.

Mr. Campbell resides at 1733 Hinman avenue, Evanston. He was born in Indiana but received his education in California where he practised law before coming to Chicago in 1904. He married Bertha L. Gary, daughter of Judge Gary, in 1901.

HORSE THROWS 'LADY GODIVA' IN FILM 'RIDE'

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30.—"Lady Godiva's" ride across the stage of a make-believe theater at a motion picture studio here today developed into a riot when the white horse upon which Rose Langson was reënacting the famous noblewoman's unclad equestrian appearance went wild, threw its rider, and attempted to trample her, and then leaped over the orchestra pit into a crowd of 450 "extras" playing the part of a fashionable audience.

Miss Langson's arm was broken by a blow of the animal's hoofs before she was pulled out of his reach by property men, and twenty persons were injured in the rush for exits which followed the horse's leap over the footlights.

BRITISH PEER'S HEIR, ACTRESS REPORTED WED

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—A marriage license was issued today to the Hon. Sir Charles John Sackville-West, heir presumptive to the title of Baron Sackville of England, and to Anne Meredith Bigelow, who was known on the stage as Anne Meredith.

In the license the prospective bridegroom gave his age as 53 years and his address as the St. Regis hotel. Mrs. Bigelow gave her age as 28. He could not be reached at his rooms there, but a woman who claimed to be the "former Mrs. Bigelow's secretary" said the pair already had been married.

"The ceremony was performed immediately after the license was issued," she added. "Beyond that I can't say anything else."

The Hon. Sir Charles John Sackville-West is a major general in the British army.

Anne Meredith Bigelow divorced her first husband, Stephen S. Bigelow, prominent in Boston society, in Paris on Oct. 9, 1923. She charged abandonment.

Only Husband Now Left of Five Poisoned by Gas

Gas poisoning claimed two more lives yesterday in the family of Julius Krueger of 3745 West 38th street. The latest to die were Elsie, Krueger's 4 year old daughter, and Edward, his 12 year old son. Mrs. Krueger and a 10 year old daughter, Lydia, died on Tuesday. The husband, who is in the county hospital, is expected to recover. The police have found a leak in a gas pipe near the home and believe the fumes traveled into the house by way of a newly laid sewer. The two children who died yesterday were in Englewood hospital.

3 ROBBERS FAIL TO FIND JEWELS; WOMAN IS SHOT

Colored Maid Questioned by the Police.

Gaining entrance on the pretext that they were seeking work, three colored bandits attempted to rob Mrs. Hattie Raimond in her home at 5315 Prairie avenue yesterday afternoon, and when she resisted one of the trio shot her in the left side.

She was taken to the Mercy hospital, where physicians last night said her condition was serious.

Anna Brown, 4642 Indiana avenue, a colored maid employed a few days ago by Mrs. Raimond, was taken into custody and questioned by Capt. Allman of the Wabash avenue station. Pending a complete check up on her story Capt. Allman ordered the maid locked up.

Mrs. Raimond's Story.

"It was shortly after 2 o'clock when the door bell rang," said Mrs. Raimond, when she was revived at the hospital for a short time. "I was expecting a porter to do interior cleaning. Opening the door, I faced three colored men. The leader pushed a gun into my side and whispered he wanted my money and jewels.

"I couldn't utter a sound. I couldn't scream to attract the attention of neighbors. Two of the Negroes forced me into a bedroom while the third seized the maid. They shook their weapons in my face and one said, 'We'll kill you if you don't tell where the money and jewels are.'

"I tried to tell him, but my speech probably sounded incoherent, for the youngest of the trio raised his gun and fired."

Robbers Were Young.

Mrs. Raimond described the robbers as being between 21 and 25 years old, and wearing dark clothes and caps pulled down over their eyes. After the shooting the robbers ran through a rear door and escaped down an alley, but they had no loot.

Mrs. A. Berman, a neighbor, found Mrs. Raimond lying near the doorway. She notified the police.

LINCOLN INQUEST SET IN AURORA THIS AFTERNOON

An inquest will be held in Aurora this afternoon over the heads of Warren J. Lincoln's two victims. Upon the decision of the coroner's jury may depend the fate of the eccentric slayer.

Lincoln himself is to be called to the stand, but Chief of Police Frank Michels announced that he would not be compelled to testify. Nor will he be forced to view the heads of his wife and brothers-in-law, which he sealed in a concrete block that was found on the city dump.

It is probable that the commission of three alienists who examined Lincoln for five hours Tuesday will be called to tell whether they consider him sane or insane. The jury is privileged to recommend an asylum sentence or grand jury action on a murder charge.

INTERNAL TAXES SHOW U. S. BETTER OFF IN '23 THAN '22

Prosperity Revealed in Revenue Report.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—Internal taxes brought more money to the government in the last six months of 1923 than in the corresponding period of 1922, showing, in the opinion of treasury officials, a healthier and more active business condition generally, inasmuch as the domestic taxes are levied on scores of different industrial and commercial pursuits.

Statistics of receipts between July 1 and Jan. 1 last, as made public tonight by the internal revenue bureau, showed payments to the government of $1,339,797,452 from all internal levies, including income and profits taxes. Receipts for the corresponding period in 1922 were $1,167,646,452.

Income and profits paid their usual large share of the total, $821,259,551 coming from that source, while in the last six months of 1922 this source yielded $676,796,120. There was an increase also in the "miscellaneous" taxes, covering all of the other assessments under the internal revenue law, the comparative receipts being $518,537,900 for the period ending last Jan. 1 and $490,850,308 for the six months ending Jan. 1, 1922.

The receipts include payments of the third and fourth installments on income and profits taxes in the respective years, and, these being smaller than receipts from the first and second installments, the total for the first six months of any year always is larger.

Official opinion, however, was that the increase as between the two periods reflected prosperity in business effort that could be proved in no better way than that generous returns to the owners developed greater tax payments.

New York, Pennsylvania, and Illinois, in order, furnished the greatest amount of taxes. Collections from New York amounted to $344,153,387; Pennsylvania, $126,081,444, and Illinois, $104,981,193.

DEVER REQUESTS RAIL TERMINAL BOARD ABOLITION

Tells Council Sprague Is Doing the Work.

Abolition of the railway terminals commission, as no longer necessary, was urged upon the city council yesterday by Mayor Dever, who cited rapid strides toward fulfillment of terminal projects during the last six months under Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague. The message was referred to the finance committee.

With former Ald. William F. Lipps as chairman, the commission, including Attorney Walter L. Fisher and Edward T. Noonan, an engineer, have expended between $36,000 and $52,000 a year.

"Perhaps because the commission has not had the support of past city administrations, it has been unable to accomplish all that it should have in its nine or ten years' existence," the mayor declared.

Members of the commission's technical staff will be retained as aids by Col. Sprague if the council approves the mayor's proposal. The commissioners themselves, who received $50 daily while actually engaged, may be called on to act in advisory capacity at times.

Within the last six months Col Sprague has obtained the approval of more than half of the fourteen railroads now using the Dearborn street, La Salle street, and Grand Central stations to a consolidation program.

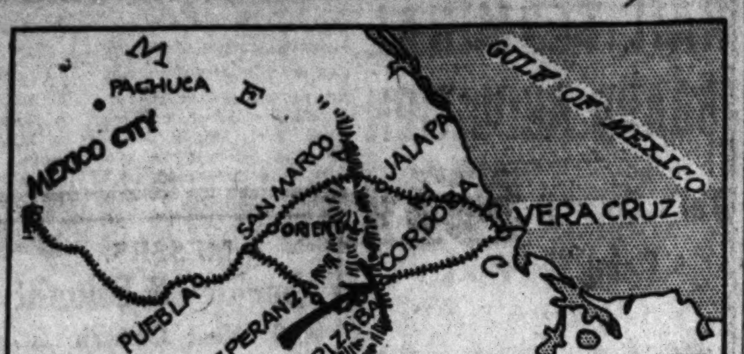
OBREGON VICTORY BREAKS BACK OF REBELS IN EAST

MEXICAN REBELS ON RUN



Mexican federal forces have taken Esperanza and Orizaba, on the Vera Cruz front, and are advancing on Corboda, considered the key to Vera Cruz. Should Corboda fall, it would be downhill all the way to Vera Cruz, the headquarters of De la Huerta, the rebel chief.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

Mexico City, Jan. 30.—A report to the Mexican war office says Frederick Wright, correspondent of The Chicago Tribune with Obregon's army of the east, was wounded while accompanying the Obregon assault troops in the storming of the city of Esperanza. Mr. Wright, after receiving first aid, resumed his place with the federal advance troops, which today passed through Orizaba to battle for the mountain passes on the road to Cordoba. The nature of Mr. Wright's wound is not reported.

BY FREDERICK WRIGHT.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
(Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Esperanza, via Mexico City, Jan. 30.—THE TRIBUNE correspondent just has witnessed the desperate battle of the army of Gen. Eugenio Martinez for the city of Esperanza. The battle continued for three days and two nights, culminating in a hand to hand struggle in the streets of the city before it fell to the federals at 10:30 Tuesday morning. This has been the most decisive and the most extensive battle of the present revolution. The defeat of the rebel forces has been overwhelming.

The rebel dead are about 400, with 800 prisoners, 300 of whom are wounded. The reported federal losses in the actual attack are 40 dead and 70 wounded. The preponderance of rebel dead is due to the tactics of the federal forces which trapped the rebels in the railroad yards where the most of their dead appear.

The final advance of the government troops was so rapid that the rebels had little chance to escape. They left everything behind, including three full trains of supplies and a hospital train with sick and wounded. One train trying to escape was ambushed by government cavalry and every one on it was killed or wounded. All the rebels' war material, including artillery, was taken.

On Monday night Gen. Pedro Leon, commanding the rebel 39th battalion, sent word that his troops desired to surrender. This morning they marched into the federal lines. The members of this battalion were captured in Tabasco by the rebels. They became a part of the rebel army until the opportunity came for them to return to the government. Knowing the disposition of the defense, they helped in the capture of Esperanza.

The rebel force in Esperanza numbered about 5,000 men and was commanded by Gen. Sanchez under Gen. Maycotte and Gen. Antonio Villarreal. The battle which ended today was planned a week ago in Puebla by Gen. Serrano, the secretary of war, Gen. Martinez and Gen. Juan Almazan.

Plan of Battle.

Gen. Martinez, chief of operations on this front, was to proceed north from Tehuacan with the main forces. Gen. Almazan, whose cavalry troops were at Tecamachalco, was to march on Esperanza from that point. Gen. Anacleto Lopez was to proceed from San Marcos and attack Esperanze from the west. The entire operations worked out as planned.

The battle started on the morning of Jan. 26 from Hacienda El Carmen, north of Tehuacan, and rebel camps at Llano Grande and Canada were recaptured by Yaqui troops under Gen. Urbalejo and the cavalry of Gens. Almazan and Fausto Topete.

The advance all that day was through narrow mountain passes. The rebels had dug in on the mountains on both sides of the pass. The federal troops in their advance were compelled to take one position after another by charges under the protection of artillery fire.

Capture of City.

On Jan. 27 the fighting was less severe. The rebels withdrew from Esperanza to make their final stand. Monday night the government troops moved up closer. Tuesday morning at daylight they made the attack which resulted in the capture of this important railway junction point.

The advance towards Vera Cruz is being continued by way of Orizaba.

The rebel defeat was so stunning that it is doubtful if they will be able to make much resistance.

Upon request, purchases will be charged on February account, rendered March 1st.

WATSON, WOMAN IN KORETZ CASE, FOUND IN INDIA

Broke, Shocked by Flight of Oil Hepwing.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

CALCUTTA, Jan. 30.—The "Watson" who wired to Leo Koretz in Chicago on Jan. 19 is Mrs. Jessie Taggart. She is short, stout, dark-haired, and about 35 years old.

Mrs. Taggart, her funds gone, is at the Great Eastern hotel here, trying to obtain passage back to America aboard a freighter. When interviewed she seemed to be greatly distressed.

"I left Vancouver three years ago," she said cautiously, "and I have not seen Mr. Koretz since. I toured China and Japan, arriving in Calcutta seven weeks ago."

Astounded by Koretz's Flight.

Mrs. Taggart admited her usual remittance was not waiting for her when she reached this city. She also admitted she had cabled Koretz for money, using the name of Watson, and had received no response.

When told that Koretz had disappeared Mrs. Taggart was astounded. She claimed to have no knowledge of his whereabouts. She seemed terrified at the notoriety she had received in Chicago because of several letters containing intimate messages which she had written to Koretz.

Weeps at Own Plight.

"I regarded him as a clever, honest man," she said. Tears came to her eyes as she added: "I am lonely and friendless. I had intended to tour Egypt and Palestine, but now I am penniless."

Mrs. Taggart said she had cabled her mother for funds.

CHICAGO CABLES CLEW.

It was last Thursday that two intercepted cables signed "Watson" were produced before Referee Harry Parkin in the bankruptcy case growing out of the disappearance last December of Leo Koretz, Chicago swindler whose Bayano oil bubble victimized investors out of more than $5,000,000.

The last message, sent in code, from Calcutta, on Jan. 19, read:

"Anxiously awaiting reply to my telegram of Jan. 11. Have not received November or December. Telegraph immediately November, December, and January. WATSON."

Efforts to find "Watson," whom THE TRIBUNE correspondent interviewed in Calcutta yesterday, were started immediately. Attorneys wished to find out whether "he" was in possession of any "lost" assets of Koretz's oil bubble.

Mrs. Jessie Taggart came into the investigation soon after Koretz disappeared when it was found he had shared a safety deposit box with her in Chicago. Mrs. Taggart formerly was a public stenographer and occupied desk space in Koretz's office when the latter was located in the Rector building.

She was named as one of the women whom Koretz, under the name of "Al Bronson," had installed in a north side apartment.

A year ago she left on a tour of the world. She wrote letters to Koretz, one of which was intercepted after he had fled. It told of her adventures in Manila, Ceylon, and the federated Malay states, adding that she would cable him when she reached Calcutta and Bombay.

Did Sundae Come From India?

Can it be that the magic of the East had anything to do with creating this delectable dish we moderns call the Ice Cream Sundae?

W. A. Brewer of Lombard, Ill., thinks so. Here's his claim, based on the word of an old English soldier (name not given), who served in India a half century ago. At that time, runs the story, the wealthy East Indians and English residents used to go to the mountains during the hot season. There where ice was available they froze cream and covered it over with fruit juices. This they called "Sunda."

So far, no cablegrams from Bombay in verification. More news tomorrow.

In the meantime, just to get an idea how good a Sundae can be made, drop in at one of our 2,000 Hydrox Agencies. Remember, there's a whole yearful of these more delicious Sundaes awaiting the discoverer of the real Sundae inventor.

GERMANS PLEDGE DAWES FULL AID IN DEBT INQUIRY

Experts Welcomed by Chancellor Marx.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Jan. 30.—Frankness and complete coöperation were promised tonight by Chancellor Marx in a speech of welcome to Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago and Owen B. Young of New York, and the allied members of the reparations experts committee.

In the large room where Prince Bismarck once stood to address those fortunate enough to obtain an audience with him, the chancellor, surrounded by his ministers and higher officials, all of whom had sober, unoptimistic faces, met the Americans, English, French, Italians, and Belgians, all of whom have come to Berlin to study Germany's ability to pay reparations.

Plenty of German Gloom.

None of the optimism which has shown on the faces of the German officials during the last few weeks as the German economic situation has improved, was discernible on the faces of Herr Marx and his colleagues. The general impression conveyed to the visiting delegation was one of profound gloom.

"I am glad of the opportunity offered me in welcoming you here in the name of the German government," Herr Marz began. "The reparations commission has entrusted you with the task of discovering ways and means of stabilizing German currency.

"Our government departments will leave nothing undone that may assist you in the accomplishment of your task which is so difficult and which involves such a heavy responsibility. Your desires will be considered and your questions will be answered with the utmost promptness and in a spirit of unreserved frankness."

Thanks Germans for Pledge.

To this Gen. Dawes replied:

"Being on a common committee we know the importance of a common understanding among the allies on a solution of the problems now before us and we think it very important that the German cabinet coöperate with us. We hope that such an understanding will be reached. We thank you very much for the assurance of your aid and coöperation."

Simplicity

¶ A blue-eyed child is born into the world and straightway begins to gather impressions of the things about him.

¶ Later in his childhood and his manhood there may appear a tendency to complicate the sweet simplicity of life by illusions that suggest and pretend to solve problems that do not exist.

¶ And yet students of man inevitably ascertain that greatness and nobility are, as a rule, associated with a winning simplicity.

¶ So, too, among business institutions, you sometimes encounter a form of simplicity that unmistakably suggests intense sincerity.

¶ Henrici's has consistently rejected all complication in seeking a patronage that has helped to make Henrici's the leading institution of its particular kind in all the world.

¶ Through sincere adherence to quality in food, service and environment, Henrici's has won prestige such as few establishments have known.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE IS MORALLY INDICTED.

William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league in New York, has been found guilty of forgery. He falsified the books to cover a transaction by which he split with a collector for the league. His explanation was about the strangest ever heard in the defense of a criminal case. A total stranger had given him $25,000. He never had seen the man before; didn't know where he lived or if he was alive. The benevolent man was in his life less than a year; Anderson knew nothing of him then or any other time, but he got $25,000 from him.

He disposed of it almost as strangely as he received it, giving it for publicity work to a man of whom he knew little or nothing and for results of which he saw next to nothing. He then reimbursed himself by splitting with the collector, Phillips, and covered the transaction by forgery.

The significance of the affair is not so much that it reveals the superintendent of the league in New York as a forger. It is in the attitude of the directors and supporters of the league. Any man may be weak, and some may be dishonest. A bank president may betray a trust. That does not indict the banking profession. But if bankers held that the betrayal was all right, it would.

The officials of the Anti-Saloon league in New York, here in Illinois, and all over the country indorse Anderson. They fought to keep the prosecutors from proceeding with the case. They denied it was any one's business. They did more than condone. They asserted the honesty of the transaction involving money contributed to them by duped supporters. They threatened the legislature, the prosecutors, and the courts.

They say they knew all the facts before they were developed in court. "Nothing new has been brought out that we did not know," says Scott McBride of the Illinois league. "Our executive committee, of which I am a member, expressed entire confidence in Mr. Anderson's integrity."

That is the indictment of the whole organization.

THE BOK FAKE.

The final discrediting of the Bok peace award scheme has been accomplished by the refusal of Mr. Bok's representative to answer a quite reasonable interrogation by the senate committee. The public will wonder why Mr. Bok shuns frank and full disclosure of the means and methods used in furthering his project and of the process by which the award was determined. If the scheme was on the square, why hide its merits? If there was nothing improper or discreditable in the proceeding, why hide the facts?

The truth is that the scheme was a trick from the start, stamped with disingenuousness, supported by buncombe. The referendum, so-called, was an attempt to give the appearance of popular approval to a prearranged scheme for getting the country into the league by the back door. The disingenuousness and indirection displayed in this scheme provide a sardonic commentary on the claims to lofty morality and idealism assumed by league advocates. If America should be unwise enough to enter the league and showed no more courage, candor, or plain dealing than has been exhibited by the proponents of the Bok project our contribution to European politics would not qualify us for the office of moral monitor to mankind to which our internationalists aspire.

The Bok incident had better be buried as promptly as possible. Its odor does not improve with time and exposure.

THE POLITICS OF TAX TINKERING.

In view of the efforts now being made to compromise the administration's tax reduction program it seems proper to emphasize that suggested changes are inspired by politics rather than by sound business. The effort of the administration through the Mellon plan is, first, to reduce the tax burden on earned incomes of less than $10,000 a year, which, presumably, is hardest to carry, and, second, to reduce the surtaxes which restrict prosperity by driving the larger fortunes out of business into tax exempt securities, etc.

Government statistics reveal that 90 per cent of the taxable earned incomes of this country are reported by persons earning less than $10,000 a year. Assuming that all income tax payers are voters, it is easy to understand why Democrats and radicals, seeking votes, should seek to cut the taxes of this 90 per cent, and keep the burden upon the one-tenth, negligible as voters. There is another way to put it. Five million seven hundred and thirty-four thousand persons pay taxes on incomes of less than $5,000 a year. Only 6,450 pay taxes on incomes of more than $100,000. Superficially, it is politically wise to win the good will of nearly six millions of voters at the cost of the ill will of less than 7,000.

But if such action keeps the large fortunes out of productive business, as experience shows it tends to do, and prosperity is thereby depressed and jobs made scarce and of poor pay, the party which is responsible will be held to account when hard times develop. To promote such a possibility would be a political error, but one which numerous tinkerers with the Mellon plan seem inclined to make.

EVERYBODY HAPPY BUT THE STRAPHANGER.

The proceedings for the purchase of the traction lines are announced to be progressing "rapidly and satisfactorily." If all goes well, a plan for purchasing can be placed before the voters in April, which will be highly satisfactory, we have no doubt, to the owners of traction securities and to Mr. Dever and all champions of the glorious cause of municipal socialism.

Meanwhile we recommend that the straphanger keep a firm grip on his strap and his patience and prepare to get as much comfort as he can out of the prospect of being jammed, manhandled, and interminably delayed in a municipal instead of a private enterprise. The traction fund amassed for his relief through the only thing which could give him relief, a subway, will go to make Mr. Dever and the traction companies happy, and a glorious victory for the people will be represented by a new name on the old cars.

What the peasant said of the chameleon the weary straphanger can say of the traction muddle: the more it changes the more it is the same thing. Mr. Dever as a traction expert has forgot nothing and learned nothing through all the futile pother of I. M. O. The straphanger has our sympathy and the "traction barons" our congratulations.

HARD HEARTED PACIFISM.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, speaking on preparedness before the Kansas society in New York, referred to "soft headed pacifists," who, he said, would abolish the country's army and navy in the belief that other governments would follow suit. His characterization seems too mild. Under it a great many persons would escape culpability just as murderers frequently escape the penalty of crime through a plea of insanity.

The fact is that the leaders of the pacifists in this country are the reverse of soft headed. They are hard headed, and, in effect, hard hearted. They are busily, comfortably, and profitably engaged in time of peace, just as all paid reformers are engaged, in making a living on the lecture platform and in other phases of the work of propagandizing and organizing for the promotion of their theories. They are comfortably and safely retired in time of war, while the men whom they have handicapped go forth to hardship, battle, and death in the interest of the nation.

There is, of course, a great mass of the "soft headed pacifists," who follow the hard headed and hard hearted leaders, contribute to their support, and thus make such leadership a paying business. They form an unthinking rabble which is called upon for votes and other expressions of public sentiment at the will of their shrewd and unscrupulous leaders to weaken and demoralize the army and navy so that when an emergency arises the young men of the country are hurried into war without adequate training, adequate direction, or adequate material with which to defend themselves and their country.

Such pacifism in peace is morally guilty of murder in time of war. As Col. Roosevelt says, his brother Quentin was killed in the great war because he was sent to fly in a bad airplane. He was sent to fly in that machine because no better ones were available. No better ones were available largely because obstructive pacifists had preached against preparedness.

The same potential situation exists for every man called to fight for his country. If because of the propaganda of pacifism he is insufficiently trained, officered, and supplied, his chances of death or injury are correspondingly increased, and his chances of ending the war by victory correspondingly decreased. It is utter folly, and the folly of a cowardly and selfish group which never expects to fight.

THE PRESIDENT AGAINST OVERCENTRALIZATION.

The announcement that the President proposes to resist further federal aid for the states will be good news to every American who has realized the dangers of overcentralization. As we have pointed out repeatedly, there has been growing a pernicious habit of turning to the central government for the correction of everything any group of zealous reformers finds wrong in private or public conduct. It is a tendency which in detail wears most plausible guises and draws upon the moral impulse of good citizens aroused to this evil or that, without disclosing its ultimate general consequences. These are the certain overloading of the federal administration, the discouragement of local initiative and responsibility, and the growth of an intolerable bureaucracy.

The tendency is insidious and powerful and calls for all the resistance we can muster to check it. To have so formidable an influence as that of the President is most encouraging. Loyal Americans, regardless of politics, must be glad to observe in Mr. Coolidge a watchful and stalwart devotion to our constitutional system and its principles.

Editorial of the Day

THE CURSE OF McADOO.

[Vancouver Sun.]

Until the notorious McAdoo labor award is ironed out and thrown away, transportation conditions on this North American continent cannot get down to normal and the railways will labor under a burden which in turn is borne with suffering by the working public.

The McAdoo award was primarily a war measure. Its first effect was to increase salaries, shorten hours, and enlarge the staffs of railways. Its purpose was to make Mr. McAdoo President.

Unhappily, long after the exigencies of war conditions have passed, its effects still remain. In small stations where one man was solely in charge and who really worked about two hours a day, three men were put in—and three still remain. Conductors on little runs of two and three hours were awarded salaries of $400 and $500 a month, brakemen and firemen on a comparative scale. They still get it.

The total result is that the McAdoo award is still costing this continent fully 25 per cent of its transportation bill. Of even greater harmful effect is the psychological result of maintaining thousands of men in comparative idleness. An idle man is not only a curse to himself but a millstone around the neck of the industry he pretends to serve.

Transportation is the lifeblood of any country and it is absolutely up to the railroad executives to get their lines operating at costs the traffic can bear. The effect of the McAdoo award must be wiped out some time. And there should be railway brains in Canada capable of making a start towards that end.

Relaxed, in the Kremlin's shadow,
The quiet hand that steady held the wheel.
At rest the tired unswerving mind, world-visioning,
Which drove the bark, wisely or wrongly,
yet forthright,
Through tempest that was Petrograd,
'Twixt rock and breaker, Proletariat,
Through crafty shallows, Brest-Litovsk.
Closed the Tartar eye that looked aslant and calm,
Over the sea,
Vigilant,
Through the mist, to hazy harbors serene,
The coming of the morning in the East
Lit up Revolution's crimson beams—
How now, Lenin?
After the stormy voyage hast thou sweet sleep?
Or does a troubled dream float by,
Of a ship
Crazily adrift on a desolate sea—
The derelict that is Russia?—
Sleep, Lenin.

IN OUR OWN little circle the news of the conviction for forgery of William H. Anderson, the celebrated dry chieftain, fell like a bombshell. Old Jack Gallagher broke down and cried like a child and Bill McKay rocked back and forth and moaned and moaned. Bob Longmore drowned his sorrow in three glasses of coca-cola, and then, white faced and grief stricken, roamed down Rush street hunting for a sarsaparilla dive. Ah! 'twas a sad night, men.

HOME CANNING DANGERS.

THE great majority of the outbreaks of botulinus poisoning are among those who have eaten home packed foods. No one is justified in eating any of the more dangerous varieties of home packed foods without first thoroughly cooking before serving them. The commercial canners are turning out far safer products. As matters now stand there is rarely danger of botulinism from eating commercially canned products and the outlook is that within a year or two there will be none at all. The commercial canners are showing great willingness to change their processes whenever safer procedures are shown to be feasible.

That certain foods are more liable than others to be infected with botulinus is a matter of common information. Schoenhols, Esty and Myer investigated the infectibility of different foods. They infected foods with botulinus, heated them, packed them, kept them for a certain time, and then opened the cans and examined for bacillus botulinus and its products.

They found canned corn, peas, salmon, sweet potatoes and pumpkin spoiled very quickly and very toxic after being infected, heated insufficiently and then canned. The cans were swollen and the products generally tasted wrong.

Cans of asparagus and beets were sometimes found swollen and sometimes flat. The contents of the can sometimes appeared natural in taste, odor and appearance, even though they were highly poisonous. The same was true of ripe olives. Sometimes it was found that infected asparagus, beets and olives were not poisonous even though bacillus botulinus had been added and then the food had been heated.

Canned red and green peppers were only weakly poisonous. Botulinus did not appear to make much poison in these. Spinach that was poisonous was sometimes found to taste sour, or cheesy; sometimes it tasted normal. The cans containing poisonous spinach were swollen in about half the tests.

The same observation applied to string beans. About one-half the cans were "swells." There seemed to be very little chance that botulinus will make poison when it gets into apricots, cherries, peaches, plums, raspberries, strawberries, tomatoes, and sauerkraut.

Acidity was a factor in the life of the bacillus and its work as a poison maker. As a rule, some foods are safe.

Underheating, prior to and during canning is only one factor in the development of botulinus poison. To protect against the danger, it is wise to select fresh foods, to clean them thoroughly and to cut out the worm holes, bruises and moldy parts.

BETTER CHANGE YOUR RESTAURANT.

C. W. writes: In defense of the women, answering an article in the paper, let me say that in my building no provision is made for washing the hands in the men's lavatory. Let us hope that the eighteen girls washed carefully in their respective offices, where water and clean towels could be obtained.

In a certain chain of restaurants advertised as furnishing clean food it seems to be considered the proper thing for the man attendant to put the butter on customers' plates with his fingers.

I have corrected this many times and have warned that the offender is subject to prosecution.

As a nonsmoker, I naturally object to having tobacco smoke blown in my face from thousands of pedestrians. The auto smoke must also be a menace to good health. I am told that a new device attached to the exhaust of all automobiles will prevent all smoke. This, or some similar device, should be used by all auto drivers. It seems to me that the smoking of hand rolled cigarets and of cigars carried loosely in the pocket must be an unhealthful habit.

POKE BERRIES STRONG MEDICINE.

R. W. A. writes: Poke berries have been recommended to me as a remedy for rheumatism.

Are they poisonous or in any way injurious?

What would be your advice to any one who had suffered for a long time from rheumatism and not received much good from medical treatment or recommendations of friends?

REPLY.

Poke berry is rather a powerful medicine. Do not use it except under your physician's directions.

Rheumatism is the name given a large number of diseases. In this group are some that bear no special relation to others.

Nothing is gained by treating a case of so-called rheumatism until you know which kind you have.

NOT TOO OLD.

Miss Atlanta writes: Will you please tell me if it will be dangerous for me to have my tonsils taken out? I am 45. They must come out, as I feel something running from them.

REPLY.

No. You are not too old. I knew a man to have his taken out at 75. He then started in to live to be 100.

CHILDREN AS IMMIGRANTS.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—I have two nephews in Ireland about 10 years old who, through unfortunate circumstances in the family, are left without much promise for the future. I should like to bring them over here to become Americans, and I would be responsible for them. How could I insure their entrance into the United States? I am a citizen of the United States.

J. D.

The British quota is exhausted, so it would be impossible to bring the boys here until after July 1, 1924.

Children under 16 years of age are not admissible to the United States unless they are accompanied by one or both parents. However, when circumstances are exceptionally favorable and the aliens are coming to a near relative, it is possible that the children may be admitted. HOWARD D. EBEY, Inspector in Charge, U. S. Immigration Serv.

LEASE TROUBLES.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I have moved into a new apartment building and since doing so the building has settled, causing cracks under the outside doors and preventing several inside doors from closing. Some of them stay open a foot. The landlord will not remedy this.

1. Will the court stand back of me if I have this repaired and deduct it from the rent?

2. What is the temperature of water that is considered hot?

3. If the lease calls for hot water and it is not furnished does that constitute breaking the lease?

W. E.

1. The landlord is in general, under no legal obligations to the tenant to clean or repair parts of the premises that are under the exclusive control of the tenant.

2. There is no exact figure fixed by the ordinance.

3. Yes, but we would not regard it as a substantial breach, such as to excuse you from liability. The safest way to enforce your rights would be to supply the deficiency with gas and sue for the cost.

THE FIREMEN'S APPEAL FOR A RAISE.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—In The Tribune of Friday morning, Jan. 18, "No Increase for City Firemen?" The civic organizations, citizens' association, Griffenhagen efficiency experts, and so-called reform organizations should interest themselves with looking up the tax dodgers who owe Chicago millions in low assessed valuations, also the collection of $30,000,000 back taxes from fire and marine insurance companies.

The Supreme court rules that the money can be collected under a decision of the State Supreme court last June, in which it was held that fire and marine insurance companies are subject to tax on net premium receipts. Of the total $30,000,000 claimed to be due, Chicago would receive $16,000,000, to be collected in Chicago.

The voters and people of Chicago are in sympathy with the firemen for an increase in salary, as they are signing our petitions. We expect to have 500,000 signers. We have distributed 200,000 pamphlets, explaining why we should have an increase in salary. Twenty-one cities are getting more salary than we are. Even the insurance patrols, who go to fires with us, pay their firemen more salary than we get. How can the aldermen ignore 500,000 signers of our petition?

Daniel J. Sullivan,
Secretary Firemen's association.

PERHAPS SUCH A PEPPY YOUTH WILL SHOW UP AGAIN.

Boone, Ia., Jan. 25.—It was with a sad heart that I picked up your Monday edition and noticed that your unrivaled feature, "The Heir at Large," had ended. I believe I have read every installment of this story since the first. It has been a very much worth while effort, and I surely hope that you folks soon will start something of this kind again.

George Brunton.

YES, YES, GO ON.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Evidently from the frantic tone of The Tribune editorials against Bok, the owners of The Tribune suffer from the delusion that they have a monopoly of the right to expound their views and try to bring about their adoption.

I've felt for a long time that newspaper proprietors are no more entitled to the right of pouring poison into the minds of the public than anybody else. Of course, those who fatten on that kind of thing cry "Freedom of the press!" But the laws of libel offer no protection against the insidious coloring of news, the deliberately weak presentation of an opponent's views, the artful innuendo, and the smothering of items in the makeup. And in my judgment The Tribune is one of the chief offenders in these respects.

Horace W. O'Connor.

"EVERYTHING FOR THE DISABLED."

Chicago, Jan. 25.—"Everything for the disabled" is a pretty catch phrase for the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus league, but the sorrow of it is that it means no more now than it ever did.

The writer is a disabled veteran and is receiving the benefit of training and training pay from the government, but, due to his disability, has not accumulated any property of any value, but has to pay his taxes indirectly.

The mere fact that his income is limited does not exempt him from high rents, clothing, and foodstuffs, and he has looked forward to the bonus as a means of helping him acquire an acre or two for chicken raising.

Now this is his proposition to the Ex-Service Men's Anti-Bonus league. Let every able bodied ex-service man who does not need his bonus pair off with a disabled man who does, and both turn it into a general fund for all who wish to "besmirch" their honor, or let Mr. Able Bodied do it as an individual.

The writer enlisted three days after war was declared, served in France a year and was sent home on account of his disability, and honor or no honor, he wants the little old bonus as bad as any of them wanted their cost plus 10 per cent, and as much more as they could grab.

AFTER FOUR YEARS IN SOVIET MOSCOW.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Before the Russian revolution the population of Moscow was about 2,000,000. During the six years' rule of the bolsheviki the Russian inhabitants of Moscow had been systematically exterminated, through executions, death in the prisons, or deportation. According to the city registration of Moscow as of Oct. 1, 1923, there were in Moscow 916,000 non-Russians and 600,000 Russians (mostly workers and soldiers). When the sixth anniversary of the Russian revolution was celebrated delegates from the workers and the army informed the bolshevik government that they would march only when the non-Russians had been banned from the parade. In reply to this there were numerous arrests, followed by the eviction of 10,000 Russians. Immediately thereafter 20,824 Russians were ordered to leave town. There are now living in Moscow one Russian to every three non-Russians. Everything Russian of national character is being destroyed or banned.

The huge processions and the tribute paid by hundreds of thousands of people to the greatest of all criminals, Lenin; the marching of these unclothed, unshod Russian people, when the temperature was 35 degrees below zero, and the services held by Archbishop Tikhon—all that was nothing else but a trick and was intended for the ignorant and for the press abroad. The people are ordered to parade and to cry "Hurrah!" under the penalty of being shot. I have endured all this myself during my four years' residence in Moscow.

L. Klein.

WHO GETS KILLED IN THE MIDDLE OF THE BLOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—For your information, 118 men, 31 women, 108 boys, and 39 girls—or 149 adults and 147 children under 16 years of age—make up the total of 296 killed by motor vehicles in the middle of the block during 1923.

Publication of such information is surely in the interests of safety. Two hundred and ninety-six persons killed in the middle of the block indicates that the street between intersections is particularly hazardous. "The implication" is: Drivers, be careful; pedestrians, be careful; parents, warn your children that the middle of the block is especially dangerous.

The Chicago Motor club is not attempting to justify motor vehicle fatalities nor is it attempting to shift the responsibility, but we know something about automobile accidents, and know, too, how these accidents can be reduced. In the interest of the community they must be reduced.

For eighteen years we have studied accident prevention, and we believe in educational work. It is not an experiment with us. We have accomplished much along educational lines, and we propose to intensify this work.

Neillsville, Wis., Jan. 28.—The lists of bank failures The Tribune published almost each day make interesting reading. But my recollection runs back to Cleveland's second administration, when The Tribune head writer so happily used a heading over such items, "Another Bank Gone Democratic."

It was a peculiarly striking expression and I wonder if your present head writers are not so talented as those in the early '90s.

SMALL'S BUYING ARMOUR BONDS SHOWN IN SUIT

Price Close to State Funds He Loaned.

Evidence that Gov. Len Small, while treasurer of Illinois, personally receipted for $60,000 worth of Armour & Co. bonds for which he paid $58,010, was uncovered by Attorney General Brundage's staff yesterday in the interest recovery suit against the governor.

The disclosure, the prosecution says, is highly significant, coming when Gov. Small is trying to escape responsibility by putting the burden on his dead friend, Senator E. C. Curtis, who carried on the actual negotiations with the packers for loans of state money.

The bond purchase was uncovered during examination of George E. Holmes, assistant auditor of the Continental and Commercial National bank.

Tracing Bond Deal.

Briefly, this transaction was traced through the bank records as follows:

The Kankakee Trust and Savings bank, of which Small was and still is president, applied for the purchase of $60,000 worth of Armour & Co. bonds on June 15, 1918. The Continental and Commercial National bank acknowledged receipt of the application in a letter to C. R. Miller, cashier of Small's bank, who now is the governor's director of public works.

Miller was told the bonds would be delivered about June 26. On June 24 the Kankakee Trust and Savings bank asked that the bonds be issued to Small personally.

State's $60,000 Deposited.

Five days previous, Small, as treasurer of Illinois, turned over to Curtis through the "phantom" Grant Park bank, $60,000 of state money. This money Curtis deposited to the credit of his bona fide institution, the Grant Park Trust and Savings bank, at the Continental and Commercial National bank.

When the bonds were ready for delivery they were paid for out of the deposit Curtis had made, but the bank received the personal receipt of Len Small for the $60,000 worth of bonds when it received the $58,010 payment.

This receipt was identified by Mr. Holmes yesterday.

COP, ESCORTING GIRL TO MOVIE, GRABS 3 THUGS

Policeman Harold O'Brien of the Sheffield avenue station, a brother of State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, interrupted his time off last evening by capturing three armed bandits. He sent them to the station.

O'Brien was en route to a movie theater with a young woman. At Oak and Sedgwick streets he observed a man who walked with a limp. He took a second look.

"I don't know who the two gents are that're with him," O'Brien said to his friend, "but the fellow with the bum foot is wanted by the cap'n. Just excuse me for a minute."

The copper bowed and left her. He trailed the trio for a block. Then, when they were approaching a street lamp, he crossed and introduced himself.

"I'm a police officer. Stick 'em up!"

Two of the men did. The third whipped out a revolver and placed it against O'Brien's side. There was a click as he pulled the trigger. The magazine had jammed.

An occasional dose of
SYRUP PEPSIN
Keeps young girls fit

False Modesty Wrecks Health

THE young lady just assuming the responsibilities of a woman is very apt to be self-conscious of her physical functions, and in consequence neglect them. There is no time, however, when it is more important for her to look after them. Chief among her troubles is constipation, and her suffering will be serious when she gets older if she does not regulate her bowels now. Mrs. Mary Kellar of 132 Benton St., Sisterville, W. Va., was perplexed about her daughter until her own druggist told her they used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at his house, and she did likewise. Miss Irene Mazierska of 90 Peter St., Buffalo, N. Y., is glad her attention was called to Syrup Pepsin.

Safe for Young and Old

Let mothers with growing daughters interest themselves in this matter and see that their judgment is enforced. A rule followed by many is to take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin once a week until the bowels function daily, and at such other times as there is headache, biliousness, sores and fever blisters, lack of energy and appetite, sleeplessness, indigestion.

A dose can be given in these conditions to any member of the family however young or old as Syrup Pepsin is a simple compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasing aromatics, and perfectly safe.

Public Recognizes Merit

You will quickly see the difference between a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and castor oil, or rough cathartics and physics. Syrup Pepsin acts gently and does not gripe. Increased doses are not necessary. A bottle can be had at any drug store, and a spoonful costs less than a cent. It has been successfully used for thirty years and is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles having been sold in drug stores last year. Keep Syrup Pepsin in your medicine chest.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying

BRITAIN TO TRY NEW DIPLOMACY OF FRANKNESS

Intimidation of France Stops—MacDonald.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Premier Poincare's answer to Prime Minister MacDonald's letter is said to be in the hands of the French ambassador in London, but it will not be presented until Mr. MacDonald returns from Scotland tomorrow.

THE TRIBUNE understands M. Poincare welcomes Mr. MacDonald's friendly spirit which suggests as a good Englishman to a good Frenchman that it should be possible to discuss the Anglo-French situation without surrendering their respective viewpoints. The letters are said to be friendly in tone, but mark little advance in the relations between the two countries.

Talk about a meeting between the English and French premiers is growing, but it is not likely that Mr. MacDonald can find time for this before the meeting of parliament.

Attacks Curzon's Policy.

THE TRIBUNE is able to give some account of what happened at the cabinet meeting on Monday. Mr. MacDonald made a long speech in which he criticised the methods of old diplomacy and promised a radical change. He bitterly attacked Lord Curzon's policy, which he said was directed towards isolating and intimidating France. He asserted it was not dictated by public interest but by personal vanity and spite.

This is not a method of dealing with a great neighboring nation, Mr. MacDonald said, no matter how good are the grounds for dissatisfaction. Old diplomacy has had its day and must be put away. New diplomacy, which he said he wanted to introduce, must be based on frankness and good will. If the thing is right, it is right all through and should be done irrespective of political profit or advantage.

Mr. MacDonald said the old idea of intimidating France was pernicious, and while the French policy was most unsatisfactory it must be remembered how great was the provocation of France and how little a guarantee for French safety was given in the treaty of Versailles.

Reorganizes Foreign Office.

The prime minister said that his sympathies went out to the miserable German nation, but that did not mean that he would back the present German régime, which was based not on democracy but on the tyranny of Stinnes and his fellow magnates.

Changes in the staff of the British foreign office already have begun. Robert Vansittart, who has been Lord Curzon's chief private secretary, announced that he was taking a six months' leave of absence, after which he probably will be sent to a post abroad. There are rumors that Sir William Tyrrell, who has been accused of being strongly pro-French and who is second in command of the permanent staff, may get a ministry abroad, while Sir Eyre Crowe, chief of the permanent staff, may retire.

Arthur Ponsonby, parliamentary secretary of foreign affairs, is said to be taking command of the office. He formerly was a member of the diplomatic service and is thoroughly familiar with the organization of the foreign office.

French Put on Soft Pedal.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The French foreign office, although continuing to maintain the strictest secrecy regarding the exchange of letters between Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Premier Poincare, made every effort today to counteract the impression given in the governmental press that the fundamental divergencies in views between the English and French had been increased rather than lessened by the two notes.

Mr. MacDonald's views as set forth in his letter were described as "extreme views on the conduct of international policies concerning France and England" and M. Poincare's reply as a "sincere effort to demonstrate friendliness towards Mr. MacDonald's projects and his desire to orientate diplomacy towards the league of nations."

At the same time it is not denied that France will need plenty of reflection and adequate guarantees before anything decisive can happen in the way of international conferences or of surrendering the problems of reparations and security to the Geneva organization.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—August Schultz, 58, met instant death at the Illinois Brick company at Lansing this morning when a frozen chunk of earth weighing about ten tons fell fifty feet from the top of the claypit embankment and crushed him.

GREECE TO STRIP KING OF RIGHTS; VENIZELOS OUT

Premier Quits Because of New Illness.

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ATHENS, Jan. 30.—Upon the request of Premier Venizelos the Greek cabinet tonight nominated M. Caplandaris, minister of justice and a lawyer of high standing, as the premier's permanent successor. M. Venizelos was compelled to take this action as the result of the serious turn which his nervous breakdown of yesterday has taken.

The republican project declaring the Glucksbourg dynasty abolished in Greece, and stripping King George of all his civil rights and property in Greece and forbidding any member of the family to live in Greece, probably will be approved by the assembly tomorrow. Republican leaders announce that liberal republicans under M. Roussous, foreign minister, will support the project, thus providing an ample majority.

The plebiscite will be held in April in accordance with M. Venizelos' program, and it will necessarily give the republic a majority, as there is no candidate for the throne.

Fear Attack by Jugo-Slavia.

The cabinet's action is expected to stop the danger of a sudden republican coup d'état. As the army of more than 100,000 consists entirely of republicans, there is not the slightest chance of a royalist coup.

It is feared that Jugo-Slavia and Roumania may intervene if a republic is established by force. They probably will seize Saloniki, which Jugo-Slavia covets.

King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia told M. Venizelos in Paris that his nation was displeased with the expulsion of King George in order to set up a republic, but it would not interfere if a plebiscite proved that the majority preferred a republic.

Italy May Aid Serbs.

However, intervention may take place not only through sympathy for the Glucksbourg dynasty but because of fear of the example to disgruntled elements in Jugo-Slavia and Roumania if a Greek republic is set up by force. Jugo-Slavia would expect sympathetic support for their action from Italy, which covets Corfu.

DRIVE AGAINST SPEED REDUCES COURTS' WORK

A great change has come over the Speeders' courts, officials remarked yesterday when not one intoxicated driver and only four speeders were arraigned. The other defendants, and they were few, were charged with minor traffic violations.

In the days before the intensive drives against the speed menace, speeders and drunken drivers greatly outnumbered the minor violators. Now the reverse has set in, it was remarked.

Four men who figure prominently in the city's business and social affairs, narrowly escaped injury when the automobile in which they were riding in Michigan boulevard crashed into a safety island at East Erie street. The driver, H. K. Farrar, 931 Hinman avenue, Evanston, swerved into the island in an effort to avoid striking a taxicab. Mr. Farrar's companions were Pierce Ward of Winnetka, a member of Marshall Field, Glore, Ward & Co.; Wayne Chatfield Taylor, 10 East Schiller street, and J. B. Forgan Jr., son of the banker.

Boy, 14, Helps Sister Flee Institutional Home

After aiding in the escape of his 15 year old sister, Marguerite, from the House of the Good Shepherd, James Heath, aged 14, of 4635 Malden avenue, left with her last night for parts unknown. The parents of the children notified the police of their disappearance after they learned that the boy had effected his sister's release from the institution in which she had been placed for continual truancy from school.

INCOME TAX QUIZ AND A NEW DRINK TRAIL DRY TRIAL

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Special agents and examiners of the internal revenue bureau of the treasury department have been instructed to investigate the federal income tax returns of W. H. Anderson, convicted superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, in the forgery case, and O. Bertsall Phillips, ex-collector of the league, who was Anderson's accuser.

Examination will include their private papers and records of payments. The period to be examined, as shown by the books of the league itself, covers the early part of 1921. The statute of limitation provides that action must be taken before the lapse of three years. The three year period expires March 15.

$4,400 Not in Tax Return.

On the stand during his trial Mr. Anderson admitted that the $4,400 which he took from Phillips under their "50-50" arrangement on all of Phillips' commissions in excess of $10,000 was not included in his tax return. It was not included because Anderson claimed it was repayment of a loan and not earned income, and that the loan was made in 1913 and 1914 to the league before the income tax law was passed.

"This is all old stuff," said Orville Poland, counsel for the league. "We have had reports of similar investigations before, but nothing ever came of them. Of course, all books are open and the authorities have the right to inspect them."

Decide to Appeal Case.

Definite decision has been reached to appeal Anderson's conviction on the state forgery charge. Plans for the appeal will be discussed at a conference tomorrow between Anderson's attorneys. Actual appeal will be deferred until after Anderson is sentenced by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins on Feb. 8.

Assistant District Attorney Pecora would not commit himself on whether the four remaining indictments against Anderson would be pressed for trial. These indictments allege grand larceny and extortion.

Conviction of Anderson will not affect his relations with the Anti-Saloon league, in the view of the Rev. Dr. David J. Burrell, president of the New York state branch of the organization. Mr. Anderson will retain his position as state superintendent pending his appeal.

John T. King, the man of mystery who "gave" Mr. Anderson large sums of money, is to take his place alongside Tom Collins. Broadway has named a new cocktail after him, according to R. Q. Merrick, divisional head of the dry forces which will investigate the new concoction's popularity. The drink consists of orange juice, gin, ginger ale, a few drops of "overnight" brandy and a dash and a half of absinthe.

DESK GIVES UP PROOF OF FIRED COP'S INNOCENCE

Capt. Michael Lee of the Englewood police station will lay an envelope containing $106.07 on Chief Collins' desk this morning and ask for the reinstatement of Sergt. Hugh B. Donnelley, who was recently discharged on charges of negligence and inefficiency.

The envelope was found last night by Desk Sergeant William Chrishman while rummaging through a drawer of a desk. It contained the money which Sergt. Donnelley, after a perfect record of eighteen years, had been accused indirectly of appropriating to his own use.

The money had been turned over to Donnelley for safe-keeping by railroad police when they transferred into his custody a demented passenger from Sacramento, Cal. When a search was made later for the envelope it could not be found, and Donnelley was held responsible.

Slayer Gets 28 Years at Four Hour Hearing

Four hours after he was placed on trial for stabbing John McCaul to death last summer, Alfred Williams was sentenced to twenty-eight years in Joliet penitentiary. The jury took only four minutes to sign the guilty verdict following thirty minutes of argument by Assistant State's Attorneys Milton D. Smith and Berthold Cronson.

You can't shoot bears with a pop-gun

WHEN the experienced hunter goes after bear he is loaded for bear. He doesn't pack a pistol or an air-rifle or a shotgun. He carries a powerful repeating rifle capable of driving a heavy bullet with enough force to bring down the game. He wastes no time or ammunition in flushing pheasants or chasing rabbits. He goes directly to the place where there are bears.

The national advertiser in 1924 can well take a page from the book of the big game hunter. If he is out for big business—profitable business and plenty of it, he will first equip himself with high-powered advertising. He will go to the markets where business is to be secured. And he will deliver his advertising straight to the heart of the richest territories, through the most powerful media at his command—the newspapers.

The history of advertising in 1923 proves the wisdom of this method. The three greatest markets in the country are Boston, New York and Chicago. The figures below show the tremendous volume of national advertising carried by the five large daily newspapers in each of these markets. Study these figures closely. They are of extreme importance in the formulation of your advertising plans for 1924.

No other city in America carries, within millions of lines, the volume of national advertising published in any of the three cities cited above.

The Road to Boston

THESE authentic records demonstrate two things: first, the leadership of Metropolitan Boston as a market for nationally advertised products; second, the leadership of the Herald-Traveler in this rich territory.

There are sound reasons for the recognition of Boston as the premier market and of the Herald-Traveler as its leading medium. The people of Boston are industrious, conservative and prosperous. They have busied themselves with the building of industries to supply the nation with the necessities of life. Boston has employed her savings and her energies in making the things the nation cannot do without. Whether, therefore, the wave is one of prosperity or adversity, Boston rides on the even keel of sound, profitable and constant production.

The manufacturer whose advertising is right, who delivers his message to Boston through Boston's most powerful advertising weapon, the Herald-Traveler, will find good hunting in 1924. The road to Boston is clearly charted in our booklet, "The Road to Boston," which will be mailed on request.

Yellow Cab

Means Much to Business Men

The modern taxi-cab has become a daily and hourly necessity to thousands of business men who formerly consumed much time and suffered much inconvenience walking to and from the ordinary, and often remote, lines of transportation, and waiting in all kinds of weather for trains.

The taxi-cab has no schedule. It is an every-minute vehicle. It is called by telephone direct to the door of the home—direct to the door of the office. It follows no fixed route. In using street-car and railway lines, you've got to go where they take you. The modern taxi-cab takes you just where you want to go.

Did it ever occur to you how much time and labor this saves the busy business man? Time is reckoned as money in this bustling world, and comfort and convenience are the foundations for good work and clear thinking. So, it goes without saying that the modern taxi-cab is a powerful element in the conduct of business.

Cold platforms, crowded trains, stifling atmosphere are unknown to the modern taxi-cab. It is a personal and individual vehicle, subject only to your desires—shared with no one—clean as a whistle—well ventilated and warm as toast when the cold and blustery days arrive.

A great many business men have standing orders for a Yellow Cab at a certain hour in the morning and a certain hour in the evening. To all intents and purposes, it is their own private car. And the cost is nothing compared with the benefits derived by its use.

Don't take a chance—take a Yellow

Aged Millionaire Sued for Half a Million.

going to be happy in being my faithful, true, and loving wife as long as we shall live. I may not be all you think I am, but whatsoever I am is dedicated to you.

"Of the material properties that have come under my control I have distributed to my church, my state, and my family fully nine-tenths. The remainder will suffice to furnish me with all the comforts I will need during the remaining years of my life.

Loneliness of Advancing Years.

"Forty-two years of my past life were made supremely happy because I had a good, true wife always to comfort and encourage me. I selected her without any advice from any human being. She believed in and approved of me. God has taken her. Now I have deliberately chosen you, and you have accepted me. Why may I not expect you to be as true and good to me as the dear one that I have lost?

"My children are liberally provided for, they are properly engrossed with their families. I do not say it complainingly, but truthfully, they have no time for me, no daily attentions to bestow on me. I need both. I had them so long that I am unhappy without them. From you, I will get them. Now I do not want them except I get them legally—and that can be done—I hope speedily. Do you not cordially indorse all this?

On Their Differing Views.

"You have never betrayed a human being, though sadly betrayed yourself. Both these things I knew before I asked you to marry me. I have, as you know, had them confirmed very recently at much expense of your peace and serenity. This mortifies me. That you were a divorceé, that you were an advocate of female suffrage, I know perfectly well. I can't ask you to release me from my engagement on either of these grounds. You know I am for neither of the above—yet you respect me and also my alignments, and will be my affectionate, dutiful, devoted wife as long as to you I am an affectionate, faithful husband.

"If we are thus each to the other, who can prevent us being happy and useful in our respective places?

"Now, my darling Sweetum, I've written you just as I would talk to you if I had opportunity. I do greatly appreciate your affectionate interest in the public tasks I am laboring with. The undertaking is very large, very important, and has apparently prospered in my hands. They are weary now. My dear one, I feel like laying them down. When I can—before I do, I want your sympathy, your help, I want you to say I have done my duty."

New Dictionary Needed.

A letter dated July 31, 1922, began: "My Very Precious Sweetum: Now, just see how ardent I am becoming—'very precious'! What will I call you next time? I'll just have to call Webster back and have him make a bigger dictionary! That's what you are.

"Three letters today. x x x x x x. How rich I am! I am trying to write so you can read the letter. I have my coat off, bending over the job. How can you ever get lonesome when you have my queen with you? I am lonesome because she is so far away. Twenty-one days now, and we will neither be lonesome!"

The letter refers to the railroad strike and to speeches Mr. Candler made before public audiences, twice in church, and adds:

"This is my last public appearance till with you I stand in the presence of a minister to hear you say, 'I will,' and let you hear me say, 'I will, sir.' I am so nervous I can scarcely write."

Another letter read:

"I do not think I have spent a more happy week than this has been. I am living on hopes. Now, I want you to maintain a perfectly calm demeanor. Give out no interviews; distribute no pictures. Please know that the above is given as advice, not in spirit even of request, certainly not as orders. You will not think so, I am very sure.

"Whatever may come to prevent our marriage will not hinder my devotion to you. My heart is yours, my love for you is the ruling passion of my life. I know you love me and want to make my life very happy."

When court convenes again tomorrow morning the finishing batch of letters, concluding with the breaking of the engagement by Candler, will be read.

Both the principals are barred from taking the stand in their own behalf, but both were in court today. They wholly ignored each other.

Made Basis of Defense.

The chief contention of the defense is that Mrs. De Bouchel was legally married to Adolph Rocquet of New Orleans at the time she became engaged to Mr. Candler.

Counsel for the plaintiff, in summing up the case today, said they would show how Mr. Candler first proposed to Mrs. De Bouchel, how the engagement was broken once, as the result of charges by Mr. Candler's relatives, but was renewed at his request, and finally was broken without warning a few days before the date set for the marriage, after all arrangements for the ceremony had been made and even the refreshments and flowers purchased.

Alemite Announces 9,058 New Lubricating Stations

A Unique Comment on the American Motoring Public, Reflecting, as it Does, the Widespread Awakening to the Importance of Lubrication

Nothing more commendatory of the American motoring public could be said than that during 1923 a total of 9,058 new Alemite Lubricating Stations were established throughout the country. (This does not include more than 25,000 automotive dealers handling Alemite Products).

These stations are all convenient places where the motorist can get complete lubricating service in minimum time at minimum cost. The rapidity with which they have been springing up has been the sensation of the automotive world in 1923. But they have come only in answer to an insistent demand in every quarter for regular, periodic Alemite Lubrication.

This spectacular growth in the methodical use of Alemite is significant. It shows the motoring public is learning a great lesson in motor car upkeep. It shows, they too, have learned that Alemite chassis lubrication is as fundemental in motor car operation as oil, water and air!

Repair men have long told us of the importance of correct and regular lubrication. They have pointed out that fully 80% of the repairs they make on the moving parts of a motor car are occasioned by nothing less than poor lubrication.

Automotive experts have ever urged that careful and methodical lubrication of chassis bearings is as important as lubrication of the engine. They have warned incessently of dry, dirt-worn bearings as the major cause of big repair bills, rapid depreciation and low resale value.

Evidently, the public is becoming sensible to the importance of this matter of chassis lubrication.

The springing up of Alemite Stations throughout the country as a result of the widespread demand for this high-pressure lubrication promises to make Alemite Service as convenient as gasoline and oil service.

The Gas-Co-Lator (attached in a jiffy) filters gasoline upward through chamois skin, purifying it of all water and dirt before it enters carburetor.
The water and dirt collects in the glass trap to be cleaned out at intervals

Dirt and Water in Your Gasoline Cause Your Motor to Sputter and Stall

Water condensed from the air inside your gasoline tank, filings from the tank; dust, rubber and fibre rot that has sloughed off the filling hose—this is what you will find in the gasoline in your carburetor. Much of this matter passes through the strainers in your gasoline pipe and goes on into your carburetor, clogging the delicate needle valve. Your motor then sput-sput-sputters. Perhaps stalls. You tinker with the carburetor — to no avail. You run with the choke open. You overload the mixture. That thins the oil in the crankcase, which may, and often does, result in burned-out bearings.

The Remedy

The Alemite Gas-Co-Lator, attached to your vacuum tank, filters the gasoline through chamois skin before it enters the carburetor. Chamois skin admits gasoline freely, but absolutely keeps out water — and dirt. The gasoline passes on into your carburetor, clean gasoline, while the residue-water, dirt, etc.,— drops into a heavy glass trap, which is conveniently cleaned out at intervals.

It will astonish you to see the difference in the performance of your motor when the gasoline is really clean. You will have a new conception of your motor's powers.

30 Days Free Trial. Try out the Gas-Co-Lator on your car 30 days. (A model for every car.) If it doesn't make a wonderful difference in the running of your motor, return the Gas-Co-Lator and get the purchase price (only $5) back in full. See your dealer today or write us direct.

PUT ON YOUR THINKING CAP; WIN $25,000

Send In a Name for New Magazine.

Every one knows that big prices are paid to writers of note.

Now and again one reads that this or that author has sold a story or an autobiography at $1 a word. A few authors have received as much as $2 a word.

A chosen few of the movie stars receive sensational salaries—pay at the rate of as much as $500 or $600 a day.

But YOU have an opportunity to earn even more than that.

Consider for a moment the $25,000 in cash prizes offered for the best name and slogan for the new national weekly magazine to be published this spring by the owners of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and The News, New York's Picture Newspaper—one prize of $20,000, one of $4,000, and one of $1,000.

How Is This for Pay?

Suppose the judges award you the first prize of $20,000 and your name suggestion consists of two words, your slogan suggestion, five words. You'd be paid—if you won first prize—at the rate of $2,857.14 per word.

If it took you five minutes to think of the name and slogan, and to jot down your reasons for thinking them best you'd be paid at the rate of $4,000 per minute for your time.

Worth trying, isn't it?

Be sure to suggest a name and a slogan that has not already been used by some other magazine. Try to propose a name that will be suitable for a publication that will interest every one—men, women, and children. The new weekly magazine will contain fiction by the greatest authors, beautifully illustrated in colors by artists of note. It will contain articles on the home, health, beauty, love problems, sport, etc. It will be printed on paper of high quality, and will sell on newsstands everywhere in the United States and Canada for 5 cents per copy.

In next Sunday's issue of this newspaper you will find a page advertisement giving full details of this $25,000 prize contest, and presenting the rules which have to be followed. Be sure you see that advertisement.

Some Suggested Names.

A few of the names and slogans which have been suggested are:

"BLACK AND WHITE WEEKLY—Read All Over."

"THE WATCH—A Magazine to Speed the Time."

"THE CLIMAX—A Magazine of Worth."

"THE WEEKLY KEY—It Opens the Door to All."

"ATLAS WEEKLY—Holding the World Up to You."

"THE RACONTEUR—A Brilliant Miscellany of Current Events."

"CRYSTAL MAGAZINE — The World Reads Clear Through Crystal."

"THE WELLWORTH WEEKLY—New York's Full Value Magazine."

"THE EPIC—The Utmost in Magazines."

CAPT. MARTIN FIGHTS ORDER SUSPENDING HIM

Orders suspending Capt. John Martin of the Hudson avenue station and naming Lieut. William Peters to command the district in his stead were issued yesterday afternoon by Chief Collins after a conference with Corporation Counsel F. X. Busch.

With Capt. Joseph Smith of the Woodlawn station Martin was notified by Chief Collins on Tuesday that medical examination had proved his incapacity for further service. Smith pleaded for and was allowed thirty days before his resignation will be "accepted," while Martin refused to be shelved.

"I'm just as good as any other captain on the force," declared Martin yesterday.

Martin, it is said, has retained counsel to defend the charges of disability and inefficiency which are to be lodged before the civil service commission. Smith and Martin were warned weeks ago that they were in danger when Mayor Dever took them to task for alleged laxity of law enforcement in their respective districts.

PERROT

The Standard MECHANICAL Four Wheel BRAKING SYSTEM

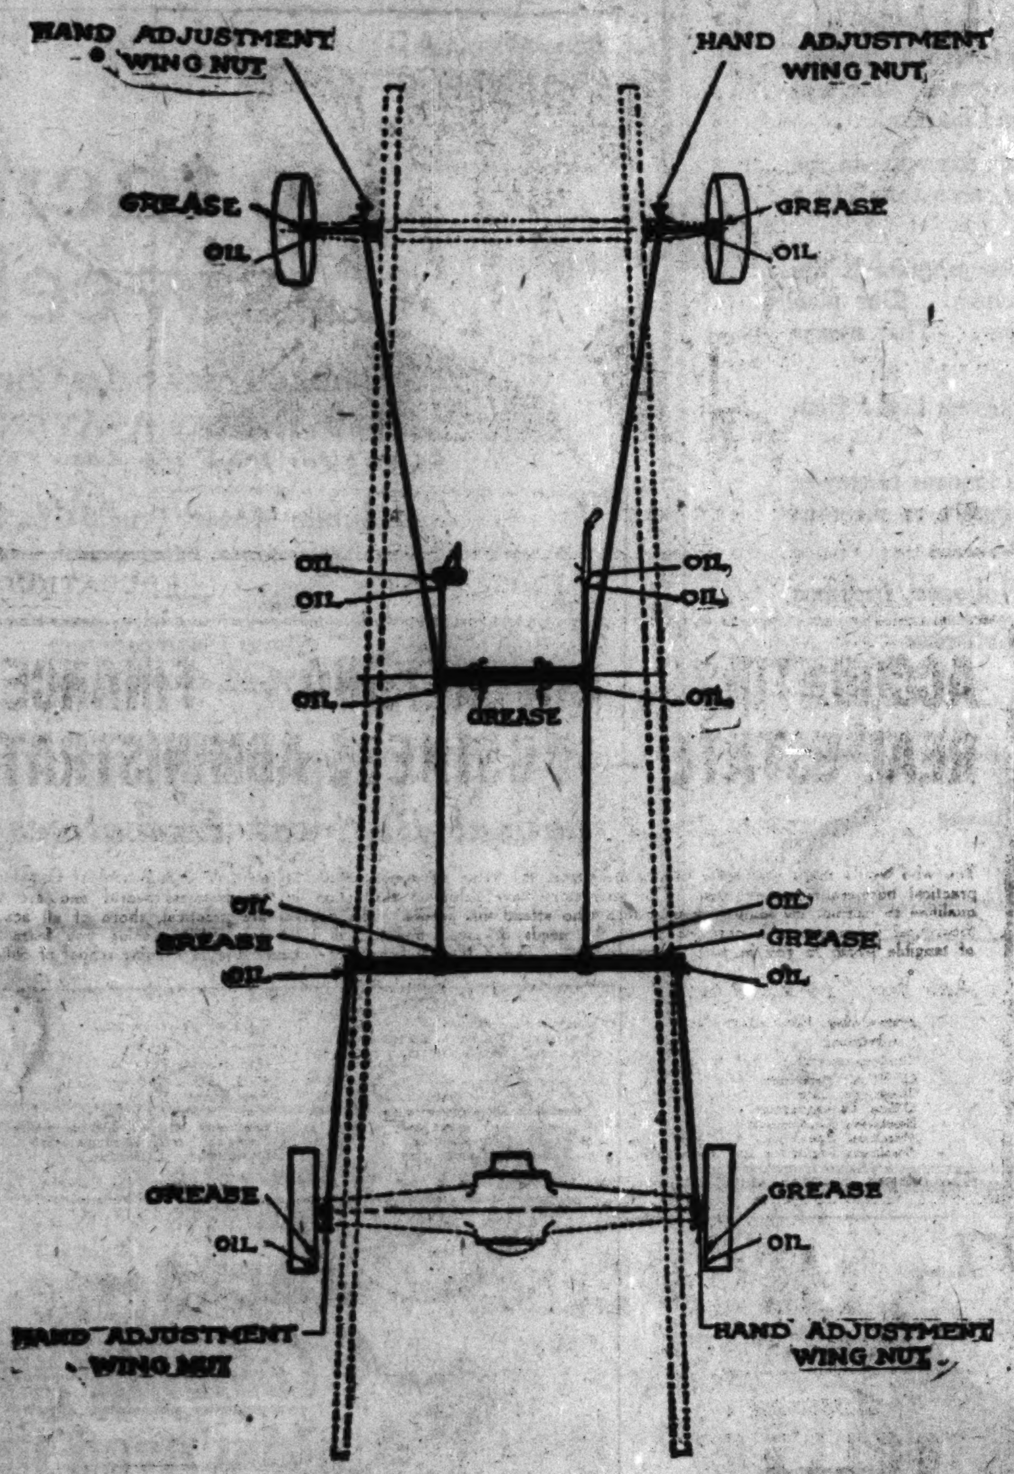
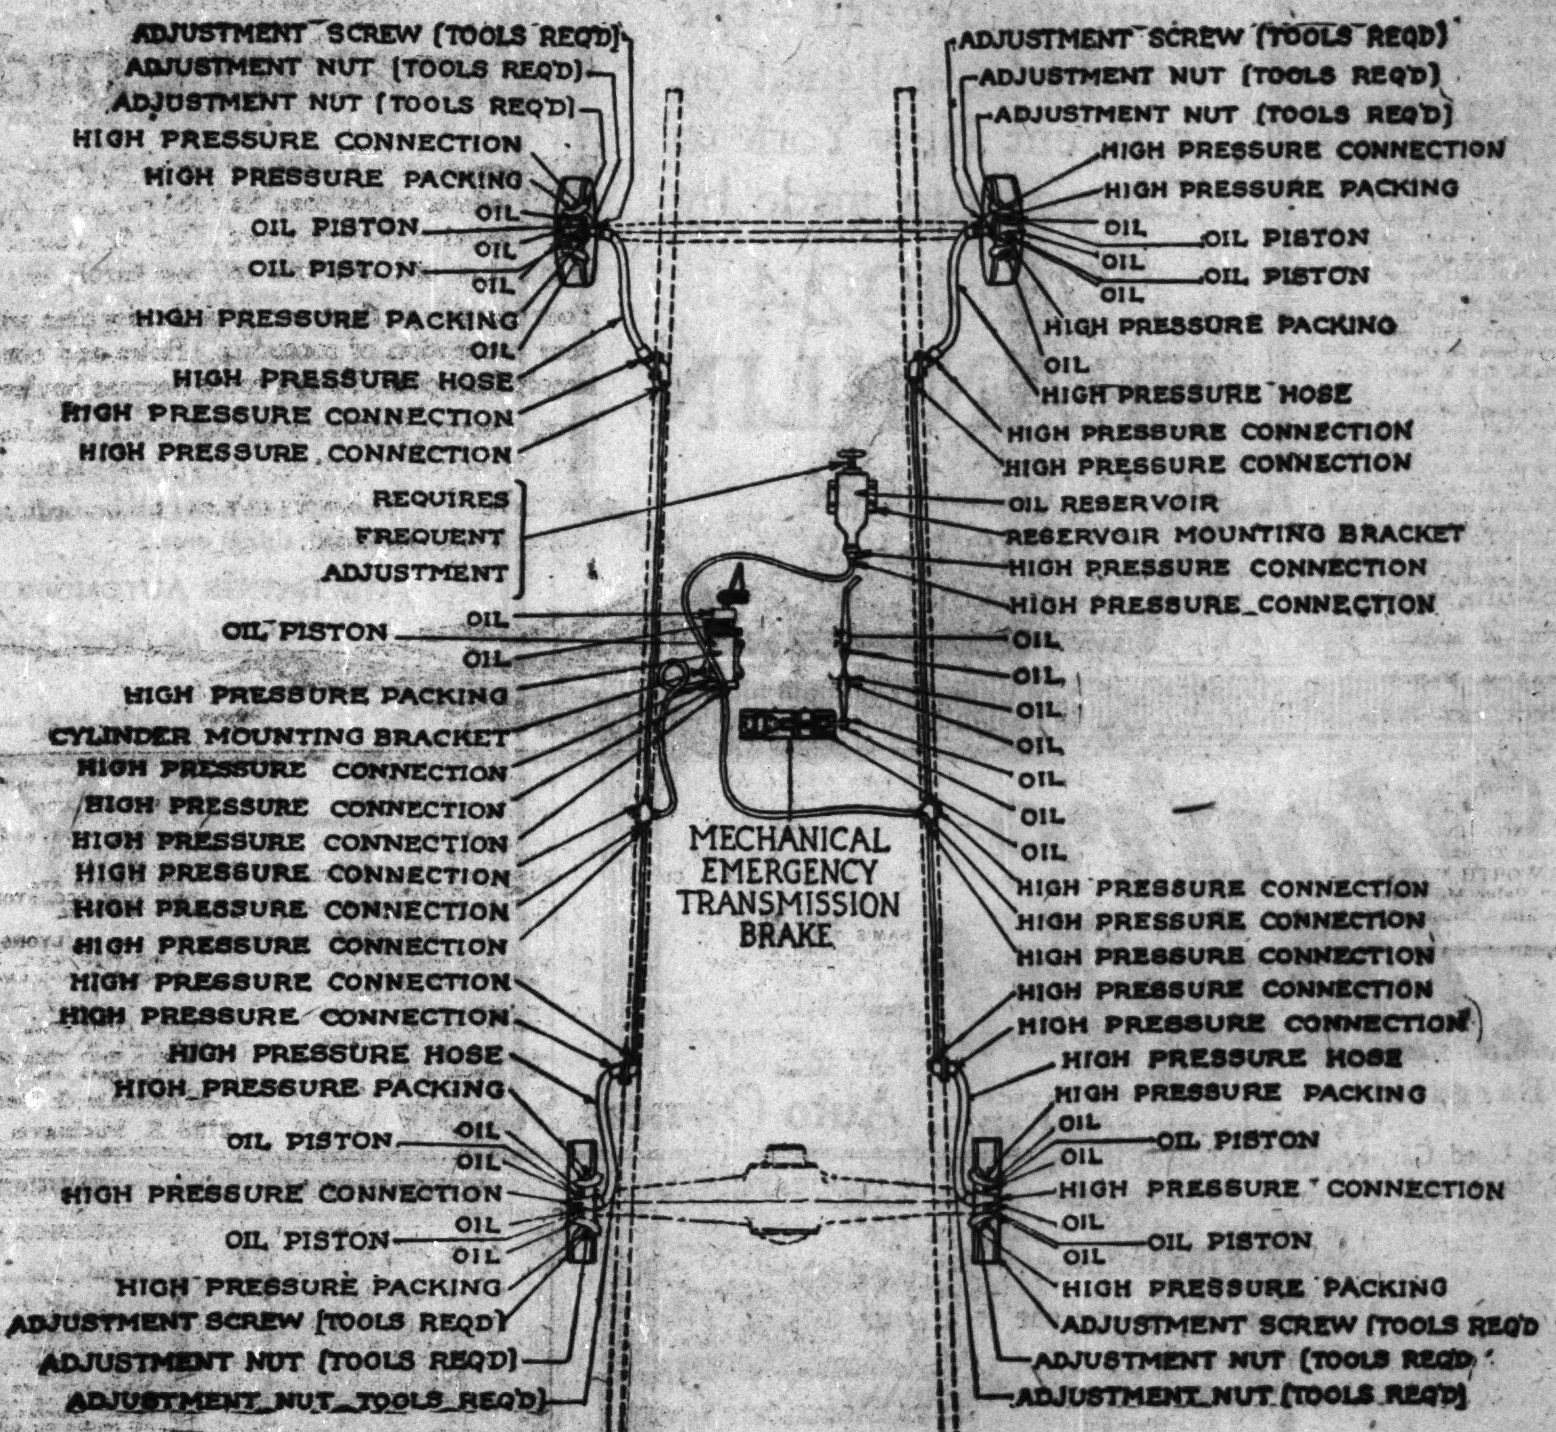
THE PERROT MECHANICAL
246 PARTS



A TYPICAL HYDRAULIC
527 PARTS



Let the facts speak for themselves

The question no longer is, "Are 4 wheel brakes practical?" but, "Which 4 wheel braking system is superior?"

An examination of the two systems and an impartial survey of the facts discloses this—that the system that set the pace at the outset still sets it—Perrot.

Of the 79 cars displayed in the Grand Palais in Paris last October all but one were equipped with mechanical systems. And of the 78 cars so equipped, 49 were Perrot equipped—sixty-four (64%) per cent. On the 29 cars remaining, 15 different braking systems were employed.

This triumph for Perrot is the triumph of simplicity over complication, positive braking action over indirect action, practice over theory—a fact that every automobile owner should bear in mind.

These cars of international fame have adopted PERROT the standard four wheel braking system

YELL TILL YOU GO TO HELL, LEWIS' DEFI TO MINERS

Riot at Convention Led by Illinois Insurgents.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 30.—[By the Associated Press.]—Defiance of International President John L. Lewis burst bounds in the United Mine Workers' convention today and a riot resulted.

"Shout till you meet in hell," President Lewis thundered when the rioting reached the edge of his platform, "but the chair won't change his rule."

He had ruled that anti-administration forces had failed to get sufficient votes to secure another roll call on a proposition to change representation in the convention.

Insurgents fought for a return to the rule in effect before the 1922 convention, when, it was charged, representation was reduced because of the size of the anti-administration delegates from Illinois. They lost on division by 785 to 692, and then voted 558 for a roll call, which was an insufficient number.

Illinois Insurgents Lead.

Insurgent delegates from Illinois were the leaders in the demonstration. Refused a demand for a recount of those who had voted for a roll call, Joe Lynal of Peoria, Ill., gained the front of the hall and yelled for a following.

He ran into the most picturesque of the administration's supporters, whose reputation as "Shooter" Smith is in his name. "Not a one of you goes," the bewhiskered old man shouted, "while I am here to stop it." The bold front of this delegate from Raysville, Tenn., came at the right moment, and Lynel was deprived of a following.

One Delegate Walloped.

One delegate was hurt in the fray. Alex Piazze of Bairdford, Pa., was knocked to the floor by a blow in the face while yelling for a "square deal." He declared he did not know the name of his assailant, but could recognize him, and would "get him."

Jim Deach, president of the Taylorville, Ill., subdistrict, a member of President Lewis' own local at Panama, Ill., and William Harkness, president of the Peoria subdistrict, were leaders in the demand for a recount.

While the storm lasted, and finally exhausted itself in the singing of "America," and "We're Here Because We're Here," some remarkable incidents occurred. One tested President Lewis' leadership. A young delegate walked up the aisle and looking up at him shouted: "You make me sit down."

President Lewis took the black cigar from his mouth, which smoked like a chimney throughout the demonstration, and pointed at the youngster. "I'm talking to you," he said. "Get to your seat." The delegate dropped his eyes and backed away.

FIVE POLICE AND NEGRO WAGE GUN FIGHT ON ROOFS

More than 200 residents of the south side witnessed a thirty minute revolver battle over housetops yesterday afternoon between five policemen of the Stanton avenue station and a Negro hiding behind a chimney.

The Negro, Charles Jones, owner of a delicatessen at 3242 Rhodes avenue, surrendered only after he had emptied twelve revolvers at the policemen.

The policemen had been notified by passersby that Jones was beating his wife, Mattie. When they entered the place Jones fled through a skylight to the roof, where he evidently kept his "arsenal" parked behind the chimney. Five of the weapons were found at his feet. According to the police he threw the others down the chimney.

CRIME IN COUNTY CUT IN HALF BY CROWE AND AIDS

Crime in Cook county has been reduced more than 50 per cent and convictions have been increased by a large margin during the three years State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe and his assistants have been in charge of the prosecutions.

These facts were set forth in a report made to Mr. Crowe yesterday afternoon by J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert of the Cook county board, following a review of records of John A. Passmore, clerk of the Criminal court.

Crowe Speeds Up Cases.

Mr. Jacobs informed Mr. Crowe that Mr. Passmore's records correspond in every detail with those of the Chicago Crime commission. He showed that of the total of 1,800 indictments awaiting disposition in the courts at the time Mr. Crowe took office there are only a few more than 800 now on call.

He suggested that the decrease in the number of cases on call warranted a decrease in the state's attorney's staff. Mr. Crowe replied that such a move was out of the question; that if crime is to remain at a low figure the present number of prosecutors would have to be kept on hand.

Must Keep a Trained Staff.

"Nobody can tell when a gang of gunmen is going to start out on a tour of robbery and murder," Mr. Crowe said. "Such gangs do not give out advance notice of their appearance. When the big crime cases break it is necessary that trained prosecutors be available to put the criminals in jail or on the gallows.

"The old saying that 'when the cat's away the mice will play' applies to criminal operations in its fullest sense. I intend to keep my staff on its toes while I am state's atotrney, and I hope to reduce crime to zero."

EDITH KELLY AIMS NEW BLOW AT GOULD RICHES

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 30.—The epilogue of the long series of lawsuits since Edith Kelly Gould and Frank Gould were separated began today when the dancing teacher started proceedings to claim a half of the estate of her millionaire husband in France—more than 800,000,000 francs (roughly $40,000,000). The action was taken under French law which provides that, if a person marrying makes no official marriage contract regarding the disposition of property, then the wife is entitled to a half of the husband's estate and the husband to half of the wife's.

The hearing probably will be within two weeks in the civil tribunal at Versailles.

It is stated, however, that the Goulds were married under American law, which may eliminate the functioning of the French law for a division of property.

Mrs. Gould especially wants a half interest in the enormous Maisons Lafitte racing stables, where Mr. Gould trains horses to run in France, and also in his town and country places.

Mr. Dealer:

Is yours a game, a task or a business?

THERE are hundreds of visiting automobile dealers in Chicago this week. In the lobbies of the hotels and at the show we have heard some of them refer to "the automobile game." Others talk about the work they handle. Others look like business and talk about business.

This week we would like to meet every motor car dealer who means business. That sort of a dealer will recognize in a moment the far-reaching possibilities of the Haynes sales program. He will see the returns he will gain from his investment and his work.

Haynes not only puts par value in the car; it puts par value in the selling. "Co-operation," in our sales program, is more than just a long word. It is a profit-maker for the dealer.

Manufacturing methods are the first link; sales program is the second—and the dealer is the third link in our chain. Our plan combines the three to the benefit of the car buyer. That means steady business.

Haynes factory officials may be seen at the Congress Hotel from 9 to 11 A.M. and 2 to 4 P.M.

This is a sincere invitation to the dealer who means to stay in business and build his business sanely, safely and surely, to meet us and talk things over.

FEEL O' SPRING PUTS NEW ZEST IN AUTO SHO

Coliseum and Armory Ar Jammed to Doors.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Over the hills weather—the sort th puts the automobile urge into t hearts of city dwellers—acted as powerful ally to Chicago's visiti motor legions yesterday. It broug out crowds for the annual automob show which for the first time in se eral years filled the Coliseum a armory beyond their capacity and le people waiting on the outside of t exposition buildings to take their tu at the brilliant exhibit booths.

Hotel lobbies where many attracti exhibits are being staged as extr during the week took the overflow, a salesrooms all along automobile ro did their part in supplying refres ment for the city's annual moto spree.

Dealers Flock In.

In addition to setting a new recor for show attendance, the day broug the biggest volume of automobile me chandising of the entire week. Se eral thousand dealers from middle an far western states arrived to atten more than a score of organization co ferences and make their bids for th new motor and accessory agencie which are springing up in every cit and town to meet the unprecedente demand for new cars. Dealer lunch eons and banquets, where new sale policies were announced, were the o der of the day, and midnight foun sales managers revising their 1924 e timates to bring the total national pr duction of cars to another 4,000,00
ly planned. Some of the more enth siastic predicted that the coming yea will even top the 1924 record produc tion if the present general prosperit continues through the spring month

While the sales talk flew thick an fast a few of the veterans broug facts and figures to show that th year's cars actually offer more dolla for dollar value than any heretofo manufactured in the United State
They went back to 1909 and found th steel, labor, engineering ability, an practically every other item that goe into the building of an automobile wa selling for less money than it is to day, yet the motorist receives ap proximately four times the value fo his dollar now than he did then.

Velle Gives Cost Figures.

This phase was brought out by W. L
Velle at his annual meeting yesterda noon. By means of tabulated cos figures he brought out that the car o today has doubled the material valu of its ancestor at less than half o the selling price. In 1909 the car stripped of everything, sold for $1,750
Then all the motorist had to buy in or der to drive it was: item, a top at $150 item, windshield at $40; item, gas tank at $25; lights at $30; a speedometer a $17.50, and a "tonneau" or back sea at $225. Gas may have been a trifl cheaper, but it took more of it to ru one of the old cars. Today the mod erate priced car is equipped with every thing needed for comfort and protec tion at about half the price of th old timer.

C. S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors corporation, predicted a production of 1,000 cars a day in the coming year for the Olds Motor works at Lansing as the feature of the Olds annual. He called the Olds the granddaddy of automobile factorie and declared that it will receive the whole hearted support of the huge corporation.

Cites Death Clock.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, told the organization that in deciding on the production of the new six cylinder model, the parent body has developed a complete cooperation between engineering, purchasing, and merchandising departments in order to meet the newest demand of the public.

A. B. C. Hardy, president of Olds, called attention to THE TRIBUNE death clock, which measures automobile

Dealers Flock In.

In addition to setting a new record for show attendance, the day brought the biggest volume of automobile merchandising of the entire week. Several thousand dealers from middle and far western states arrived to attend more than a score of organization conferences and make their bids for the new motor and accessory agencies which are springing up in every city and town to meet the unprecedented demand for new cars. Dealer luncheons and banquets, where new sales policies were announced, were the order of the day, and midnight found sales managers revising their 1924 estimates to bring the total national production of cars to another 4,000,000 figure instead of the 3,250,000 originally planned. Some of the more enthusiastic predicted that the coming year will even top the 1924 record production if the present general prosperity continues through the spring months.

While the sales talk flew thick and fast a few of the veterans brought facts and figures to show that this year's cars actually offer more dollar for dollar value than any heretofore manufactured in the United States. They went back to 1909 and found that steel, labor, engineering ability, and practically every other item that goes into the building of an automobile was selling for less money than it is today, yet the motorist receives approximately four times the value for his dollar now than he did then.

Velie Gives Cost Figures.

This phase was brought out by W. L. Velie at his annual meeting yesterday noon. By means of tabulated cost figures he brought out that the car of today has doubled the material value of its ancestor at less than half of the selling price. In 1909 the car, stripped of everything, sold for $1,750. Then all the motorist had to buy in order to drive it was: item, a top at $150; item, windshield at $40; item, gas tank at $25; lights at $30; a speedometer at $17.50, and a "tonneau" or back seat at $225. Gas may have been a trifle cheaper, but it took more of it to run one of the old cars. Today the moderate priced car is equipped with everything needed for comfort and protection at about half the price of the old timer.

C. S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors corporation, predicted a production of 1,000 cars a day in the coming year for the Olds Motor works at Lansing as the feature of the Olds annual. He called the Olds the granddaddy of automobile factories and declared that it will receive the whole hearted support of the huge corporation.

Cites Death Clock.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, told the organization that in deciding on the production of the new six cylinder model, the parent body has developed a complete coöperation between engineering, purchasing, and merchandising departments in order to meet the newest demand of the public.

A. B. C. Hardy, president of Olds, called attention to THE TRIBUNE death clock, which measures automobile fatalities, and urged every dealer to get behind the traffic safety movement to the limit.

The National Automobile Dealers' association completed its sessions in the La Salle during the day with another conference on the used car problem. It hopes to reduce the trade-in losses to a minimum during the year.

NOTES OF THE AUTO SHOW

While the new balloon tire development continued to be the chief topic of debate at the auto show and salon showing of fine cars in the Drake yesterday, the Olson-Florey company, 2118 Michigan avenue, announced the latest achievement in this "easy riding" science. It comes in the form of Century airplane type balloon cords which are designed to fit standard 30x3½ inch rims without the usual adaptation of wheel or rim. This new tire, designed for Fords as well as the more expensive cars, interested scores of engineers at the show who have been laboring on schemes to make balloon equipment less costly to the average motorist.

One of the most interesting dealer meetings of the day was that called by T. L. Hausmann, president of the reorganized Templar company. Plans were completed at the Blackstone for a national dealers' association which, through a board of governors, will have a voice in both manufacturing and merchandising policies.

More than 400 Oakland distributors and dealers attended the annual Oakland meeting in the Auditorium, where it was announced that the company will produce 75,000 automobiles during the year.

For the first time in history, steel wheels on cars at the Chicago show outnumber those of wood and wire. Of the cars displayed, 141 are on steel wheel equipment. A check made yesterday by the Motor Wheel corporation shows that 56 per cent of the steel equipment is Disteel or Truarc type. The influence of balloon tires on the growth of this angle is reflected in the fact that of the fifty-nine balloon tire equipped cars, all but one are on steel.

Dealers and distributors of the Packard company from points as far north as Winnipeg and as far west as Arizona met in an all-day session yesterday in the Drake hotel. Both morning and afternoon sessions were conducted by Dr. H. H. Hills, vice president of distribution, and R. E. Chamberlain, general sales manager. All of the dealers prepared for a demand to exceed that of 1923.

E. S. Jordan, one of the most popular among the big time automobile producers, was the chief speaker yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He remarked that it is a great thrill for some people to have a thought, adding that, while the automotive statisticians are predicting a production of about 3,500,000 cars in 1924. Ford is preparing to build 3,000,000 and Chrevolet 1,000,000.

BRITISH END AIR BOMBING OF TAX DODGERS IN ASIA

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 31.—[By United News.]—The first official act of Brig. Gen. Thompson, air minister in the Labor cabinet, has been to forbid the use of air force planes to drop bombs on villages in Mesopotamia which are backward in the payment of taxes. The Daily Herald, Labor newspaper, says men of the air force have been protesting strongly against carrying out orders for such bombing expeditions.

HUGE HEGEWISCH FORD PLANT TO OPEN TOMORROW

One of the largest Ford Motor company assembling plants in the country, employing about 2,000 workers at the outset, tomorrow will start turning out 600 flivvers a day. It is located at 126th street and Torrence avenue, Hegewisch, on a bank of the Calumet river.

The new plant, which has been under construction for more than a year, is to have six units. It is the first of these, now complete, that is to open tomorrow. The total construction cost, originally estimated at $6,000,000, may run to $8,000,000, a Ford executive said last night.

Capacity Is 1,000 Cars a Day.

The Ford Motor company already has a sizable assembling plant on East Pershing boulevard. This turns out 300 cars a day. While the initial output of the new place has been set for just twice that number, its capacity is 1,000 cars per day. It is expected to employ 6,000 persons ultimately.

The Hegewisch establishment will be more than an assembling plant—it will turn out automobile bodies.

The Calumet river site, chosen with an eye to water transportation prospects—particularly the lakes to the gulf six foot channel—includes seventy acres. The first unit of the plant is a one story structure of concrete and stone, 1,563x502 feet.

The Company's Outlook.

The demand for another plant here is indicated by the fact that in 1912 the Ford Motor company operated on plans for a total output of 75,000 cars, while it is estimated the Chicago district alone will require 132,000 cars in 1924. This territory, however, takes in some distance, such points as Springfield for instance.

GOV. M'CRAY HELD A BANKRUPT BY REFEREE REPORT

Frankfort, Ind., Jan. 30.—Gov. Warren T. McCray is adjudged a bankrupt in the report of Harry C. Sheridan, federal master in chancery, who recently conducted a hearing on the petition of three Fort Wayne banks. The report was made public here today.

In the report Mr. Sheridan held that McCray is not a farmer nor a laborer, and therefore not exempt from the federal laws governing involuntary bankruptcy proceedings.

The report of the master will be submitted to Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States District court. Before final action, attorneys for the governor will be given an opportunity to present further arguments.

Fifteen indictments returned against the governor by a Marion county grand jury which investigated certain of his financial transactions are also pending in the Criminal court at Indianapolis. These contain charges of embezzlement, forgery, and false pretense. A ruling on a motion to quash the indictments is expected next Friday from Judge James A. Collins

American Ships---American Mud

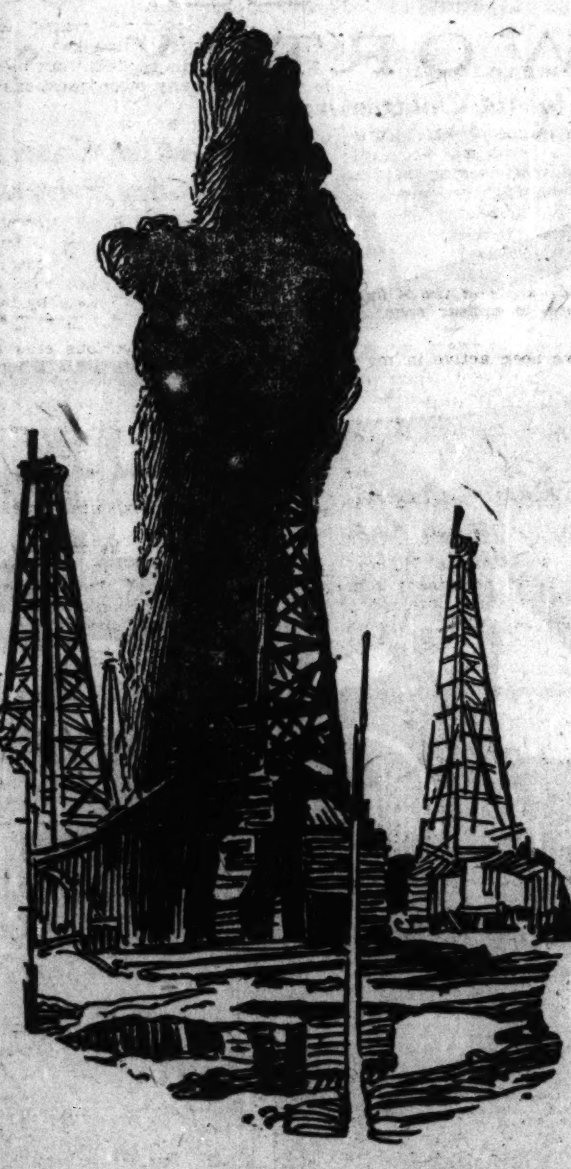
By Garet Garrett

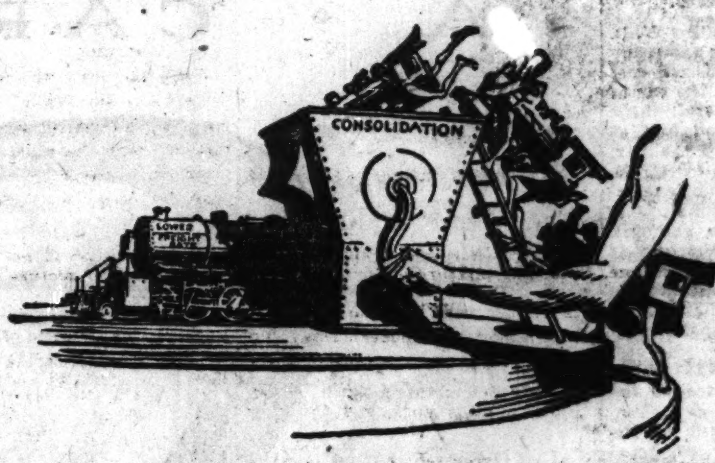
America has a $3,500,000,000 merchant marine nucleus—partly afloat, partly rotting in harbors, partly vanishing into air. Foreign nations—government, press and business—are all behind their ships, cheering them on. The American public shifts its attitude toward its merchant marine with every political breeze; veers with every cat's paw that flurries the press; drifts aimlessly because business does not know from day to day whether we are in shipping to stay or to sink without a trace. Mr. Garrett points out that the basic proposition is an essentially simple one—what kind of future does America want?

Second Mourning

By Albert W. Atwood

Before the heirs to an estate can secure their inheritance, they must pass through a period of second mourning—financial mourning. The States are lined up behind the Federal government, with all kinds of inheritance laws, all kinds of tax demands, all kinds of transfer restrictions. Under one situation that might conceivably obtain, inheritance taxes would total 130%. If you have been left a fortune, order lavender.





Railroad Consolidation

By Herbert Hoover

A heavy title, and a solid, but vitally important subject, made clear by the Secretary of Commerce. Many men are advancing plans and panaceas for the railroads. The better they look and the more they promise for nothing, the more they will cost the taxpayer, who must pay the freight if the shipper doesn't. Secretary Hoover considers consolidation. In union there is lower freight rates.

There She Blows

By Isaac F. Marcosson

Less than a century ago, "There she blows!" meant a few hundred barrels of sperm oil to help light the world. Now it means a twenty thousand barrel gusher of crude oil that turns into light, heat, power and gold at the mouth of the well. Mr. Marcosson has been covering the American and Mexican fields looking into promotion, production, wastes, reserves, speculation, investment, national and international struggles for the most precious mineral under the earth.

The Fourth Norwood

By ROBERT E. PINKERTON.

SYNOPSIS.

Young Rod Norwood, while setting a mink trap on the banks of the Drowning river near his home at Lake Deception in the Hudson Bay territory, sees Aaron Cron, a rival trader of his father's, coming into the district. Cron is known to the district as The Spider, not only because of the terror he has inspired in most of the inhabitants but also because of his legless condition. Rod is frightened at the meeting and, after the man has disappeared, hurries toward home.

He breaks the news of The Spider's advent to his little sister Beth. Their father, Tom Norwood, tries to dispel the children's fear of the cripple. He explains to Rod that Cron lost his legs years before on an expedition into the wilderness to buy fur. When his legs became frozen he heroically helped to amputate them.

For three generations fur land had known a Norwood. Tom's grandfather, Hector Norwood, accompanied Mackenzie on his remarkable expedition to the Arctic sea. His son, Roderick (Tom's father), was born and raised in fur land. Tom and his father became successful fur traders when Canada became a free trade ground. The Spider had come into Tom's territory once before when Rod was 6, but in the struggle between them Tom was victorious and The Spider disappeared. Now with him back Tom is gripped by the desire for battle and decides to make a friendly call, but Cron is not amiable and declares that he is there to beat Tom at his own game.

After attending school for six years in New York Rod tells his father he would like to live there and devote himself to a career as a writer. Tom is bitterly disappointed, as he has just bought a new post for his son. The following spring Rod, in New York, receives word of his father's death. Rod and Beth leave for Lake Deception. The boy learns the business is nearly bankrupt. Beth goes back to school at Toronto and Rod makes up his mind to stay and fight Cron. A half-breed employé of the Norwood post tells Rod his father's death was not accidental and intimates that Cron knows how it happened.

Beth returns unexpectedly. On the train she meets Prof. Ransom and his daughter Marian. The professor has come into the bush to make a study of the pagan Indians. The Ransoms meet Rod at Heathcote and inform him they have made arrangements to stay at Cron's house at Lake Deception. Rod is greatly attracted to Marian. The Ransoms leave Heathcote for Lake Deception with the Norwoods and their brigade.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

A PRIMITIVE STRAIN.

"Please don't laugh at me," Marian begged of Rod. "Perhaps you were right about my being a throw back. It isn't just a whim or eagerness for something new. It——" she paused and looked at him as if trying to determine how much she might reveal. "Perhaps you won't understand. Beth says you don't like the wilderness, that you always found it ugly."

"That doesn't mean I don't understand it," Rod answered. "The Norwoods have been fur traders for a hundred years. I know how the north held them. They were—well, not exactly boys with chips on their shoulders, but they were men and there was something in them, a sort of reckless daring. My father had it. You would have found color there. There was something in him that responded to the—it's the defiance, the threat of the north."

"That's it!" she exclaimed. "The challenge of distance and isolation and cold and hunger and danger. And the men, those who accept it, accept the challenge and the terms of the struggle—I think—please understand—I think there's something like that in me."

"What has happened?" Marian asked.

Rod had no desire to smile. He saw she was striving to explain to herself more than to him, that she was in the grip of emotions she could not quite analyze, emotions that brought a strange, disturbing mixture of joy and fear.

"The prospect of entering the wilderness has uncovered a primitive strain you never suspected," he said. "It's rather appalling to a modern New England mind, but why should it be? Don't you see you are only distressing yourself? If your heart demands a thrill, is responding to something, let it. Don't be so sure your mental reactions are right. It is possible, you know, for training and tradition to go wrong."

She looked up as he finished speaking, and he received the full effect of those deep blue eyes as they glowed beneath the black lashes and brows.

"You do understand!" she exclaimed with no attempt to disguise her gratitude. "You've helped me. It must be a primitive streak, and all the time I——"

"You were horrified," Rod smiled. "I can't imagine a worse bugaboo, in New England, than such a discovery."

"You may laugh," she conceded. "You've earned the right."

"And now, to get back to the fading colors, you are disappointed, first in the Indians because they act like excitable children instead of somber, stately savages, and also in me because I don't wear fringed buckskin clothes and a full beard."

"I'm not disappointed in you, but I could be," she retorted, and again he sensed that rigid framework beneath the soft exterior. "The colors haven't faded. They have only changed. But one thing hasn't changed. It must be true that a man who has survived the north is a man. He'd have to be to survive."

"He'd starve or freeze to death," Rod laughed.

"No," she said seriously, "I'm thinking of the spiritual side. With a freedom that could so easily be changed to license, with the inspiriting challenge of the land always before him, there can be no half way measures. A man would grow clean and strong or he would go to the other extreme and become despicable in every way."

There was a conviction in her tone that was almost passionate. Rod was about to smile, and then as he looked at her he again caught a fleeting suggestion of challenge.

"You admit your own primitive streak, but won't grant the men one," he retorted.

"No, but I refuse to grant that to be primitive means to be bestial or cowardly or small," she answered vehemently. "There is no reason——"

The bow of the canoe struck the bank, and the two canoemen behind leaped over their heads and ashore. The leading craft were already being unloaded and wild excitement again prevailed among the Indians.

"What has happened?" Marian asked in fresh bewilderment.

"The primitive natures of these men seem to find great pleasure in racing across a portage with two hundred pounds on their backs," Rod explained with a grin. "And you'll have to turn the primitive side out, too, because you couldn't expect chivalry of them. They won't carry you."

Marian laughed and turned to the trail that led up a rocky ridge and which was already filled with toiling Indians.

Several times in the days that followed Rod found himself marveling that he gave so little heed to Beth's return or even to his struggle with The Spider. That night at Heathcote he had looked upon his sister's presence at Lake Deception as little less than a calamity and he had been appalled by the thought of Marian Ransom's coming in contact with the man. Now, when he was practically alone with the girl through the long June days, when he had only to turn his head to catch the full effect of what to him was that priceless combination of blue eyes and black lashes and hair, all other considerations seemed to fade. Where he had lived entirely in the future, he now thought only of the present.

The Indians did not vary their usual brigade customs because of the strangers. Before four o'clock in the morning the head guide beat a frying pan against a rock and aroused the camp, and, though he stopped twice during the day for meals, it was always after nine o'clock before he called a halt for supper and the night camp.

In those long hours between, broken only by portages and the two lunches, Rod and Marian sat side by side in the center of one of the big canoes. Two Indians paddled in front, two behind, but none understood a word of English. On lake or river the six craft were strung out, and the young fur trader and the girl had the wilderness to themselves.

The weather was brilliant, as the Canadian June often is, softening the land, bringing the enchantment of color and peace, of beauty and solitude. To those who know and love the north there is nothing comparable with the island dotted blue lakes circled by the rock lined, spruce crowned shores, with unbroken expanse of low, forest clothed ridges, with beckoning portage trails, white walled by slender birch, as they lead over the hills to the unknown beyond.

It is in June that the north veils mytery with beauty, grimness with color, bleakness with the splendor of sunshine. And yet the veils are always parting to permit glimpses of the real significance of the spirit of the land, to give hints of hazards and their acceptance, of distance and its challenge, of danger and its defiance, of all the tempting adventure of discovery and resistless romance of conquest that belong alone to the vast empire of fur.

None of this escaped Marian Ransom. She caught instantly the suggestive features, responded to them. Her many questions were pertinent, she clothed Rod's sometimes commonplace replies with her imagination, and before the end of the first day he suddenly understood that here was something else than a whim or surface interest in novelty.

"You were right," he said, and there was a trace of awe in his tone. "You are a throw back. No newcomer ever caught so quickly the real spirit of the country."

"Do you think so?" she exclaimed eagerly.

"You see it as my father saw it. And do you know what it means?"

"What?"

"That there's something of the savage in you."

"What a dreadful thing to say!"

"What else can it be that responds to a savage environment?" Rod demanded. "And it isn't so dreadful, is it?"

Good Story Is Spoiled in Mediocre Film

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

If Homer Croy, who wrote the novel, "West of the Water Tower," didn't lose his self-control when he saw the picture—why, he must have a strong mind and will probably in the future turn out many more good books. Most of these will, however, I suspect, contain a multitude of pertinent musings on the motion picture industry. It's practically a sure bet, they will be protected by all sorts of literary picket fences, lest any daring producer may look upon them with the eye of desire.

I'd have a FIT if I'd written a book and it had been garbled as has been this story by Mr. Croy! And the original is so infinitely much more worth while than its little brother, the film!

There's not much use telling you the story. If you've read the book you won't like the picture. If you haven't—it will probably impress you just as much as do a hundred films that are well acted but are short on plot. The adaptation is a trite thing where a supposedly fake marriage ceremony turns out in the end to be all right. In the picture the child lives.

In the book there is no marriage at all. In the book the child dies. Two examples of a producer, possibly influenced by fear of censorship, daring to mess around, figuratively speaking, with scissors and paste pot.

The book is "small town stuff"—good stuff. The son of a fanatical minister and the daughter of a broad minded atheist discover they are human. The plea of the story is for more "understanding"; more charity; a keener realization that the minister's son and the atheist's daughter are just like other folks, after all.

Many chances for good character work have been missed because of the changes made during the transition of the story from book to screen. A shame!

However, the cast of "West of the Water Tower" is a good one and I reckon everybody concerned did the best with the scenario that could have been done.

(There are certainly times when one is glad one is NOT an author!)

CLOSEUPS

Estelle Taylor, when not working, bowls and plays basketball. It's this "waiting around stuff," according to her, between scenes and pictures that makes young women old and keeps older women from preserving their youth.

It is said that Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, author of "The Enchanted Cottage" in which Richard Barthelmess will star, has placed his stamp of approval on the picture.

Among the members of the league who have been active in making arrangements are Mrs. Frederick Gillespie, Mrs. William H. Stuart, Mrs. George O'Neill, Mrs. J. W. Barker, Mrs. J. R. Dewson, and Mrs. Walter A. Hansen.

Danish Prince Here; Not Sure He's Fiance of New York Girl

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Prince Viggo, cousin of King Christian of Denmark, arrived today on the Majestic from Copenhagen to attend the wedding of Prince Eric to Miss Lois Frances Booth in Ottawa on Feb. 11.

He was met at the pier by Prince Christian of Hesse, a close friend, but seemed disappointed when he could not find Miss Eleanor Green of New York, to whom he has been reported engaged, there to greet him. Informed by reporters that Miss Green was giving a reception in his honor Friday afternoon at the home of her father, Dr. James O. Green, at 15 Lexington avenue, Prince Viggo appeared pleased. He said he did not know anything about it, but if it were so he would be there.

Questioned as to whether he was engaged to Miss Green, the Danish prince finally admitted there was no engagement "so f.." Miss Green's father recently denounced reports of an engagement as absurd.

"Do you expect to marry Miss Green?" the prince was asked.

"I hope so," he replied, "but please do not ask me any more questions on the subject."

Young Cellist Gives Ambitious Program

With the briefest kind of preliminary notice, Beulah Rosine, a young cellist, gave a recital at Kimball hall last night. Her program was ambitious. It included a sonata by Sammartini, a concerto by Saint-Saëns, and short pieces of various eras and styles. She has made quite a bit of progress along the path of the virtuoso, playing with much facility and attacking technical problems with apparent unconcern. Her effort would seem to have been to approach her tone with reference to its weight and sonority, and at times at the expense of mellowness.

In smaller type on the program was the name of Helen Freund, coloratura soprano. Miss Freund likewise belongs in the younger generation of musicians, but she has accomplished much and has promise of doing considerably more. Her voice is charming in quality, her performance is easy and exact, and she has the gift of temperament. An aria from "Linda di Chamounix" and some songs of briefer length, but brilliant nature was her part of the program. E. M.

The Answers.

Charles Jicha, 3655 West 22d street—I'm for dresses that are neither too long nor too short. Short skirts should be worn on the street, but for dress occasions they should be long. A sensible short skirt is so normal that it should be standard for all time.

Miss Catherine Wilcox, 1447 North Dearborn street—I am not, but I don't believe they are going to be short. Street dresses should be fairly short, not as short as they were last year. Evening dresses should be comfortably long. I love the graceful long dress.

Arthur Heineman, Oak Park Y. M. C. A.—Absolutely not. Women should not wear short dresses. Full length drapery, even of a dress, is more graceful. How would these old statues look without their full complement of drapery?

Miss Dorothy Jane Cullom, Western Springs—No. Long skirts and dresses are far more graceful than short ones, the lines more artistic, the general effect more pleasing. I recently tried on my last year's dresses and I was shocked to think that I had ever worn such things.

Morris Lichtenstein, 5320 North Paulina street—I didn't know they were to be shorter. The shorter skirt gives more freedom, providing they are not tight. I don't know what advantage there is in a long skirt. Do you?

Oliver Sayler Makes a Book on Reinhardt

And Martin Harvey Makes a Change of Play.

BY FREDERICK DONAGHEY.

If what you care for in the playhouse be drama, rather than shows and the actors, you can easily get ten dollars' worth from the book called "Max Reinhardt and His Theater," which is so new that Brentano's dates it 1924. And you need not feel what we used to call "precious" if you decide that the pictures, of themselves, are worth the ten dollars: they are in colors and in black-and-white, and there are many of them, and they are live and topical and eloquent. . . .

This is the best book about the theater of today I have encountered; and I'm aware of having missed none of the others. It is a compilation by the diligent Oliver M. Sayler, whose present and immediate task it is to celebrate the activities of Morris Gest, who, it is reported, pays to Mr. Sayler $25,000 a year: a sum somewhat larger than is taken down by the average press-agent of the theater. Mr. Sayler earns it, we should say, when he deftly involves Mr. Gest in such entertaining tomes as this and "Our American Theater"; in the useful collections of the plays acted here by Duse and the Moscow performers, and in his blithe brochure on the Chauve-Souris.

The book on Reinhardt is, of course, encomia; and you will not enjoy it the less because it is. The Continental critics, authors, and publicists whose essays on Reinhardt's activities are reproduced by Mr. Sayler are practical workers in and about the theater. Four of them are Von Hofmannsthal, Hermann Bahr, Gertrud Eysoldt, and Maximilian Harden. Some of the most stimulating reading in its peppy pages is by Reinhardt, himself. When, for example, he writes about the movies, it is to give chief credit for progress to Chaplin, Griffith, and Coogan. Unconsciously, perhaps, he employs the jocose cliché, "The film, as an art, is still in its infancy"; but he goes on to call it "a dangerous parasite of the theater, of literature, of music, of painting, and so forth." . . . His two pages on the movies, if you believe me, are worth the ten dollars!

That Reinhardt, now at length in fashion through the undeniable popular success of "The Miracle" in New-York City, is returning in the Autumn makes of the book about him a timely and entrancing thing to read. His misses, as well as his hits, are recorded,—as in the case of his Grosses Schauspielhaus, in Berlin, which E. J. Dent describes as "a belated product of pre-revolutionary German megalomania." It was therein I witnessed, in 1920, "Julius Cæsar" reinhardted into a circus as the inevitable consequence of disregarding its limitations as a poetic tragedy designed to be acted in the idiom of the formal theater. . . .

Mr. Sayler, in his preface, rightly says: "If Reinhardt had come ten years ago, he would have received credit for many of the superficial ideas which others in the meantime have snatched, imitated, and usually misapplied." Reading that, the mind goes to the unvarying style of Josef Urban, to the inept mimicries of Robert Edmond Jones, and to other copyists and counterfeits of what have been, often as not, mere experiments by Reinhardt, discarded after a single exhibition. The runway of "Sumurûn" is a case in point. The mob in Mr. Harvey's current "Œdipus Rex" is another. The latter serves still as a sort of novocaine to prepare the attention of the ticket-buyer for the dreaded ordeal of a Greek tragedy which, when met, proves to possess all the qualities we seek in the theater.

Mr. Harvey will withdraw "Œdipus Rex" next Wednesday, and a week from tonight will make known "The Breed of the Treshams," which has long been among his popular media in England. Doubtless, I have explained that the piece has never been acted in this country, although written by Americans—Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland and Beulah Marie Dix. . . . It seems that there were unused seats in the Great Northern Tuesday and yesterday, and that, although he will have tea today with the Drama League, Mr. Harvey estimates that the Athenians among us will have had their portion of Sophocles by the date set for the change of bill. . . . Nothing more nearly appropriate in comment occurs to me than to repeat what was said here in Tuesday's issue—"Œdipus Rex" as given by Mr. Harvey is a good thing for you to see.

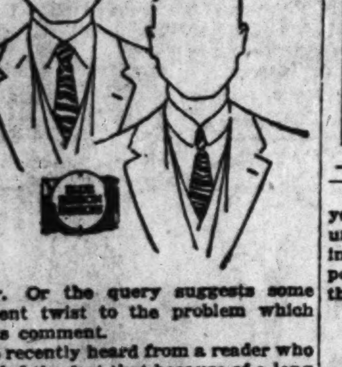
MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.

Right and Wrong.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Fitting the collar to the neck is a deeper problem than knowing whether one wears a fourteen or a sixteen and one-half. The right type of collar is equally important as the right size. We have touched upon this upon several occasions, but every now and then a request from a reader reminds us there are doubtless many other of our readers who are hunting for the ideal collar. Or the query suggests some different twist to the problem which merits comment.



We recently heard from a reader who bewailed the fact that because of a long thin neck and broad head and shoulders he was unable to find a collar that did not give him a dog collar appearance. You can gather what he means by looking at the figure on the right of the drawing. The collar in this case is exactly what it should not be—short, and with close narrow spacing.

On the left is the recommended collar for a long, thin neck, which is bounded by broad shoulders on one end and a broad head on the other. As you will observe it is higher than the unbecoming one, and has a wide opening for the knot, and generous long points, a style which helps to offset the length of the neck.

Fashionotes.

Again we find ourselves obliged, because of the frequency of requests for information on the subject, to say that a white bow tie is never proper with a tuxedo, even when a white vest is worn with this informal evening wear. Only a black bow tie is correct.

We were asked the other day whether a wing collar and blue bow tie could be worn with a blue business suit. You may be wondering the same. The answer is yes.

"I am a little girl 6 years old and poor. I am writing to ask if some girl has a doll buggy to spare. I would be so glad to get one, as I was lucky to get a big doll for Christmas. I have a little sister, 4 years old, and a baby brother, 1 year. Maybe some one will give them some warm clothes.

Baby Cab Badly Needed.

"For several years the husband of a neighbor had tuberculosis and during all that period his wife carried the responsibility for supporting the family. Last September when he was getting well he was shot down before his door by an unknown assassin. His wife again took up the burden and has been trying to support herself and four children by doing day work. She is much in need of a carriage big enough to hold her two babies of 23 and 11 months.

The first time Agnes used the telephone, she took down the receiver and said, "Central, I want to talk to my Uncle Steve."

Central said, "Where is your Uncle Steve?"

"Well, you ought to know, he is right downtown there somewhere," said Agnes.

On several occasions I noticed that the little girl who lives next door took especial interest in the callers that came to my house and one day she said to me, "My, you have lots more customers than we have, don't you?"

G. D. V.

Jean and John were twins and their morning suits look much alike. One day a man passing by stopped to talk to them, and I heard him ask them if they were both girls.

John spoke at once in an indignant tone, "No," he said, "when I grow up I'll be a man and wear a mustache, but she will always just stay a girl."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Griddle Cakes.

A great many cooks make pancakes or griddle cakes without any recipe, using some stale bread, or this or that, as they choose. Unconsciously they follow the general formula for batters of the type that will run which is: One cup wet to one of dry, with necessary leavenings and seasonings. Their manipulation of the batter is mainly what makes the good pancake, and they vary the dry part according to its behavior—whether it will take up a great deal of liquid or not more than ordinary.

The commonest batch of pancakes made contains two cups each of flour and liquid. Suppose the liquid is sour milk, then our formula would read: Two cups of sifted flour, one level teaspoon of baking soda, one-half teaspoon of salt, two eggs or none, and when eggs are not used, or even when they are, a teaspoon of baking powder makes for a certain quality that is desirable. The legitimate or first work of the soda is to neutralize the sour of the milk, and the extra leavening of the baking powder may be needed because the soda in doing that [illegible] virtue.

In making pancakes with sour milk it is necessary to beat the milk thoroughly—use an egg beater—and then to beat it with all the sifted dry ingredients, and beat with a cut and [illegible] motion if no eggs are used. The general rule with clabbered milk is quick mixing and quick baking on a [illegible] heated griddle, but one not so hot that the cake has to be turned too quickly.

When an ungreased griddle is used for the baking some shortening must be put in the pancakes, added last to the batter—two to four tablespoons of just melted butter.

"Now and then there comes to a continuity writer a story that adapts itself perfectly to the screen. 'In the Palace of the King' is one of these. Its love story I found easier to retell than 'Blood and Sand' and its spectacular and mass action more powerful than 'The Four Horsemen.'

"In the Palace of the King"

I regard as one of the very, very finest things the film world has produced. Emmett J. Flynn did as good a piece of directing as in 'A Connecticut Yankee' and Blanche Sweet, the star, is even better than in 'Anna Christie'. The other players, Pauline Starke, Edmund Lowe, Hobart Bosworth and many as well known act as though the life of the story itself was in their blood."

COOK BOOK

cause the soda in doing that loses virtue.

In making pancakes with sour milk it is necessary to beat the milk thoroughly—use an egg beater—and then to beat it with all the sifted dry ingredients, and beat with a cut under motion if no eggs are used. The general rule with clabbered milk is quick mixing and quick baking on a solidly heated griddle, but one not so hot that the cake has to be turned too quickly.

When an ungreased griddle is used for the baking some shortening must be put in the pancakes, added last to the batter—two to four tablespoons of just melted butter.

Cook Is Important Factor in Happiness of Married Life

BY DORIS BLAKE.

You wives who are ever saying you wish you could do something worth while in the world; who wish you could do something different—did it ever occur to you the vast possibilities for attaining remarkable distinction right in your own home?

We are known as a nation of dyspeptics. The undernutrition of school-children—even children of the well to do—is appalling. The diseases and malformations of children due to undernutrition, presented in school statistics, is, to put it mildly, startling!

Now, instead of envying some sister her artistic genius and the plaudits she wins, why not go her one better and be a genius in the mixing of food.

Any one with a groundwork of common sense and a smattering of experience can throw a meal together. But it calls for genius (which, as it has been defined, is nothing more than the capacity for infinite pains) to put a meal together. Looking at it from the physical side alone, the most important single function of the home is the provision of food.

How many women do you know who have a genius for food preparation? Many can cook, yes, but how many can say that to them the real problem in the provision of a diet is not cooking but food combination. How many know the elements of diet, food properties, combination of food values, the preparation of foodstuffs, the things which a household genius who provides wisely must understand?

How many know there are three principal nutritive elements in food—protein, fats, and carbohydrates? That proteins are furnished chiefly by meats, eggs, dairy products, cereals; fats by meats, eggs, and dairy products; and carbohydrates (starches and sugar) by cereals, vegetables, and sugar. That upon these three elements man depends for energy, heat, and body building material?

Ignorance of these laws of healthy and happy home building is no excuse. The woman's magazines carry the information into homes, newspaper features stress their importance. Books are available at small cost. The only thing that makes this expert knowledge prohibitive is the will not to learn. With the slapstick tragedies that are presented at dining tables throughout the land, it is a wonder the nation isn't groaning louder with dyspeptic pains.

And when you know that the home holds first place among social institutions and its two branches of domestic science—cooking and child caring—are of the most fundamental value to the future of the race—one wonders why more wives and mothers do not realize the tremendous range of opportunity for greatness in this service.

To paraphrase an old verse: "We can live without art; we can live without books; but the health of the nation depends on its cooks."

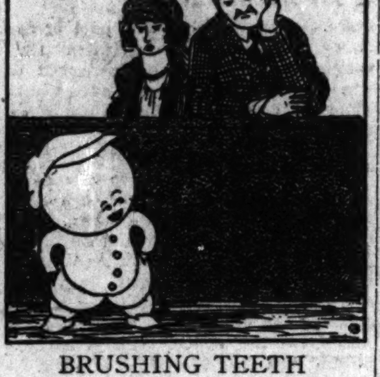
The dyspeptic condition of so many present day marriages could be cured by the genius of well planned, well cooked, and well served meals. No one ever heard of a man's turning to some other woman for sympathy after a meal at home that was gratifying. It speaks volumes for the patience of the husband—victims of the notorious villany of some home cookery that they do not do what H. L. Mencken says a French hack driver would if his wife set such "masterpieces" before him—brain her with his linoleum hat.

GOOPS

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

BY GELETT BURGESS

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]



BRUSHING TEETH

I met a funny little fellow,
His teeth were yellow, very yellow.
"How often do you brush your teeth?"
I asked. His name was Bertie Keith.
"I don't brush them at all," said Bertie.
"I'm a Goop." I like them dirty!"

NOTE—If you know any Goop faults you want corrected, drop a note to Mr. Gelett Burgess, care of this paper, and perhaps he will draw a picture and write a verse about it.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Thinking Your Thoughts.

"Dear Miss Blake: What do you think of a fellow who says he loves you, and invites you out to dinner, and makes you pay for your own? Just what do you really think?

"PUZZLED."

I am afraid, Puzzled, I am thinking the same thing you are, only worse. What could one think of a cavalier like that?

The Answer Is No.

"Dear Miss Blake: I go out quite a bit with fellows and always have plenty of dates, but I do not go with any one fellow especially. It is seldom any of them ask me for my picture or if they may wear my rings. Is it permissible for me to send a snapshot of myself to a fellow I am writing to if he has not asked me for it? May a girl ask a fellow to wear her pin or should he ask for it? ANXIOUS."

Where do you funny little darlings get that idea about entrusting your pins and rings to the care of a disinterested suitor? Or to an ardent one, for that matter? I know a number of you do make this mistake, because frequently I am called upon to help in getting jewelry back. Sometimes the boy passes it along to some other girl or loses it or just casts it aside on his bureau as of no consequence. I think it better not to give it away or lend it. Too, the snapshots were better not sent, for the reason that if a picture of a girl is not asked for, presenting it might be embarrassing to the boy and he might show it about laughingly or hide it away somewhere so that no one else would see it.

How to make Good Coffee NUMBER IX
The so-called baser metals and coffee are enemies. Good results may be obtained by using an earthenware pot or one in which the metal is covered, such as agate ware or granite ware. If your coffee begins to show gray or muddy, examine your pot. It may be that the enamel is broken and the coffee is coming in contact with the iron underneath.
People judge the excellence of your table by the coffee you serve. With Yuban you may always be certain of their approval. Its particularly mellow, rich flavor was selected by a great coffee merchant from all the coffees of the world.

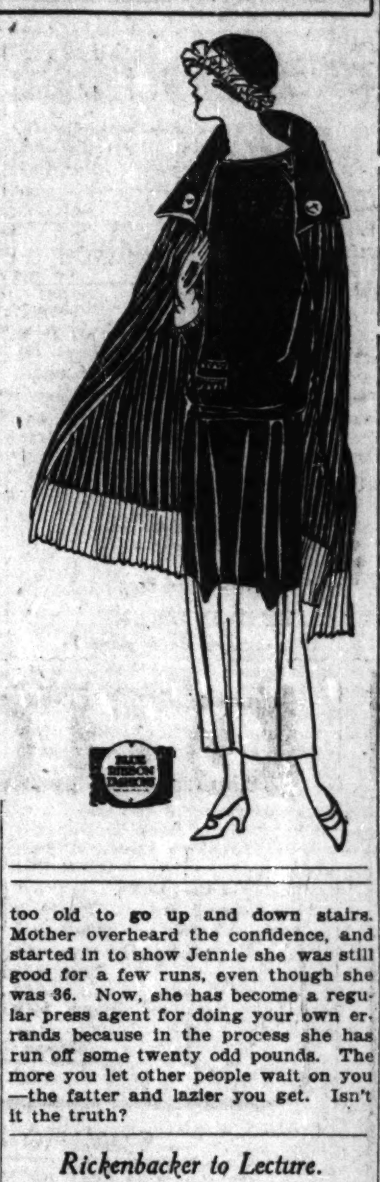
Black and White Costume with a Cape Length Tunic

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The first faint pipings of spring are anything but faint. On suits and frocks and wraps this piping of contrasting color is used with a lavish hand For example, a famous suit of Premet's, which has been copied in this country, tempers its boyish lines with gay silk pipings extended about the jacket and repeated in the definition of small pockets.

This idea of trimming is one which has been applied successfully to today's charming cape costume of black and white crêpe. Here its field of activity is limited to the two pockets which diversify the long tunic of black crêpe and to the shoulder line. However, sparing as is this touch, it is a telling one, especially since the pipings are combined with tiny pearl buttons. The skirt under the black tunic is of white crêpe, and both tones are combined in the graceful plaited cape. Only a border of solid white is there to confirm the leadership of the skirt. The two buttons on the unplaited collar are white.

Here we have the tunic blouse of equal length with the jacket varied by the substitution of cape for coat. And here again we have the combination of black and white so much stressed for southern wear.

MOTHER: MAYBE YOURS IS A case like the woman's who confessed reform in running her own affairs. She got into the habit of letting her youngsters run all her errands. If there was a stair to climb, she would say: "Jennie, you go; you are younger than I am." Jennie one day confided to her chum that mother was getting too old to go up and down stairs. Mother overheard the confidence, and started in to show Jennie she was still good for a few runs, even though she was 36. Now, she has become a regular press agent for doing your own errands because in the process she has run off some twenty odd pounds. The more you let other people wait on you—the fatter and lazier you get. Isn't it the truth?

DEFEAT BY HAHN DIMS BRILLIANT VICTORY OF RAY

New York, Jan. 30.—With the cheers of an excited crowd of 12,000 ringing in his ears, Joie Ray, Illinois A. C. middle distance runner, flashed his flying heels in the faces of three rivals tonight in the Rodman Wanamaker one and one-half mile special run, one of the many features at the Millrose A. A. indoor athletic meet in Madison Square garden.

Ray, however, after his triumph in the mile and a half, was badly beaten in the two-thirds mile run, his second race of the program, which was captured by Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A., in fast time. Ray finished last in a field of six, 100 yards behind the winner. Hahn recently won from Ray in a one mile handicap race here and Ray's eagerness to avenge that defeat led him to accept the issue in the second important race tonight.

Runs Rivals Off Feet.

The doughty little Chicagoan literally ran his rivals into the ground in the Wanamaker special, which early developed into a fruitless pursuit on the part of the other nine entrants, of whom only four finished. Ray's time was 6:48 4-5, seven seconds slower than the record he himself established in this event last year.

Trailing Ray by 40 yards was Ray Buker, Ray's I. A. C. clubmate, and a like distance back of Buker came R. E. Brown of the Boston A. A. It was Joie's seventh triumph in this local board floor classic and gave him his first leg on a new trophy, the third which has been offered in competition for the test.

Ray was outclassed in his second race, except for a brief spurt soon after the start, which carried him up second. Jimmy Connolly of the Newark A. C. set the early pace, but Hahn shot out in front a lap and a half from home and stood off determined challenges by Ray Watson of Chicago and Enck of Penn State. Hahn's time, 2:44, was only two-fifths of a second slower than the world's mark.

Penn State Star Wins.

Alan B. Helffrich of Penn State college, intercollegiate half mile champion, raced to a brilliant victory in the Millrose 600, another of the classic features of the carnival. This race furnished another outlet for the pentup cheers of the big crowd.

Tom Campbell, former Yale star and University of Chicago freshman, and Vincent Lally made a spirited bid to overhaul Helffrich in a spectacular closing lap spurt, but the Penn State star had enough reserve to beat off their challenges, winning by about five yards on Campbell, in 1:13 3-5, four-fifths of a second above the record. Lally was right at Campbell's shoulder at the finish, while a few strides back, in fourth position, was Ray Dodge, Illinois A. C. runner.

Karl Anderson, crack hurdler of the Illinois A. C., gave an impressive exhibition of his ability over the fences when he captured a fifty yard high hurdle feature in :06 6-10, defeating a field which included some of the best hurdlers in American college and club ranks.

Two Wins for Murchison.

Loren Murchison of Newark A. C., national sprint champion, gave an exhibition of sprinting ability when he flashed to victory in a special invitation sixty yard sprint. He finished with a distinct margin over Chester Bowman, Syracuse university, who qualified for this sprint by winning a fifty yard dash previously. Harold B. Lever, who won the intercollegiate sprint championship last year, was third, after getting a poor start, when one of his starting blocks slipped loose.

Murchison hung up his second sprint victory of the night when he outfooted "Dusk" Wolters of Chicago and Vernon Ascher of Chicago and Georgetown, national junior quarter mile champion, in a special 300 yard event. Murchison led from the start and finished five yards ahead of Wolters.

Other Chicagoans Second.

Attempts by Leroy T. Brown, former Dartmouth athlete, who now is a student at Colorado School of Mines, and Harold M Osborne, Illinois A. C. jumper, to establish a new world's indoor high jump record provided an interesting competition. The pair failed in three trials each to clear the bar at 6 feet 6 9-16 inches. Brown won the test on a jumpoff with Osborne, after each athlete had cleared 6 feet 5 inches.

H. H. Fitch of the Chicago A. A. was second in a 800 yard run which was held in addition to the 300 yard special.

Summaries of principal events:

SMOKES, PASTRY, AND HOTEL BAR STIR YANK ICE SPORTS COACH

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 30.—After today's hockey game, in which the American team appeared tired and out of condition, Coach Bill Haddock gathered his athletes about him and announced a strict training program. Athletes must in the future be in bed by 10 o'clock and cigarets and rich French pastries are barred.

The players are no longer allowed to frequent the casino gambling rooms, the gay dances or the popular hotel bar. The Canadians, who take their hockey very seriously and are keeping in the strictest training, are favorites to beat the United States team.

THOMAS QUITS AS HEAD OF U. C. SENIOR CLASS

At the request of the undergraduate council at the University of Chicago John Thomas, stellar full back, tendered his resignation Tuesday as president of the senior class because of ineligibility for public appearance, acquired last quarter. The step of the council was taken in response to a request from Dean E. H. Wilkins that the ineligibility rule in regard to public appearance and office holding be more strictly adhered to.

The council will vote next week on the vacancy left by Thomas' resignation, inasmuch as the president of the senior class becomes the official representative of that class in the University of Chicago Alumni association. Miss Dorothy McKinley is vice president of the class.

This is the second class president at the university to resign this year. Frier McCollister, ex-president of the junior class, resigned at the end of the last quarter.

In his resignation Thomas says: "I do wish to state, however, that I have full intentions of graduating with the present senior class, as I am several grade points ahead, and greatly regret the loss of a major during the last quarter."

PRESERVE SLIDE IS IN FAIR SHAPE; BE GOOD, MR. COX

Representatives of the Norge and Grand Beach ski clubs yesterday inspected the forest preserve slide at Palos Park, where the first meet conducted by the county will be held Saturday afternoon. They reported the snow in fair condition, but the weather during the remainder of the week will largely determine the condition the day of the meet.

Both the Norge and Grand Beach clubs have entered jumpers in the meet and the two organizations will provide the officials.

The slide at Nashota is well packed with snow.

CHAMONIX, France, Jan. 30.—The American and Canadian hockey steam rollers flattened their opponents easily in the Olympic games today with the Maple Leaf machine making by far the better showing of the two teams picked to battle for the championship. Norway by sweeping the first four places in the ski event replaced Finland as leader of the games.

America defeated France 22 to 0 in today's hockey game, and Canada beat Switzerland 33 to 0, but the scores do not tell the story. The Americans played erratically, showing flashes of brilliant lightning play mixed with streaks of mediocre team work.

In the first period the Americans scored twelve goals by a speedy attack marked by fine individual play by Center Forward Drury and the giant defense Abel. When the second period got under way it was apparent that the Americans had played themselves out.

Norway Takes the Lead.

The ten minute rest period refreshed Uncle Sam's representatives who shot nine goals in the final period. Drury and Abel led the scoring with six goals each.

Norway overcame Finland's lead and reached first place in the team standing at noon when the Norwegian skiers won the first four places in the grueling ski marathon over mountain passes, a distance of thirty-one miles. Haug of Norway finished first, covering the distance in 3 hours, 44 minutes, and 32 seconds. His face was covered with blood, caused by injuries sustained when he fell on the ice.

The American skiers were scratched this morning, feeling that they were not able to stand the hard test because they had just arrived.

U. S. Scores in Skate.

Nathaniel Niles of Boston added a point to America's score by getting sixth place in the men's fancy skating event, the result of which the judges announced tonight, two days after the competition. Grafstorm of Sweden was first; Bock of Austria, second; Gautschi of Switzerland, third; Silva of Czecho-Slovakia, fourth, and Page of Great Britain, fifth.

Not Trying Hardest?

CHAMONIX, Jan. 30.—[By Associated Press.]—Canada has given an impression of irresistible strength in all the Olympic hockey matches. The United States team has done well, but in one period today against France faltered badly. Manager Haddock read the riot act to the boys because he seemed to think they were content to fight for second place, which he told them was thoroughly un-American. They promised to show a brand of hockey against England tomorrow that would keep the spectators wide awake.

Woods and Waters by BOB. BECKER

A LONG SCRAP WITH AN AMBERJACK.

FLORIDA KEYS, near Miami, Fla.—The big one got away! That old refrain which is so familiar to fresh water anglers is also used down here among the keys where some of the "big ones" attain great size. We had a chance to sing this little phrase the other day when we were fishing off Angelfish creek with Capt. Bill. It was a heartbreaker of a loss, too, as when you put in better than a half hour on a fish, fighting him every minute until your hands are sore, your arms tired and then, because of a flaw in your line, he gets away, you don't feel any too good over it. That's what happened to us while tossing around on the briny with the hot sun on our back.

Capt. Bill was cruising around over his favorite amberjack and grouper grounds and had just lost a fine big grouper that had not been gaffed right when we got this big amberjack on. Round and round we went as this fish did what it pleased. It seemed as if for every ten yards of line we gained on him he would rush and take out twenty. Starting the fight on the reef we finished on the gulf stream. Never at any time did we get him even close enough to think that he was tiring when the line broke and away he went with about 200 feet of it. Next time—half inch rope and a derrick will be part of our equipment when we go after the big jacks in this part of the country! However, any fish that fought like that one did deserved to win his freedom. But—we sure would liked to have seen that old boy on the scales.

A couple of hours later our stock of joy went up as we hooked a tuna that put up a peach of a scrap. The tuna is a beautiful fish and he fights just as good as he looks. With a body that scintillates with deep gold and black [that is as shiny as patent leather], he dazzles you when you lift him from the water. Not a surface fighter, but this fish has a bulldog determination and persistency in his scrapping that gives the angler lots of sport on the right kind of tackle. You can feel him yanking and pulling until brought right up to the boat and for his twelve and one-half pounds that fish which we landed sure did account for himself every minute.

Getting this fish was a lucky stunt. It was the only one we saw while down in the keys. Moreover, as soon as we flopped him on the deck Capt. Bill said he was a real fish and eligible for the Fishers' club contest at Miami. So, Mr. Tuna, game to the last, gets his name on the board as the biggest specimen caught so far this season as the best one previously hooked tipped the scales at eleven and three-quarters pounds.

Curing your Golf Troubles BY JIM BARNES

Jim Barnes will suggest a remedy for your golf faults. Write him in care of the Sport Editor, inclosing stamped envelope if you want a personal reply.

DEAR MR. BARNES: I would be pleased to have you answer the following question for me: A golfer gets approximately the same distance with driving iron and spoon. What should guide him in his choice when playing a shot through the fairway and from the tee?

W. T. L.

ANSWER—The choice of clubs would depend on conditions. For instance, it might be a case of keeping the ball low because of a wind, in which case it would be advisable to use a driving iron. If there happened to be a following wind, the spoon would be more suited for getting the ball up. It has, or at least should have, more loft.

Then again the lie, that is for shots through the green, has to be considered. It is sometimes difficult to get down to the ball with a wooden club, where it can be gotten fairly easy with an iron. Under such conditions, it is of course, better to use the latter. As to the choice for tee shots, it is advisable to use wood, unless the player happens to be erratic with these clubs. But reasonable distance with an iron that keeps the ball in the fairway is better than fifteen or twenty yards more with the wood that leaves the ball in trouble in the rough.

TAYLOR TO MEET VILLA FOR TITLE IN MARCH

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., consistent challenger for the flyweight and bantamweight titles, and Pancho Villa, holder of the world's 112 pound championship, in all probability will clash in New York during the first week in March, according to announcement made yesterday by Eddie Long, manager of the Hoosier boxer.

Long received word yesterday from Manager Churchill of Villa urging him not to close any matches after Bud's contest with Sammy Nable in Indianapolis on Feb. 18. Churchill stated in the dispatch that the Villa match is as good as closed, and that it will be held in the garden around March 1.

Call Off Other Promoters.

As a result of this communication, Long and Churchill have called off negotiations with promoters in Boston, Milwaukee, and Indianapolis, who have been clamoring for the match. Long further asserted he will cancel the Feb. 18 engagement if it in any way interferes with the flyweight championship contest.

The Taylor-Villa match was about closed when Bud defeated Frankie Jerome a short time ago. The untimely death of Jerome put a stop to all negotiations, but apparently the promoters, Tex Rickard especially, have seen the drawing possibilities of the contest.

Taylor Trains at Home.

Taylor is training at his home in Terre Haute for his match with Eddie O'Dowd at Columbus on Feb. 7. This will be a twelve round decision affair.

Jock Malone of St. Paul, considered one of the best middleweights in the world, who is recognized as the 158 pound champion in a number of states, is working diligently at the Arcade for his twelve round bout with Young Fisher of Syracuse at Toledo on Monday night. Jock will leave for Toledo on Saturday afternoon.

Jack Duffy, local middleweight of the Belle Plaine A. C., left last night for Rochester, where he meets Pat Walsh of Cleveland in a twelve round decision encounter tomorrow night.

Eddie Long and Eddie Kane, joint managers of Sammy Mandell, the Rockford featherweight, yesterday sent a challenge to Johnny Dundee, junior lightweight champion. Mandell's hands will be well enough to permit boxing in two weeks.

Paul Stedman, St. Louis 122 pounder, under management of Slough Timothy, will meet Nick Barlow, local boxer, before a suburban club on Tuesday night. Stedman is working every day at the Arcade, where he trades punches with fighters of various weights.

Jimmy Davant, known to boxing fans as manager of Tillie "Kid" Herman, Frankie Garcia, and others, left yesterday for his home in Memphis. Jimmy will have a share in a new club which will be opened in Memphis and expects to have some of the world's best fighters show in his arena.

RICKARD TELLS FIRPO TO AWAIT FURTHER WORD

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 30.—Luis Angel Firpo has received a cablegram from Tex Rickard advising him not to sign a contract with any other promoter until he hears further from Rickard.

Firpo asserted that in view of his acceptance of the offer of Lewis Raymond, representing a Long Island syndicate, for a fight with Harry Wills, there was nothing he could say in reply to Rickard unless the Raymond negotiations should fall through.

It was said today that the statement of Hugh Grantland, Firpo's representative in the United States, who is now in Buenos Aires, to the effect that the syndicate had deposited $50,000 as a guarantee, was premature.

This was one of the conditions under which Firpo accepted the contract and he expects to receive word soon that the money either has been cabled or is on deposit in New York to Firpo's account.

Joe Jackson Tells Story in Salary Suit Against Sox

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—An attempt by the defense to shake the direct testimony of Joe Jackson featured today's proceedings in the suit of the expelled ball player against the Chicago White Sox for $18,000.

Jackson was on the stand throughout the day. In the morning he testified as to what happened when he signed the three year contract on which he is suing. In the afternoon session the defense put him under cross-examination and not only challenged his statements in regard to signing but questioned him at length on what was purported to be his testimony before the Cook county grand jury which in the autumn of 1920 investigated the crooked world's series of 1919.

Admit Grand Jury Records.

When George B. Hudnall for the defense started to quote from the grand jury records, James D. Shaw, for the plaintiff, challenged the right to introduce the records, which he claimed were a matter of secrecy.

This point was argued, and Judge Gregory finally ruled to admit them.

No attempt was made by the plaintiff's attorneys to question the authenticity of the records.

Jackson started his story on the signing of the three year contract, with the arrival of Harry Grabiner, secretary of the White Sox, at Savannah, Ga., in February, 1920. The explayer said he asked Grabiner why he hadn't been called to Chicago and permitted to tell Charles A. Comiskey about the $5,000 that Lefty Williams had given him.

Jackson Accepts Terms.

The former slugger than said that Grabiner assured him the club had the "goods" on Gandil, Williams, and Cicotte. The two then discussed the matter of a contract, and Jackson says he accepted terms while sitting in his car in front of his house.

Being unable to read, he said that he took Grabiner's word for the fact that the contract contained no ten day clause. Joe then signed. All his contracts previous to this were signed by his wife, because of the player's inability to write.

Under cross-examination the defense asked him if it weren't true that the contract had been signed in the house, and that Mrs. Jackson had read it before the signature was affixed. The former player stuck to his story about having signed in the car, with only himself and Grabiner present.

Reveals Yankee Offer.

Jackson pulled somewhat of a surprise in his direct testimony when he said that after the world's series of 1919 Miller Huggins of the Yankees told him the Yanks would give him a five year contract at a big salary if he could affect a trade for his services. Jackson also said that he understood the St. Louis Americans had made an offer to Comiskey for him.

Hudnall's reading of what was said to be the grand jury records mentioned $10,000 supposed to have been received by Cicotte, and $5,000 each by McMullin and Risberg for alleged complicity in the conspiracy to throw the 1919 series.

The reading of these records also set forth that Jackson had told the grand jury that Gandil must have cleaned up, as he had a new automobile, a summer home, and wasn't working. Today Jackson said that he had no recollection of such a statement. He gave practically the same answer to all questions and answers embodied in the grand jury report.

GIRL, POSING AS RUTH'S SECRETARY, ARRESTED

New York, Jan. 30.—[United News.]—As if Babe Ruth hadn't been in enough embarrassment of his own making, a young woman arrested at Brooklyn navy yard for trying to crash the gate past the marine sentries on guard there caused him further discomfort today by claiming to be his correspondence secretary. This was the first intimation that the Babe had a secretary, real or imaginary, and friends of the large Bambino even went so far as to say they never even knew he had correspondence.

Story Has Some Flaws.

However, that was the story of the young woman, a person not discomforting to the eyes, who gave her name as Miss Babe Schein and said she was just 21. She stuck to it gamely, notwithstanding certain flaws.

For instance, she said she was preparing to accompany the Babe at Miami, Fla., during his spring training there. This seemed erroneous in view of the fact that the New York Yankees will train at New Orleans and not Miami.

Not So Good! Not So Good!

"They're all a lot of dumbbells," Miss Schein observed regarding Admiral Plunkett, commandant of the navy yard, and the officers of the marine guard as she sparred at her nose with a powder puff the size of a 16 ounce glove."

Goozeman Must Explain His Foul of Joey Sangor

10,000,000 GERMS IN A SPOONFUL OF ICE CREAM.

TEN MILLION live, wiggling bacteria are ingested with every spoonful of average ice cream in Kansas, experimental work now being conducted at Manhattan, Kas., indicates, according to the agricultural college's announcement of its tests.

Kansas investigators counted the bacteria in 115 samples, which showed an average of nearly 2,000,000 bacteria per gram, and the ordinary teaspoon holds about five grams. The tests were made in a commercial Manhattan creamery. The number of bacterial in ice cream indicates the degree of cleanliness of the products used in making it and the manufacturing plant where it is made.

A. C. Fay, dairy bacteriologist, in commenting on the results of the test, said that when a boy buries his nose in an ice cream cone he is not concerned whether he is eating 10,000 or 10,000,000 bacteria per mouthful. "His mother, however, should be concerned whether that ice cream is made from clean, wholesome products in a clean plant, or whether it has been made in dirty vats and filthy freezers and from poor grade, foul smelling cream."

It is possible to produce ice cream containing less than 100,000, and in many cases less than 10,000, bacteria per gram, by simple methods and sanitary precautions.

Veteran Official in Cue Ranks Expires Suddenly

PADDOCK IN GOTHAM; ENGAGES A LAWYER

New York, Jan. 30.—[United Press.]—Charley Paddock was here today and said: "I want to make the Olympic team if I can, and I don't want to cause any big fight about it. I have applied for reinstatement to the A. A. U. and I have made what I think is sufficient explanation for the points of difference between us.

"I was technically wrong in going to Paris last summer, and I'll admit it. But I didn't know at that time, and the athletic officials at the University of Southern California did not know, that the permission of the A. A. U., according to international rules, was necessary for any international competition in which an Amercan athlete engages.

Apology Missing.

"I have asked the A. A. U. to reinstate me, but I have not apologized and I feel that I should not be expected to do so. I have explained everything. The criticism I was quoted in the press as making against the A. A. U was the result of a violation of newspaper confidence. I said several things about the A. A. U., but they were private opinions and I certainly did not wish to make them officially.

"I can defend myself against all the charges made against me excepting those pertaining to my character. I'll have to ask the public to be the judge on that point. If the A. A. U. wants to attack my character, it must assume the burden of proof.

Retains Counsel.

Paddock said since the A. A. U. had attacked his character and cast aspersions on him, as not being qualified as an "American gentleman," he had retained counsel here to look after his interests.

Paddock said that he is in splendid condition. He weighs 158 pounds now in his running clothes and is ten pounds lighter than he was when he ran in Antwerp. The ankle which he injured some time ago, is sound again and he feels sure that he will be in top form in Paris next summer.

CHICAGOAN GIVES $25,000 HARNESS DERBY TO KAZOO

Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 30.—A $25,000 American Derby for 2:08 pacers, said to be the largest stake ever offered in a harness event in this country, will be a feature of the five day Grand Circuit meeting that starts here July 21. The race is sponsored by P. O. Reno, Chicago horseman.

Simultaneously with his announcement of awarding the Derby to Kalamazoo, Reno turned over the twenty-seven entries for the event he already has received.

The closing date is fixed as Feb. 18 and forty pacers are expected to be listed before the books close.

The new owners deposited $50,000 to the credit of the new enterprise as an evidence of good faith. At the same time $65,000 worth of nonvoting preferred stock was issued to Moan and Ashton, this stock representing the purchase price.

THAT'S A WHITE DRAGON

There are six kinds of tiles—winds, dragons, flowers, bamboos, circles (or dots) and characters. Women try to save their characters. Men are not so particular. They save anything they can.

The first procedure is to build the wall. If you have a new diamond ring, reach as far as possible to the other side of the table to secure tiles for your wall. If you haven't a diamond ring, use the same motion as in swimming dog fashion.

If you want a certain tile which has been discarded, say "pung" or "chow." For this purpose, keep your tongue away from your eye tooth so you can see what you are talking about. One must be careful not to say "pong" recklessly. One lady recently expected "Heavenly Twins" and ended with thirteen orphans.

If you draw a flower, place the floral exhibit in plain view. If you do not draw a flower, this rule may be disregarded. Counting is difficult at first. For beginners, a safe rule is "When in doubt, double your score." If you do not read newspaper instructions, you will readily master the game's rules.

TORRENTS.

I know that if our lives could meet
Like torrents in a sudden tide,
Our souls should send their shining sheet
Of waters far and wide.

But, ah! my dear, the springs of mine
Have never yet begun to flow—
And yours, that were so full and fine,
Ran dry so long ago. Jupiter.

Purdue Signals.

A Purdue alumnus of the early '90's when the Lafayette eleven was western champion, informs us that the football team of that time had only three signals. Two fingers extended on the right hand meant the right half was to carry the ball, two fingers on the left hand the left half, while one finger straight down indicated the fullback. We will forward the suggestion to Coach Phelan.

No Time For Signals.

Purdue's signals suggest the noted fullback of the Columbia, Mo., Negro town team, of whom Helper C. J. once told us. Capt. Bootler Brown used to call to his backfield, so the story runs, "Niggahs, you all needs a rest. Interference is sumpin Ah don't crave much of." Then he would proceed to advance the ball by his own efforts. Sometimes, it would be "Dis ain't no time fo signals. We needs a touchdown."

His Favorite Literature.

One of the regular luncheon crowd asked the head waiter at the Palmer house if he had a Racing Form about him. As the head waiter withdrew the form sheet from his pocket and handed it over, he replied very seriously, "I always have it. Fact is, it's the only newspaper I read regular."

SWEDE SMASHES MILE SWIM MARK

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Jan. 30.—Arne Borg of Sweden broke the world's record for the one mile swim today, swimming the distance in 22:34.

[The previous world's records for the one mile swim have been, for open water, 23:30 4-5, held by Frank Beaurepaire of Australia, and for the tank 22:39 1-5, held by Norman Ross of Chicago.]

SIKI ON DECK IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 30.—Battling Siki arrived here intact today for his ten round bout here tomorrow night with Joe Lohman of Toledo. Local promoters had worried about his appearing, as he had missed one train scheduled to bring him here from Chicago.

LEWIS PINS SANDERS.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 30.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis successfully defended his world's heavyweight wrestling championship here tonight by defeating Elmer Sanders of New York City in two straight falls.

STEINKE AGREES TO MEET ZBYSZKO AT U. S. MAT STYLE

When Stanislaus Zbyszko, former heavyweight champion, and Hans Steinke, the giant German, meet in the main event of the wrestling show at Dexter pavilion on Feb. 6, American rules (catch as catch can) will prevail. Steinke has realized he cannot make himself a bigger man than the game which made him. Accordingly, he withdrew his effort to dictate that the match be held under Græco-Roman rules, and will meet Zbyszko on the understanding that all locks except the strangle hold can be used.

More Money for German.

The German was given a little more percentage for agreeing to the American style. Jack Herman, who looks after the interests of Zbyszko, agreed to slice his end a bit if Steinke would agree to the grappling rules which prevail in this country. As a result, all details of the match are settled, and both grapplers have settled down to training with a vengeance.

Steinke spends most of his time between the swimming pool at the Central Y. M. C. A. and Ferretti's gymnasium. Zbyszko is working at the Union League club. As the match will go to an absolute finish, both must be prepared for a gruelling contest, which may run into the wee hours of the next morning.

Lewis Ready to Fight.

Despite threats of Montana Jack McCarthy to resort to his fists to break the headlocks, which Strangler Lewis, heavyweight champion, will apply at the Star and Garter on Friday night, the titleholder asserted he will carry his nutcracker into the ring and apply it just as often as the occasion demands. Lewis maintains the hold is positively legal.

13 TEAMS BID FOR CHICAGO YOUTH; GOES TO GIANTS

New York, Jan. 30.—Paul Florence, Chicago youth who made a reputation as a baseball player and all around athlete at Georgetown university, was sought by thirteen other major league clubs before he signed for 1924 with the New York Giants. High regard for John J. McGraw's ability as a manager and tutor of young players led Florence to accept the offer of the National league champions, it is said.

Florence starred as a basketball, baseball, and football player at Georgetown, captaining teams in each of these branches of sport. He had one year of study, but decided to report to the Giants this spring.

Florence was born in Chicago twenty-two years ago. He is over six feet tall and weighs 195 pounds. He was a star at Loyola academy in Chicago.

2 Chicagoans to Join Minor League Ranks

Two Chicagoans have been appointed on minor league baseball teams. Preston W. Gray, who pitched last season for Logan Square, was announced as the new manager of the Rock Island club of the Mississippi Valley league, and Jerome D. Blitvernicht, former Notre Dame university captain, was signed to catch for the Decatur Commies.

SPEED TRAPS

Speed Trap is a misnomer for an evil that every motorist who has owned a car for any length of time knows to his sorrow still exists.

The object is not to trap speeders, but to shake down motorists of all kinds, including the most law abiding as well as an occasional actual offender. Speed traps breed a spirit of resentment, and sometimes a distrust of the law. They are operated by brigands who masquerade their villainy under the protecting mantle of the law.

When a motorist is arrested and fined in some outlying village, not because he has violated any law, but because he has the money, he naturally is inclined to believe that there is not much use in being a law-abiding citizen.

That is not good reasoning, but it is more or less natural reaction. In any event, speed traps out of town breed law violation.

There are many upright justices of the peace and police magistrates; in fact, the great majority are reputable men. The unscrupulous justice tends to damage the reputations of the many upright justices.

The Chicago Motor Club fostered a bill at the last session of the Illinois Legislature, which is now a law that prohibits the collection of the $3 trial fee when a plea of guilty is entered.

The Chicago Motor Club asks victims of speed traps to report cases of extortion in a letter to the Club.

The New York Times.

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—It would not be easy to describe today's stock market except in terms of professional speculation.

The exceedingly violent advance in certain industrial stocks at the market's opening was equally ascribed to hasty "covering of bear commitments" by speculators who had guessed wrong on Tuesday regarding the steel corporation's dividend and to concerted bidding-up of prices by other speculators who were taking advantage of that circumstance. The tumultuous market which prevailed in the first half hour or so of business had no other visible significance.

The impulse given to prices by the "over night surprise" of the steel directors spent its force rather quickly. The rest of the day was made up of readjustment from the early movement, and, in spite of the considerable net advances scored by three or four industrial stocks, the market as a whole ended the day at a slight decline from Tuesday.

A block of 7,000 shares of Steel sold at 106 at the opening, an advance of 3⅝ from Tuesday's close. The second sale of 1,500 shares was for 105¾, the price later going to 107, the highest price since April, 1922, closing the day at 105½, a net advance of 2¼.

The result would seem to indicate that, while existing resources of credit make it easy to drive up the market, the professional experts who conduct the movements are disposed to realize profits quickly. In the end the market presented a highly confusing mixture of advances and declines, some of the changes in each direction being large, but most of them only fractional.

Sterling and the franc resumed their movement of recovery. The rate on London rose 1⅛ cent, to $4.26¾, the highest in nearly three weeks and comparing with the low figure for the month, $4.20½, barely a week ago. Francs went to 4⅝ cents, as against the month's low rate of 4¼.

Don't Lock the Stable Door After the Horse is Stolen

Many investors buy first—and then investigate. Looking into a security after depreciation has severely reduced the principal, is like locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen.

Ordinary common sense demands a thorough preliminary investigation and capable and unbiased investment counsel. Often the searchlight of cold-blooded analysis reveals unsuspected weakness not apparent upon first examination.

For sixteen years Moody's Service has been used by institutions and individuals as a guide to safe investment. To be able to analyze a security correctly requires years of practical experience, special facilities for research and a vast fund of readily accessible and authentic information. These qualifications we have.

How these facilities can be turned to your benefit is carefully explained in our booklet, "Constructive Investing". This may be had without charge by interested investors.

Make Selling Simple

Get prospects who want what you have to offer. Eliminate the need of high-pressure salesmanship. There are plenty of Tribune Readers who know what they want to buy and are only waiting to find the thing they want.

Mr. W. E. Odom, 737 Belden Ave., found selling easy when this Want Ad was used in the January 3 Tribune:

JORDAN—TOUR., IN EXC. COND.; CORD tires; new top and curtains; $200 cash. ODOM, 737 Belden-av.

"My Want Ad was ordered for a week but canceled the second day. The first person who answered bought the car."

Selling can be made easy for you, too. Tribune Want Ads are the first step to a sale.

Modern Chicago, 251 years after Pere Marquette's first visit

Pere Marquette bringing his message to the Indians of the Mississippi Valley, 1673

PERE MARQUETTE—gentle, fearless, self-sacrificing—zest of the explorer always overshadowed by zeal of the missionary—he was one of the few trail-blazers of history who was not governed by any thought of financial gain or glory.

People of the Mississippi Valley will always cherish the memory of "le bon Pere" and his companion, Louis Joliet, for they were the first Frenchmen to explore the Great River (1673) and the first to visit the spot where Chicago now stands.

It is not without a feeling of pride that we record the achievements of our illustrious namesake. With such traditions to inspire us, we would be unworthy of his name if we did not serve always to the limit of our ability.

502 Chicago Tribune Towns

It is generally recognized that The Saturday Evening Post is the most powerful of American periodicals. Its circulation in each of these 502 towns is therefore given beside that of The Chicago Sunday Tribune. Note that even in towns outside of Cook County The Sunday Tribune has much more than double the circulation of this great magazine. And readers pay from two to three times as much for The Tribune as for The Post. Considering these facts it is only natural that The Tribune should be a powerful selling influence in these hundreds of outside towns as well as in Cook County.

*Cook County towns not spotted on map. Total, 31 towns.
Towns in which circulation of leading National Weekly exceeds that of Sunday Tribune. Total, 25 towns.

	Number of Towns	Population Families	Circulation Leading National Weekly	Sunday Tribune Circulation	Sunday Tribune Coverage

Balance of Chicago Territory	471	661,283	118,804	298,576	45.1%

THERE are only forty-five towns in the five states of The Chicago Territory which have morning newspapers of their own and only forty-eight which publish Sunday newspapers. Therefore, in hundreds of communities the residents, both men and women, look upon The Chicago Tribune as THEIR paper.

The map above shows the location of 471 towns of more than one thousand population located outside of Cook County. In every one of these towns the number of Tribunes sold exceeds one-fifth the number of families and in many cases it exceeds one-half. There are 31 similar towns in Cook County.

In addition to these 502 towns of more than a thousand population there are 562 towns of less than a thousand population in these same five states in which The Tribune reaches at least one-fifth of the families.

These 1064 towns are the very cream of the corn belt—centers of industry and agriculture. Their people have both the intelligence and the money to make your advertising pay.

For seventy-seven years The Chicago Tribune has been building good will and prestige in this Central Western market.

Bruce Bliven recently said of an Iowa town: "The Chicago Tribune is our Bible, giving us all we know of what is going on in the world in general." The representative of Illinois at the National Booksellers' Convention said of his state, "Like all Gaul, it is divided into three parts, Chicago, The Tribune, and Illinois." The Tribune maintains its own world-wide news service and spends millions of dollars annually for the material it prints.

No wonder people of the Central West speak familiarly of it as "The W. G. N.," the initials standing for "World's Greatest Newspaper." No wonder Tribune advertising yields sales in volume quite out of proportion either to circulation or to rates.

The Tribune has men trained not only in advertising but in merchandising who know by repeated contacts with jobber and dealer just how to get the most out of Chicago Tribune advertising. If you want to build sales in this rich market ask a Tribune man to call and discuss the matter. It involves no obligation on your part and may prove for you, as it has for others, quickly profitable. Business is as good as we make it.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

BEAUTY SHOPS REPLACE LIQUOR AS COIN MAGNET

BY SCRUTATOR.

"Billions for beauty, not a cent for tribute" would seem to be an appropriate revision of an old American slogan, under the new gynocracy, as congress moves toward repeal of luxury taxes. And on every hand new drug stores rise before one, as in a dream, to supply the ritualistic needs of the cult.

Count that day lost which brings forth no new skin food nor magic beauty earth.

One may search the classified telephone directory in vain for the serried columns of type that used to march under the proud caption "Saloons." "Buffets" have dwindled to half a column—and the word now means what it says to the thirsty. But turn, gentle reader, to "Ladies Hairdressers."

Ah, they are all there—pages of Pollys, Helens and Mays, many Marys, lissome Louises, airy fairy Lillians—more than 1,000 of them, and the cheery chimes of the cash register peal from dawn to dewy eve.

At least 6,000 men and women are employed in these beauty shops. There is one for every 3,000 population, one for every 1,200 women at least. Even in the gladdest, maddest days of malt and hops this would have been a feasible allotment of saloons, although there might have been some straphanging at the bar on rough evenings. But strong men shuddered twenty years ago when reformers proposed to ration saloons on a basis of one to every 1,000 population.

Oh, yes, they tax cosmetics, but 'tis a piffling impost compared to the ancient levy upon our beer and liquor. The records of that "luxury" tax indicate gross retail sales of over $750,000,000 a year and a rate of increase that brings the billion mark in sight. That's over half of "our nation's drink bill" in the days when the W. C. T. U. featured the figure.

Economists who have been wondering where the hooch money now goes may find a clew here.

With more than 1,000 feminine beauty shrines, the ladies are nevertheless taking our barber shops. The average bob is 75 cents, and that means a hair trim every fifteen days at the same price or near it. More millions!

Here is the average weekly beauty shop expenditure of women and girls employed in one office, a west side establishment far from the glitter of loop or Wilson avenue: "Facial," $1; wave, $1.25 to $1.50; manicure, 75 cents; brow pluck, 50 cents."

Salaries in that office range from $22 a week to big figures, as it is a business in which women excel, because of special ability.

Permanent waves at from $25 to $55 are affected by only a few. But as soon as some smart young financier forms an acceptance corporation to finance their purchase on the installment plan—oh, boy!

These things are not said in disparagement. Long may the lip stick and the marcel wave! It is only another symptom of the democratic economic era caused by mass production, like our millions of motor and our half a million chronic bond buyers, who have succeeded the scant thousands of a generation ago. Need one be surprised that the ladies have now institutionalized the boudoir and popularized its rites just because only grand dames and actresses a few years ago could afford to patronize hairdressers?

An old time reporter was discussing changing news values yesterday. With the writer, he lamented the passing of the good old sob stories.

It made you feel good to write 'em, and folks liked to read 'em. Many streams of help and charity were started from them. The old timer blamed the war. "Made folks hard. You can't get a rise with the poor working girl after all the Belgian grief," he said.

The writer remembered half a phone conversation overheard the day before. Beatrice called up to get a "booking" a week ahead for a shampoo and marcel at the hands of far famed Felipe—only that isn't his name. "I just got to have him, honey; he's the best in town," she cooed into the receiver.

So passes pathos.

DRY GOODS AND GARMENT NEWS

[Copyright: 1924: Fairchild News Service.]

PARIS.—French dye interests are opposing the proposed merger of the German dye cartel with the British corporation on the ground that the agreement would prevent them gaining even a foothold in world trade. It is claimed that the consolidation will have a similar effect on the American chemical industry. United States government officials are said to be investigating the merger scheme in the light of its possible effect on United States trade.

NEW YORK.—P. O. O'Connell of the E. T. Slattery company, Boston, was again elected head of the Stores Specialty association department stores group. A. V. Dilly of the Lindner company, Cleveland, was elected secretary.

NEW YORK.—Quiet again prevailed in the gray goods market, but although the volume of actual trading was small and inquiry was not up to expectations, there was no further weakening in prices. $3,000,000

Commercial Investment Trust Corporation

7% Cumulative First Preferred Stock

Par value $100. Preferred as to both Assets and Dividends. Redeemable as a whole or in part on any dividend date at $110 per share and accrued dividends. Dividends payable January 1, April 1, July 1 and October 1. Total 7% Cumulative First Preferred Stock, authorized and issued, $6,000,000. Common Stock (no par value), authorized 360,000 shares, issued 350,000 shares. The New York Trust Company, Registrar. Central Trust Company of New York, Transfer Agent. A sinking fund provides for the retirement on or before January 31 of each year of First Preferred Stock at the rate of 3% per annum of the greatest amount at any time outstanding by purchase at not exceeding 110 and accrued dividends or by redemption at that price. It is intended to make application in due course to list on the New York Stock Exchange.

From his letter, Henry Ittleson, Esq., President, summarizes as follows:

Commercial Investment Trust Corporation through its subsidiaries does a business supplementing the usual financing done by banks. The business in large part consists of financing manufacturers and merchants by purchasing evidences of indebtedness arising from the sale of a large variety of nationally marketed products such as automobiles, electrical appliances and machinery. Commercial Investment Trust Incorporated, doing approximately 90% of the present business of the Corporation, operates under the Investment Section of the Banking Law of the State of New York and is under the supervision of the State Superintendent of Banks.

Consolidated net earnings after taxes and all other charges, available for dividends, including subsidiaries on basis of present ownership, as certified by public accountants, have been as follows:

Year Ended December 31	Net Earnings	Average Total Capital Stock Outstanding	Per Cent Earned for Average Total Capital Stock	Average Preferred Stock Outstanding	Per Cent Earned for Average Preferred Stock	Average Common Stock Outstanding	Net Earnings Available for Dividends on Common Stock
1919	$ 270,322	$2,000,000	13.5	$ 750,000	36.0	$1,250,000	$ 217,822
1920	507,762	3,000,000	16.9	1,409,722	36.0	1,590,278	409,081
1921	574,764	3,333,333	17.2	1,601,389	35.8	1,731,944	462,667
1922	1,088,462	4,055,556	26.8	1,930,556	56.3	2,125,000	955,462
1923	1,858,506	6,458,333	28.7	3,000,000	61.9	3,458,333	1,648,506

On November 5, 1923, stockholders purchased for cash $1,750,000 Common Stock. Although 28.7% was earned on capital employed in 1923, an allowance of only 6% on the use of funds obtained from the sale of that stock and from the present financing, would have increased 1923 earnings to approximately $2,150,000, or more than five times the annual dividend requirement on First Preferred Stock outstanding upon completion of this financing and equivalent after such Preferred Stock dividend requirement to approximately $5 per share on the Common Stock outstanding upon completion of this financing.

The corporation's consolidated assets consist almost entirely of cash and receivables which are constantly liquidating into cash. The consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 1923, after giving effect to the present financing, shows cash and receivables, after deducting all liabilities, aggregating more than $200 for each $100 of First Preferred Stock.

During the eight years ended December 31, 1923, total obligations purchased or discounted (including subsidiaries since acquisition only) exceeded $256,000,000, while credit losses were approximately $251,000—less than 1/10 of 1%.

The above First Preferred Stock is offered for delivery if, when, and as issued and received, subject to approval of legality by counsel, Messrs. Root, Clark, Buckner & Howland. It is expected that delivery in the form of temporary stock certificates or interim receipts will be made on or about February 8, 1924.

Price $98 Per Share and Accrued Dividend

(The Purchaser of each share of First Preferred Stock may purchase simultaneously 1⅓ shares of Common Stock at $30 per share.)

The determination of Christopher Columbus example for all the ages

COLUMBUS, sailing westward across uncharted seas, will forever remain a shining example of Determination personified. A less determined man would never have reached the ear of the Spanish queen, a less determined man would never have trusted his fortunes to the frail caravels, or withstood the protests of mutinous sailors. But Columbus had determination of no common order—and Success crowned his efforts.

DETERMINATION is one of the attributes which give character and standing to a business house. Leight, Holzer & Company, in the beginning determined to market nothing but safe, sound, reliable First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds. It determined to make the name—Leight, Holzer—stand for genuine and assured safety in investing. It has never swerved from this determination—and it never will.

CHICAGO REGION LEADS OUTPUT OF STEEL INDUSTRY

BY O. A. MATHER.

The steel industry again held the limelight yesterday. The unexpected high earnings and dividend increase by the United States Steel corporation were explained to a degree by the optimistic midweek reviews.

Production of both steel and iron is expanding and now stands at the highest point since last spring, and in this movement the Chicago district continues in the lead. The steel corporation now is operating at 90 per cent of capacity, but its subsidiaries in the Chicago district are doing about 93 per cent. Operations of the independents range from 75 to 90 per cent. While consumption of steel has not expanded as fast as production, the steel mills are preparing for an expected larger demand this spring, as well as insuring against a possible coal strike.

New Inquiries Numerous.

"The steel corporation's earnings reflect the higher price level reached late last year, as well as success in counteracting higher costs of the eight hour day," the Iron Age says. "Appropriation of $400,000,000 for plant improvements in 1923 calls attention to the fact that since its organization the corporation has paid in dividends $1,155,000,000 and has appropriated for new construction $1,125,000,000, or practically dollar for dollar.

"The volume of new inquiries is large, but the amount of actual business done is slightly below the preceding week," the Iron Trade states. "Thus far this month orders taken by the steel corporation and at least one of the largest independents exceeded shipments. Actual bookings of freight car orders appear to have been much heavier than generally known. Structural steel awards declined sharply."

Pennsylvania Crude Advanced.

The oil and automobile industries also produced cheerful news yesterday. Another advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil was announced, the best grades being raised 25 cents a barrel and lower grades 15 cents.

The new top price of $4.50 a barrel exceeds the best price of last year. The current advance, moreover, suggests that a further advance in midcontinent crude oil is not far off. A further decline in output in the Powell field in Texas is reported, while gasoline consumption is increasing. Gasoline prices were advanced yesterday in the east and south. A bit of adverse news, however, was the action of the Buckeye Pipe Line company in reducing its quarterly dividend to $1, compared with $1.50 paid in the preceding quarter and $1.75 in three previous quarters.

Automobile Output Increases.

"Reports from automobile producing centers show a gradual mounting of schedules, with indications that by the last of this month practically all major producers will be at capacity," Automotive Industries, says. "The output for the month is expected to exceed by a comfortable margin the 303,148 units reported for December and will surpass by a wide figure January of last year, when production aggregated 243,539 units. Manufacturers are looking forward to an extraordinary selling season."

After preferred dividends, a balance of about $400,000, or 66 cents a share, is indicated for the 601,400 shares of nonpar common stock outstanding. The directors voted to retire 11,880 shares of preferred stock. Current assets and liabilities are about $47,000,000 and $12,725,000, respectively.

OUTSIDE BUYING SENDS UP WHEAT AND OATS PRICES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A material broadening in the outside trade in wheat and oats swept the nearby deliveries of oats up to a new high for the season while May wheat at $1.11 was the highest since Dec. 7, and a bulge to above $1.10 was maintained for the first time since that date.

An outstanding feature of the trade was the persistent buying in small lots by commission houses, whcih was highly effective in absorbing the surplus in the pits. Bullish sentiment is gradually crystallizing in both wheat and corn and the aggregate trade was the best in some time.

Closing trades were at net gains of ⅝@1⅛c on wheat, with September leading, while oats were unchanged to ⅛c higher at the last, the late break in corn being largely responsible for the reaction from the high point. Corn closed ⅝@⅝c lower, with rye unchanged to ⅛c higher.

May Wheat for Sale.

The upturn in wheat was in the face of considerable opposition, as there were numerous resting orders to sell May at $1.10½, and selling orders again were encountered at $1.11. The finish was at $1.10⅝@1.10⅝c for May, with July at $1.09@1.08⅝ and September at $1.08¼@1.08⅜.

Sentiment in corn is so decidedly mixed that sharp fluctuations in the price are to be expected. There was persistent selling by commission houses early, but the pit element became overconfident, and when buying orders appeared there was little for sale. A sharp bulge followed, which lifted May to 80½c, but the finish was at 79⅝c, due to a rush of selling toward the last. July closed at 80@79⅞c.

May oats managed to get above 49c for the first time on the crop, resting orders at that figure being finally absorbed, but the finish was on a reaction at 48⅞@49c. Sentiment is still favorable to the buying side. Reports from the south indicated the recent cold weather had damaged winter sown grain. Receipts, 63 cars.

Rye was dull and prices held within narrow limits, the market making a poor response to the strength in wheat.

Packers Sell Lard.

Weakness in hogs and selling by packers had a depressing effect on provisions early, but the strength in grains and covering by shorts brought about a rally, with the finish 2½c lower to 5c higher on lard, unchanged to 5c lower on ribs, and 2½@7½c lower on bellies. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Wheat sales in all positions at the seaboard were estimated at 300,000 bu. in addition to a fair business said to have been done by Canadian exporters. There were indications of some business in rye, but sales could not be confirmed.

Chicago handlers sold 65,000 bu wheat, 90,000 bu corn, 105,000 bu oats, and 5,000 bu barley to the domestic trade. Deliveries on January contracts were 5,000 bu corn.

Demand for cash wheat shows signs of increasing, with the basis here about unchanged at May price to 4c over for No. 2 hard and 2@4c over May for No. 2 red. Receipts, 17 cars. St. Louis was 1@2c higher on red and ½@1c higher on hard winter, with Kansas City and Omaha unchanged to 1c higher. Minneapolis reported several round lots of wheat sold for all rail shipment.

Basis on cash corn declined ¼@½c at Chicago, with No. 3 mixed 3@3¼c and yellow 1¼@2¼c under May, while white was ¼@1c under. Receipts, 318 cars. Outside markets showed considerable strength, with St. Louis unchanged to ½c higher, Kansas City ½@1c higher, and Omaha unchanged to 1c higher, while Peoria and Milwaukee were unchanged.

Offerings of cash oats were about equal to the demand, with the basis unchanged at May price to ½c over and No. 3 white May to ½c under. Receipts, 63 cars.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

A more bullish sentiment prevailed among wheat traders after the close last night than for some time past, the belief being expressed that the market was getting out of the rut, and that while there was to be numerous setbacks that ultimately values were to go higher.

Rapid price changes are expected to be witnessed in corn, and while the local bulls, headed by Mincer and Blum, were able to advance values after the early break, free profit taking later led to a sharp decline. There was evidence during the day that country longs were commencing to let go.

Herbert J. Blum, one of the best known local traders, announced yesterday that he was through with the bear side of wheat for the time being and expressed the belief that the market was a purchase on all dips. Bearish influences, he believes, have lost their effect, and there is no burdensome surplus east of the Rockies.

Apprehension of damage to the new winter wheat crop is increasing, as the snow protection has been removed over the greater part of the belt. Late reports from west Texas suggested that a material decrease in the acreage to grain would be witnessed this year owing to the high prices being paid for cotton, which would increase the area under the latter.

Nat C. Murray of Clement, Curtis & Co. will give a talk in the visitors' room of the Board of Trade tomorrow on "Government Crop Reporting." Mr. Murray, as chief statistician of the department, was instrumental in putting into effect the present method of agricultural forecasting.

N. B. Updike of Omaha was out with a decidedly bullish summary of the domestic wheat, corn and oats situation. He expects the supply of oats at terminal markets, country elevator points and on farms will be short before another crop is harvested.

Sale of I.-G. N. Railroad Reported Negotiated

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—A tentative sale of the International-Great Northern to the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Railway company has been completed, it was learned today. The terms of the sale were not made public, although it is understood, the purchase price is in excess of the $27.50 a share offered by the St. Louis-San Francisco last year.

MERGER OF CITY ELEVATED LINES IS COMPLETED

BY O. A. MATHER.

The merger of Chicago's four elevated lines became an accomplished fact yesterday, and hereafter the new system will be known as the Chicago Rapid Transit company. The sale of the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated to the new company was confirmed and approved by the United States District court. This road had been in receivership for several years. The other three lines, the Northwestern, Metropolitan, and South Side, previously had arranged to consolidate.

Through the consolidation and recapitalization, the preferred and common stocks of the old companies, aggregating nearly $45,000,000, are wiped out. Holders of securities of the old companies will receive new securities in amounts fixed in the recently published plan of reorganization.

Capitalization Is $86,492,500.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company will start with a total capitalization of $86,492,500, apportioned as follows: Capital stock, of $100 par value, $20,329,500; first lien and refunding bonds, due July 1, 1953, $1,600,000; adjustment debenture bonds, $18,563,000; mortgage indebtedness of old companies outstanding, $43,380,000; and equipment trust obligations, payable in semi-annual installments, $2,620,000.

The total capitalization is about $2,000,000 less than the present value of the proprieties based on a valuation made in 1921 by the Illinois public utilities commission. The new company cannot issue additional mortgage bonds, but it is intended to finance future improvements through the sale of first lien and refunding obligations and preferred stock.

The fixed interest charges of the new company will be about $2,400,000 annually, and it is believed earnings will provide a comfortable margin over such charges. Any such margin may be used to pay interest and dividends on the junior obligations or additional securities that may be issued.

Trustees Control Properties.

The management of the new company will be vested in three trustees—George M. Reynolds, R. Floyd Clinch, and Samuel Insull. The entire capital stock will be held for a number of years by these trustees under a voting trust agreement. The directors are Mr. Insull, Mr. Clinch, A. G. Hoyt, Britton I. Budd, and John H. Gulick. The officers are Samuel Insull, chairman; Britton I. Budd, president; R. Floyd Clinch and E. C. Noe, vice presidents; B. J. Fallon, vice president and general manager; William V. Griffin, secretary and treasurer. Edward A. Brion, controller; T. B. McRae, auditor; Florence M. O'Donnell, assistant secretary, and L. C. Torrey, assistant treasurer.

FINANCIAL NOTES

In the initial outburst of buying yesterday a number of stocks, such as Davis Chemical, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, General Electric, Pan-American A and B, American Can, Baldwin, Bethlehem, and Republic Steels were pushed up to nearly six points, but these gains were either materially reduced or cancelled before the close. American Woolen, National Lead, and other issues which had failed to jump at the opening were the subsequent target of bear attacks, Woolen losing 2⅝ points and Lead 5¼ on the day.

American Can was again active and strong, touching a new top for all time at 120⅝. Other strong spots included U. S. Alcohol, Mackay Companies, Willys-Overland preferred, Phillips Petroleum, Atlantic Refining, and Associated Dry Goods, up 2 to 5 points. Southern Railway also established a record price at 44⅛. Good buying was noted in Atchison, New York Central, and Union Pacific, but early gains were not maintained.

Reactionary price movements continued to characterize trading in the curb market, although there were a few individual strong spots in the oil group, particularly Magnolia Petroleum, which advanced 3½ points on reports that the Standard Oil Company of New York, which owns about half the common stock, was preparing to assume full control. Buckeye Pipe broke nine points. Standard Oil of Nebraska, Solar, Crescent Pipe, South Pacific Oil, and New York Transit moved up 1 to 3½ points.

Bond prices generally held firm, with United States government treasury issues maintaining their recent strength and Serbian, Jugo-Slav, and City of Greater Prague bonds rallying sharply on the negotiation of favorable treaties with Italy. Renewed activity in the Liberty second and fourth 4¼s was attributed to a resumption of British buying, which always has centered on these issues. Prices were unchanged at the close.

Seasoned Bonds

We are now offering a limited number of choice first mortgage bonds that have been outstanding several years. In many cases substantial parts of the issues have been paid off and the full amounts of the original fixed assets remain pledged for the outstanding bonds which we now offer. In all cases the companies have been successful for a long period of years and have promptly paid principal and interest when due. We recommend these bonds for conservative investment to yield 6½% to 7%.

YOU telegraph from New York to San Francisco, you ride in trolley cars, subways, railway trains, you read by electric light, cook with gas, talk over the telephone—because people had sufficient confidence in these enterprises to put over thirty billion dollars ($30,000,000,000) into their development.

The Harris Organization for more than forty years has helped finance these corporations. In doing so we have not only assisted in the remarkable development of this country, but have helped to provide safe investments for thousands of thrifty men and women in every state in the union.

We shall be pleased to send you our present list of selected public service corporation and railroad bonds yielding from 5 to 6½ per cent, which we have carefully investigated and recommend for safe investment.

Excessive offerings caused a big slump in hog values, the top and average price going to the lowest level of the year thus far at $7.05 and $6.90 respectively. There was a general decline of 15@20c, but the market closed comparatively strong at the break. Packers and shippers purchased freely and only 10,000 of the 66,000 on sale remained in the pens.

Hog receipts at 48,000 were beyond expectations and practically a third larger than the previous Wednesday. Allowing for today's advanced estimate of 60,000, January receipts will total 1,335,000, or 57,500 more than the previous high month at the Chicago stockyards. Downtown packers received about 8,000 "directs" from the country this month, which are not included in the 1,335,000.

Comparatively small cattle receipts met with a rather indifferent demand at slightly changed prices, yet most classes are quotable 25@50c higher than last week's close. Butcher stock shared in the general advance. Several loads of 1,070@1,133 lb steers topped the market at $11.00. Choice heavy steers were scarce, nothing selling above $10.75. Cows and heifers sold largely at $4.50@6.50. Calves closed about 25c off from Tuesday.

Lambs Reach $14.50.

Both sheep and lambs are selling at the highest prices of the year so far, with top lambs yesterday at $14.50 standing highest since September, while ewes, quoted at $8.65, are highest since May. Yearlings were highest since July. Further advances of 15@25c in the feeder division yesterday forced shearing lambs to $13.75, highest for that class in more than four months.

The smallest Wednesday lamb offering in more than a year held values on a firm to unevenly higher basis, in spite of the depressed dressed meat markets in the east and the lack of outside demand. Aged sheep shared in the general strength, fall clipped 108 lb Texas aged wethers selling at $8.50. Yearlings were scarce.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 60,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 8,771 cattle, 54,708 hogs, and 11,361 sheep the corresponding Thursday a year ago.

Stavrum & Shafer, Ad Firm, to Be Liquidated

Liquidation of the advertising firm of Stavrum & Shafer, Inc., will soon be under way and the company cease to function, according to an announcement made yesterday. E. A. Stavrum and W. D. Shafer have joined the staff of the H. E. Lesan advertising agency of New York and have been placed in charge of the Chicago office of the firm. New offices have been leased in the Southern Pacific building, 37 West Jackson boulevard, where the Lesan agency will function on or about Feb. 15.

Tobey & Kirk announce that, effective Feb. 15, they are to discontinue their Chicago office. Announcement also is made that William Kempton Johnson, Clarence J. Blaker, and Otto Antonsen have retired as general partners of Tobey & Kirk and have been admitted as general partners in the firm of Prince & Whitely, a New York stock exchange house, which will open a Chicago office in the quarters now occupied by Tobey & Kirk.

SEVENTY ACRES IN TESSVILLE BRING $260,000

BY AL CHASE.

Seventy acres of former farm land in Tessville, just a block or so north of the city limits, which at that point is Devon avenue, were sold yesterday by the Anna Maria Proesel estate to Noble & Thumm, plumbing supplies, for $260,000, which is at the rate of $3,714 an acre.

The property is bounded on the west by Crawford avenue and on the north by Pratt and extends east to Central Park avenue. It is crossed by Lincoln avenue, by East Prairie road, and by the Mayfair division of the Northwestern. It is just across Crawford from the Bryn Mawr Golf club grounds.

Across Central Park avenue, to the east, is a fifty acre tract bought by Noble & Thumm some time ago. This gives them a combined holding of 120 acres. The buyers say they have no immediate plans for the property, but intend eventually to subdivide it. Nicholas A. Fischer was attorney for the seller and D. A. Clithero for the buyers.

To Build Fifty-five Two Flats.

Fifty-five lots in the northwest tip of Albany Park have been bought by a syndicate from Joseph Goodman for a reported $65,000 and fifty-five two flat buildings will be erected. Contracts have been let for ten, fifteen lots have been sold to a builder who intends to improve with fifteen two flats at once, and the balance will be sold to those who will improve at once.

The property includes the entire block bounded by Foster, Avers, Springfield, and Carmen; also the west frontage on Springfield, between Carmen and Argyle. Samuel Baumgarten, a member of the syndicate, took title and then transferred it to the Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company, trustee. Nicholas A. Fischer was attorney for Mr. Goodman and David L. Golden for the syndicate.

U. of C. Adds to Campus.

The University of Chicago has bought 110x130 on the east side of Drexel, 213 feet south of 58th, from Charles Michel and Anna Berg, for $53,500. This gives the Midway institution ownership of the entire block bounded by Ingleside, Drexel, 58th, and 59th.

The four story fireproof store, office, and flat building at the northeast corner of State and 31st, 100x81, was sold by Harry W. Overman to Frank W. Griffin for a reported $150,000, subject to $59,500. Freeman, Mason & Igoe were attorneys for the buyer and the Lincoln State bank represented the seller.

The two story building at 1308-18 East 47th, containing stores, offices, and flats, was sold by J. C. Wilkinson of J. C. Wilkinson & Co., realtors, to Julius M. Sider, for a reported $107,000, subject to $73,700. The lot is 110x100.

"This new way of selling clothes beats owning a store. Any earnest worker can easily make $4,000 to $5,000 a year net without investment or financial risk," says William Garden, former merchant, who started with us two years ago.

Other former merchants now happy and prosperous with us are De Lounge, Pack, Carter, Bogen, Lee, and Peck. They earn as much or more than ever; have no investment or financial worries, and are building a constantly growing business.

We are now making the best suit that we ever produced retailing at $31.50. Our values are remarkable. Our fit and style so good that you can sell the best trade. Every fabric is virgin wool. Every garment tailored to order. Our all wool summer suits retail for $21.50. Both the $31.50 and $21.50 lines are red-hot sellers.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

MAN—AN OPPORTUNITY AND GOOD FUTURE for young man to sell men's caps; must have reference; salary and commission. For appointment call Monroe 4096.

MEN—REAL MEN. I WANT YOU NOW!

My proposition is sound, safe, a big money maker if you'll work six days a week. Here's what my four [LOWEST PAID] men say:

Over five hundred in two weeks looks good to me as a beginning for one inexperienced in this work.

An aproach is a sale in this proposition. The assured profit seen creates a buyer. Salesmen make money independently here.

Unsurpassed, the smallest commission on the smallest daily sale is equal to the average man's weekly salary. Clean, honorable proposition.

I've made more money accidentally with Lonsford than with any other man on purpose.

This job of mine is quick work. No call-backs. "Sell 'em and get out," that's our rule. We give you live leads or you can dig out your own. It's a proposition where your customer can double his money in two years—meanwhile he pays no taxes, no interest, not a cent to spend!

Pretty good, isn't it? All right, then, read what our five [BEST MEN] have to say:

$350 a week for 4 months has convinced me that I have the finest and cleanest selling proposition in Chicago.

Stop looking, burn all bridges, join us, and work. Have averaged $1,347 for three months.

My commissions were over $900 the first 30 days in this work. Going bigger every month. For a sincere worker this is a grand opportunity.

All real salesmen are underpaid except here. Are you a real salesman? My average better than $1,500 per month.

After twenty-five years of continuous selling, must admit I am making more and working less than ever before. My earnings so far have exceeded those of the attorney general of the United States.

Can you beat that anywhere this side of Paradise? I should say not!

And that's all—except, if you want to try yourself out try to sell me. I'm in my office from 10 to 12 and 2 to 4—other hours by special appointment only, and to sell me over the telephone is just next door to impossible.

When will you come in?

NEW BUILDING.

Most attractive 4 room apts., living rm. 12x19, built-in baths; why pay high rent when you can live under our plan in the exclusive Edgewater district in a high grade building? Our co-operative plan will enable you to live in this building for $45 a month; our buildings are located where values are climbing rapidly; when you pay rent of $100 per month for 5 years you have paid out $6,000 with nothing to show for it; pay it to yourself and own your own apartment. 5501 Winthrop-av., corner Catalpa. AM I RIGHT?

$4,500 will pay 3 years' rent with nothing to show for it. It will buy a good car which will be worth less than $1,000 after 3 years, or it will pay for the equity of a 5 rm. sun parlor apt., 1 blk. from Sheridan-rd., which will increase in value in 3 years. You can occupy the apt. just the same as the rented one and you can stay there. The upkeep is less on the apt. than on the car. You can buy any one of these three items on terms. "OWN A HOME first." If you WILL pay rent and you MUST have a car, buy the one you need, a MOVING VAN.

DRAMATIC SCENE IN JUDGE FOELL'S COURT WHEN MRS. LELAND'S SON TELLS ATTORNEY THAT HE HAS NEVER TURNED FROM HIS MOTHER IN SPITE OF HER REVELATIONS. Harold Leland, 18 year old son of Mrs. Leland, is shown on the witness stand answering questions put to him by Attorney Moss, representing his mother. He has just expressed his love for his mother and his confidence in her. The boy's words had elicited a murmur of applause, which was soon silenced. It is noticeable that the "fans" who drink in every word of testimony are shielding their faces from the public.
